'MAD BUTCHER' BLAMED AFTER 3 FOUND MURDERED

Bodies Said To Have Been Shipped From Cleveland To Pittsburgh

TWO STATES IN HUNT FOR ACCUSED KILLER

Victims Of Madman Now Number 24, Without A Clue, Say Officers

PITTSBURGH, May 4.—(AP)—Grim-faced police officials of two states, taunted 10 years by a mad butcher who has counted his victims at more than a score, mobilized today for a manhunt from Pittsburgh, dumping ground for three more mutilated bodies.

Detectives came from Cleveland, home of the madman's meanderings, as they did from Youngstown, O., and New Castle, Pa., ports of call in a tour of death that led yesterday to a railroad siding near here where three surgically-sliced headless corpses were found in three boxcars.

The slaughterer's trail, twisted and obscured by perhaps several months of time, apparently traced back to Cleveland, where in the downtown Kingsbury Run section residents for years have been terrorized by a man with a knife who has killed and cut a dozen victims and left them dismembered in city dumps.

The trail seemed to follow the right of way of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad, which skirts Kingsbury Run, passes along New Castle's murder swamp, burial plot for a half-dozen victims, and then on to Youngstown, whence yesterday's decapitated men ultimately were consigned to the railroad's scrap and reclamation yards here.

Two of the bodies uncovered from crude wrappings had been cut into eight pieces by what morgue attendants said was an expert in the use of a surgeon's scalpel or a butcher knife. The third had the word "Nazi" carved across the chest in five-inch letters.

There were no identifying clues.

The nude victims, 30 to 40 years old, had been dead an estimated six weeks or two months.

The three cars arrived here April 21, the same day they were shipped from Struthers, suburban Youngstown, where railroad officials said they had stood idle in interchange yards for two days after 15 months in Youngstown yards. Found near one body

PARDON BOARD FAVORS DILLON

Clemency Recommended For Former Training School Superintendent

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—(AP)—Dr. Harvey Dillon, convicted of embezzling from the Louisiana Training institute where he had been superintendent, today had a recommendation for a pardon from the state pardon board.

This was the only such recommendation made by the board which last night turned down most of the pleas of nine election-day sluggers, ruling that all must serve prison terms.

Dillon was under sentence of 2 to 6 years in the penitentiary as a result of his conviction December 8, 1939, in district court at Monroe.

His attorney, J. R. Boone, declared before the board that the 66-year-old former school head had been the victim of "political powers adverse to your petitioner as the result of public hysteria."

Dillon's was the first of the political scandals cases to reach the board composed of Lieutenant Governor Coleman Lindsey, Attorney General Lessley Gardiner and the trial judge in each case.

Boone said his client had recently been hospitalized for treatment and is now at his residence in Many, La., in a serious physical condition.

"But I am not asking for sympathy, nor am I arguing my case on Dr. Dillon's physical condition. I am asking that the board set aside this absolute injustice."

After reading a petition in which it was asserted Dillon had been charged with embezzling such items as "second hand brickbats, fish hooks and potato slips," Boone said:

"This is one of the most glaring cases of political prosecution I think I have ever seen. He (Dillon) was the victim of political prosecution by the people whose enmity he had incurred during a political campaign in the parish."

Trial Judge J. T. Shell in a letter to the board, opposed clemency.

Monroe Votes Tuesday On Its City Officials

VETERANS ELECT MONROE OFFICERS

Several From This City Honored By Spanish War Convention

SHREVEPORT, La., May 4.—(AP)—S. Arthur Knapp, Lake Charles, was elected new state commander of the United Spanish War veterans and De Ridder named as the convention town for 1941 at the chief business session today of the 18th encampment of the order.

General J. Rosenthal, Alexandria, was elevated from junior vice-commander to senior vice-commander and Arthur Marullo, New Orleans, was elected junior vice-commander.

Commander Knapp indicated that he would reappoint J. St. Clair Favrot, Baton Rouge, state adjutant and Mark D. Wentz, Lake Charles, quartermaster.

John Sewall of Shreveport, former state commander, was installing officer and presented Preston A. Loyd of New Orleans, retiring state commander, with a past commander's jewel.

The day climaxed with a banquet tonight followed by the annual dance. A business session tomorrow morning will close the convention.

Mrs. Jennie V. Smith, Shreveport, was elected new auxiliary president at the afternoon session. She succeeds Mrs. Sarah Gossett of Monroe.

Other officers elected by the auxiliary were: Mrs. Eunice Franks, New Orleans, senior vice-president; Mrs. Mamie Arnett, Monroe, junior vice-president; Mrs. Clara Gebhard, New Orleans, chaplain; Mrs. Bessie Dail, De Ridder, patriotic instructor; Mrs. Beulah Inge, Baton Rouge, historian; Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, Monroe, conductress; Mrs. Mary Nick, New Orleans, assistant conductress; Mrs.

Many Seek Jobs Now Held By Local Municipal Incumbents

Voters of Monroe will go to the polls Tuesday to select a mayor, a commissioner of finance and public utilities, a commissioner of streets and parks, four members of the school board and six members of the city Democratic executive committee.

The campaign has been a quiet one, comparatively speaking, and so far none of the candidates have resorted to personalities in the battle for votes.

BROADCAST SCHEDULED

Results of the Tuesday primary in the municipal elections will be broadcast direct from the news room of the News-Star—World over station KMLB.

Reports will be received rapidly by the newspapers and will be available for the radio audience immediately. The returns will start coming in at about 8 o'clock, it is thought, and listeners are asked to tune in at that time.

Local residents are asked not to call the newspapers or the radio station by telephone, as that will retard gathering of returns.

The campaign apparently has been a personal canvass for ballots, and few have publicly announced their objectives.

In the mayor's race, the incumbent, Harvey H. Benoit, is faced with three opponents. They are E. M. Steen, prominent operator of several grocery stores here; R. (Dick) Downes, a former banker who now is engaged in the insurance business, and Elmer C. Slagle, former lumberman who is well known here.

D. A. Breard, former commissioner, and Bob Ed Tucker, a deputy city tax collector for many years, are opposing W. D. H. Rodriguez, incumbent,

Cooking School Planned For Three Days This Week

Details for the opening of the annual cooking school and home-makers' exposition of the News-Star—World in cooperation with Lever Brothers were being completed Saturday at Neville High school auditorium.

The school will be opened Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Special buses of the city of Monroe will be operated to and from the auditorium to care for the large number expected to attend who have no other means of transportation.

Miss Esther Branch, nationally known cooking expert, who will conduct the school, was expected to arrive in Monroe Sunday and go over last minute details of preparation Monday.

One of the features of the school will be the prizes awarded at each session which will include numerous baskets of groceries and other useful articles.

The grand prizes awarded at the final session of the school Thursday night will be a Prosperity gas range given by Sears Roebuck, and an MW electric refrigerator given by Montgomery Ward.

Sessions will be held each afternoon Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 2 o'clock, and the final session Thursday will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The public is cordially invited to visit the school at all four sessions. There will be no admission charge or other fees. Useful gifts for kitchen use will be given each woman who attends on opening day.

The sessions of the cooking school in past years have proved highly popular and this year promises to be no exception with the many additional attractions scheduled.

MONROE TO SEE EIGHTY CARLOADS OF ARMY TANKS

American Force Which Never Lost A War To Show World On Sabine River

The Yanks are coming to Monroe this week.

Over U. S. highway 80 through this city on the way to unprecedented peacetime maneuvers with the ninth corps of the southwest, the army's fourth corps will roll in olive-drab motor vehicles to Louisiana bases west of the Sabine river.

About 70,000 men will be involved in the engagements May 11 to 25 for training of the regional "third army." They represent almost one-third of the nation's enlisted strength.

More than 6,000 motor vehicles were tuned up Saturday at Fort Benning, Ga., for the 628-mile trek to the Sabine river valley of Louisiana and Texas.

A scenario issued by the third army headquarters has established the background: "Blue (east) is a small nation which has a common boundary line with another small nation, red (west). Boundary disputes, local border incidents and alien minorities have resulted in continual and increasing tension."

From this situation is explained the current concentrations for the mock war which will begin at week's end.

Actions and reactions of commanders will write the record of the war game itself. The largest mock combat ever held, the fourth corps will throw more than 40,000 men into action, the ninth 25,000. Inequality of numerical strength will be adjusted in occasional reassignment of mechanical agencies such as tanks and motorized cavalry.

Sunday drivers on highway 80 between Fort Benning and Demopolis, Ala., will meet the first of the fourth corps organizations on the march, the sixth streamlined infantry division and the sixth cavalry. Corps troops and the first and fifth divisions will move out of Fort Benning later.

A provisional birgade of 250 tanks assembled at Fort Bennings in January were assigned to freight cars Saturday, of which 80 carloads will be unloaded here some time this week.

DR. COOK, 'DISCOVERER' OF NORTH POLE, ILL

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., May 4.—(AP)—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, 77-year-old Arctic explorer, tonight lay in a semi-coma following a cerebral hemorrhage. His condition was described by attendants at United hospital as "critical."

Dr. Cook was stricken last night while a guest at the home of an old friend, Ralph S. von Ahlesfeldt of Larchmont.

The claim of Dr. Cook as the discoverer of the North Pole precipitated a long controversy with the late Admiral Robert E. Peary.

Dr. Cook asserted he had discovered the pole April 21, 1908, a year before Peary announced he had planted the American flag there. Dr. Cook's home is in Toms River, N. J.

4 MAJOR STATE INSTITUTIONS ARE INVOLVED

CITIZENS ARE DRAFTED TO AID NEW OFFICIAL

W. Prescott Foster Chosen As Temporary Head Of Roads Office

BATON ROUGE, La., May 4.—(AP)—Governor-Elect Sam H. Jones, whose reform-pledged administration will take over Louisiana's government ten days hence, revealed plans today for revamping four major state institutions.

These were the highway commission, the state board of health, and the New Orleans Dock board and Charity hospital—important agencies in the late Huey Long's political dictatorship.

Jones selected a new highway commission and charged it with placing highway affairs "on a business basis" as well as formulating a new construction and maintenance program.

Two citizen voluntary committees were drafted by the governor-elect for fact-finding surveys of the dock board and new $12,500,000 Charity hospital at New Orleans.

In launching a program toward establishment of what he called a "real department of health in Louisiana," Jones and Dr. Marc M. Mouton, lieutenant governor-elect, conferred for more than an hour with Dr. C. L. Williams of Washington, assistant United States surgeon general.

Selected as head of the incoming administration's temporary highway commission is W. Prescott Foster, St. Mary parish sugar planter whose father, the late Governor Murphy J. Foster, saw the infamtus Louisiana lottery abolished during his gubernatorial administration.

The two others named by Jones to the temporary, three-man commission are Martin L. Close, Alexandria produce merchant, and W. E. Gilbert, Franklin parish planter and businessman.

At the same time, an audit made by State Supervisor of Public Funds Frank S. Shattuck of the highway commission was made public. It revealed certain irregularities but also showed that the highway department

PLANES CRASH IN MISSISSIPPI

Twelve Soldiers With Maneuvering Armies Parachute To Safety

M'COMB, Miss., May 4.—(AP)—A series of landing accidents in the third army's huge maneuvers today damaged three pursuit planes and so badly wrecked the undercarriage of a transport that twelve soldiers had to parachute to safety before it pancaked to earth.

No one was injured and it was believed all four ships would be repaired in time to take part in the war games which began today and will move into high gear through western Louisiana next week.

The accident occurred as the ships, en route from Selfridge Field, Mich., sought a landing at the McComb airport which had been turned into the air base of the "Blue" forces in the maneuvers.

Lieutenant J. M. Joplin brought the C-33, the transport whose base is at San Antonio, Tex., to rest in a field at Georgetown, Miss., 60 miles north of McComb where the wheels and propeller were wrecked when the ship overshot the field and struck an embankment.

The bullet-scarred American freighter Flying Fish is shown tied up at dock in New York while members of her crew told exciting stories of the vessel being raked with gunfire when caught in a furious battle between Germans and allied forces at Bergen, Norway, last month. Captain W. W. Some members of the crew insisted, however, that one of the allied planes accidentally fired upon the vessel.

Louisiana's chapter of the American Association of University Women adjourned its 10th annual two-day convention Saturday following a luncheon given in the group's honor by Northeast Junior college.

The luncheon, held in the cafeteria on the campus of the Junior college where the association was in session Friday and Saturday, was presided over by Mrs. C. C. Colvert, wife of the dean of the college. Speaking at the luncheon meeting was Mrs. Mary C. Hergert, who discussed "Stockholm Nine Months Ago," and Mrs. Briscoe Troutdale, accompanied by Mrs. B. D. Allbritton sang a group of folk songs.

No new officers were elected by the association, the election, which is for two years, being held at last year's meeting.

At 9 o'clock Saturday morning approximately 80 members of the association who registered early Friday afternoon at the junior college heard an interpretation of A. A. U. Prime Minister Puts Strength Into Campaign To Save Government

By Drew Middleton

LONDON, May 4.—(AP)—Acutely aware that military disaster has unseated more than one government, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain tonight threw his waning political strength into the task of guiding his regime through the wreckage of the Norwegian campaign.

Biting criticism by laborites, liberals and insurgent conservatives forced the aging prime minister to get ready for a real battle in the house of commons Tuesday. He faces an outcry of "resign" as penalty for the failure in Norway.

The demand for the resignations of Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon and Air Minister Sir Samuel Hoare, as voiced by Herbert Morrison, powerful Labor party spokesman, was piled on top of bitter criticism of "complacency" and "oversatisfaction" on the part of the government. Combined, these attacks are expected to take the form of a drive to overthrow the present government.

While the details of the abandoned allied attempt to take Trondheim from the Germans filtered into the newspapers through unofficial military sources, Englishmen, bitter as only they can be when an enemy mocks Britain, told the government, "get on with the war or get out!"

Morrison, Clement R. Attlee, leader of the Labor party opposition in the house of commons, and Emanuel Shinwell, Laborite M. P., each struck at the government in speeches today.

But even more significant in the

Monroe Bargain Event Termed Most Successful

Monroe Bargain Days, sponsored by the Retail Merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce, was one of the most successful of such events ever held here, according to members of the committee which had charge of arrangements.

Dave Silverstein, chairman of the Retail Merchants division, said the results exceeded all expectations. The stores of every merchant who participated in the event were crowded Friday and Saturday, with yesterday proving the banner day.

Only members of the committee were interviewed last night, but each said that every merchant in Monroe enjoyed two big days.

"We all had a good day Friday," Mr. Silverstein said, "but we really weren't prepared for the fine response of Saturday. Both Monroe shoppers and those from out-of-town in even larger numbers responded to the event in surprising manner. Every merchant who participated is more than pleased."

Herbert Fink, chairman of the special committee in charge of the event, was equally as enthusiastic.

"It far exceeded anything we expected," Mr. Fink said. "The entire committee is well pleased. Friday was a big day but Saturday was even bigger. There were more people on the streets of Monroe than in years. What impressed me most was the fact that people came here from as far as 100 miles away to partake in the bargains offered by Monroe merchants. South Arkansas, north Louisiana and central Louisiana all were represented here Saturday, and the sales of the merchants I have talked

AIR ATTACK IS FATAL TO BRITISH WARSHIPS

Hitler, Goering Withhold Story To Taunt Chamberlain Into Talking

By Louis P. Lochner

BERLIN, May 4.—(AP)—Air Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, the medalled man of the hour of the Norwegian blitzkrieg, proudly announced today the feat which he and Adolf Hitler had charged the German airforce in Norway to achieve at any cost—the sinking of a British battleship by air bombardment.

In all, formal Nazi statements said, nine British warships or transports were sunk or badly damaged during a day of attacks by bombers and battle planes off Namsos and Narvik, western Norway, yesterday, while the British fleet was transferring allied troops who have abandoned central Norway.

Beside the battleships, these were stated to include a heavy cruiser of the class of the 8,250-ton York, "sunk in thirty minutes" by heavy bombs; a second cruiser and two destroyers bombed and damaged, and a 12,000-ton transport sunk, all off Namsos, plus a battle cruiser, a cruiser and a transport bombed (but not sunk) at Narvik.

An official announcement said the battleship, one of the 30,000-ton Queen Elizabeth class, was sunk in three minutes off Namsos, Norway yesterday, without the loss of a single German plane.

It marked a new high in Goering's meteoric career. Men who know him say he has waited for weeks for just this test as conclusive proof that the German air force can accomplish any task set for it and that it has, in German eyes, "once and for all destroyed the myth of British mastery of the seas."

The communique announcing the sinking drew no confirmation or

OFFICERS SEEK MASSIE SLAYER

Tall Negro Being Traced By Officials Investigating Crime

TALLULAH, La., May 4.—(AP)—A tall 23-year-old negro was being sought tonight for questioning in the ax slaying last night of Henry Massie, 50, farm hand, according to H. C. Massey, Tallulah chief of police.

The farm worker was struck in the head with an ax and his employer, George Schalnus, farmer living about eight miles east of here, was also attacked and suffered wounds on the neck, shoulder and hip. He is recovering in a hospital here.

Blood hounds were used to trail the assailant today, Chief Massey said, but the scent was lost two miles from the scene of the slaying on a gravel road.

The police chief said the negro sought has been working on the Schalnus farm for several years. Massie had been employed only six weeks. Chief Massey declined to reveal the motive behind the slaying.

The police chief, in discussing the murder today, said that the assailant apparently intended to kill Schalnus after killing Massie. When Schalnus heard Massie scream in his cabin about 300 yards from the Schalnus house he took a pistol and went to

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., May 4.—(AP)—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, 77-year-old Arctic explorer, tonight lay in a semi-coma following a cerebral hemorrhage. His condition was described by attendants at United hospital as "critical."

Dr. Cook was stricken last night while a guest at the home of an old friend, Ralph S. von Ahlesfeldt of Larchmont.

The claim of Dr. Cook as the discoverer of the North Pole precipitated a long controversy with the late Admiral Robert E. Peary.

Dr. Cook asserted he had discovered the pole April 21, 1908, a year before Peary announced he had planted the American flag there. Dr. Cook's home is in Toms River, N. J.

W. Prescott Foster Chosen As Temporary Head Of Roads Office

BATON ROUGE, La., May 4.—(AP)—Governor-Elect Sam H. Jones, whose reform-pledged administration will take over Louisiana's government ten days hence, revealed plans today for revamping four major state institutions.

These were the highway commission, the state board of health, and the New Orleans Dock board and Charity hospital—important agencies in the late Huey Long's political dictatorship.

Jones selected a new highway commission and charged it with placing highway affairs "on a business basis" as well as formulating a new construction and maintenance program.

Two citizen voluntary committees were drafted by the governor-elect for fact-finding surveys of the dock board and new $12,500,000 Charity hospital at New Orleans.

In launching a program toward establishment of what he called a "real department of health in Louisiana," Jones and Dr. Marc M. Mouton, lieutenant governor-elect, conferred for more than an hour with Dr. C. L. Williams of Washington, assistant United States surgeon general.

Selected as head of the incoming administration's temporary highway commission is W. Prescott Foster, St. Mary parish sugar planter whose father, the late Governor Murphy J. Foster, saw the infamtus Louisiana lottery abolished during his gubernatorial administration.

The two others named by Jones to the temporary, three-man commission are Martin L. Close, Alexandria produce merchant, and W. E. Gilbert, Franklin parish planter and businessman.

At the same time, an audit made by State Supervisor of Public Funds Frank S. Shattuck of the highway commission was made public. It revealed certain irregularities but also showed that the highway department

PLANES CRASH IN MISSISSIPPI

Twelve Soldiers With Maneuvering Armies Parachute To Safety

M'COMB, Miss., May 4.—(AP)—A series of landing accidents in the third army's huge maneuvers today damaged three pursuit planes and so badly wrecked the undercarriage of a transport that twelve soldiers had to parachute to safety before it pancaked to earth.

No one was injured and it was believed all four ships would be repaired in time to take part in the war games which began today and will move into high gear through western Louisiana next week.

The accident occurred as the ships, en route from Selfridge Field, Mich., sought a landing at the McComb airport which had been turned into the air base of the "Blue" forces in the maneuvers.

Lieutenant J. M. Joplin brought the C-33, the transport whose base is at San Antonio, Tex., to rest in a field at Georgetown, Miss., 60 miles north of McComb where the wheels and propeller were wrecked when the ship overshot the field and struck an embankment.

U. S. SHIP SURVIVES BERGEN BATTLE

Luncheon Honors Guests Of Convention At Northeast Junior College

Louisiana's chapter of the American Association of University Women adjourned its 10th annual two-day convention Saturday following a luncheon given in the group's honor by Northeast Junior college.

The luncheon, held in the cafeteria on the campus of the Junior college where the association was in session Friday and Saturday, was presided over by Mrs. C. C. Colvert, wife of the dean of the college. Speaking at the luncheon meeting was Mrs. Mary C. Hergert, who discussed "Stockholm Nine Months Ago," and Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, accompanied by Mrs. B. D. Allbritton sang a group of folk songs.

No new officers were elected by the association, the election, which is for two years, being held at last year's meeting.

At 9 o'clock Saturday morning approximately 80 members of the association who registered early Friday afternoon at the junior college heard an interpretation of A. A. U. Prime Minister Puts Strength Into Campaign To Save Government

By Drew Middleton

LONDON, May 4.—(AP)—Acutely aware that military disaster has unseated more than one government, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain tonight threw his waning political strength into the task of guiding his regime through the wreckage of the Norwegian campaign.

Biting criticism by laborites, liberals and insurgent conservatives forced the aging prime minister to get ready for a real battle in the house of commons Tuesday. He faces an outcry of "resign" as penalty for the failure in Norway.

The demand for the resignations of Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon and Air Minister Sir Samuel Hoare, as voiced by Herbert Morrison, powerful Labor party spokesman, was piled on top of bitter criticism of "complacency" and "oversatisfaction" on the part of the government. Combined, these attacks are expected to take the form of a drive to overthrow the present government.

While the details of the abandoned allied attempt to take Trondheim from the Germans filtered into the newspapers through unofficial military sources, Englishmen, bitter as only they can be when an enemy mocks Britain, told the government, "get on with the war or get out."

Morrison, Clement R. Attlee, leader of the Labor party opposition in the house of commons, and Emanuel Shinwell, Laborite M. P., each struck at the government in speeches today.

But even more significant in the

Monroe Bargain Event Termed Most Successful

Monroe Bargain Days, sponsored by the Retail Merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce, was one of the most successful of such events ever held here, according to members of the committee which had charge of arrangements.

Dave Silverstein, chairman of the Retail Merchants division, said the results exceeded all expectations. The stores of every merchant who participated in the event were crowded Friday and Saturday, with yesterday proving the banner day.

Only members of the committee were interviewed last night, but each said that every merchant in Monroe enjoyed two big days.

"We all had a good day Friday," Mr. Silverstein said, "but we really weren't prepared for the fine response of Saturday. Both Monroe shoppers and those from out-of-town is even larger numbers responded to the event in surprising manner. Every merchant who participated is more than pleased."

Herbert Fink, chairman of the special committee in charge of the event, was equally as enthusiastic.

"It far exceeded anything we expected," Mr. Fink said. "The entire committee is well pleased. Friday was a big day but Saturday was even bigger. There were more people on the streets of Monroe than in years. What impressed me most was the fact that people came here from as far as 100 miles away to partake in the bargains offered by Monroe merchants. South Arkansas, north Louisiana and central Louisiana all were represented here Saturday, and the sales of the merchants I have talked

AIR ATTACK IS FATAL TO BRITISH WARSHIPS

Hitler, Goering Withhold Story To Taunt Chamberlain Into Talking

By Louis P. Lochner

BERLIN, May 4.—(AP)—Air Marshal Herman Wilhelm Goering, be-medalled man of the hour of the Norwegian blitzkrieg, proudly announced today the feat which he and Adolf Hitler had chargod the German airforce in Norway to achieve at any cost—the sinking of a British battleship by air bombardment.

In all, formal Nazi statements said, nine British warships or transports were sunk or badly damaged during a day of attacks by bombers and battle-planes off Namsos and Narvik, western Norway, yesterday, while the British fleet was transferring allied troops who have abandoned central Norway.

Beside the battleships, these were stated to include a heavy cruiser of the class of the 8,250-ton York, "sunk in thirty minutes" by heavy bombs; a second cruiser and two destroyers bombed and damaged, and a 12,000-ton transport sunk, all off Namsos, plus a battle cruiser, a cruiser and a transport bombed (but not sunk) at Narvik.

An official announcement said the battleship, one of the 30,000-ton Queen Elizabeth class, was sunk in three minutes off Namsos, Norway yesterday, without the loss of a single German plane.

It marked a new high in Goering's meteoric career. Men who know him say he has waited for weeks for just this test as conclusive proof that the German air force can accomplish any task set for it and that it has, in German eyes, "onec and for all destroyed the myth of British mastery of the seas."

The communique announcing the sinking drew no confirmation or

OFFICERS SEEK MASSIE SLAYER

Tall Negro Being Traced By Officials Investigating Crime

TALLULAH, La., May 4.—(AP)—A tall 23-year-old negro was being sought tonight for questioning in the ax slaying last night of Henry Massie, 50, farm hand, according to H. C. Massey, Tallulah chief of police.

The farm worker was struck in the head with an ax and his employer, George Schalnus, farmer living about eight miles east of here, was also attacked and suffered wounds on the neck, shoulder and hip. He is recovering in a hospital here.

Blood hounds were used to trail the assailant today, Chief Massey said, but the scent was lost two miles from the scene of the slaying on a gravel road.

The police chief said the negro sought has been working on the Schalnus farm for several years. Massie had been employed only six weeks. Chief Massey declined to reveal the motive behind the slaying.

The police chief, in discussing the murder today, said that the assailant apparently intended to kill Schalnus after killing Massie. When Schalnus heard Massie scream in his cabin about 300 yards from the Schalnus house he took a pistol and went to

REED DENOUNCES BOARD'S TACTICS

Former Senator Says Labor Board Should Be Abolished At Once

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—James A. Reed, former Democratic senator from Missouri, denounced national labor tactics today as "the sort of thing engaged in by racketeers."

Reed told the special house committee investigating the board that the agency ought to be abolished overnight" if even one-tenth of the committee's charges against it were true.

The witness testified he never had read "such a catalogue of improper, unjudicial, unfair rulings and acts" as those attributed to the board in the committee's report recommending sweeping changes in the national labor relations act.

During a recital of the experiences of his wife's firm, the Donnelly Garment company of Kansas City, Mo., with both the board and the International Ladies Garment Workers union, Reed referred to instances cited in the committee report to show that the board helped to institute boycotts against companies as "a process of condemnation without a hearing."

"A man or a board that will do that thing," the Missourian asserted, "furnishes the indubitable evidence that it is prejudicial, motivated by vindictive motives and is utterly unfit to sit as a judicial tribunal anywhere under the American flag."

Representative Smith, Democrat, Virginia predicted today that his committee's amendments to the national labor relations act would pass the house despite rejection of proposed revisions of another keystone of administration labor policy, the wage-hour law.

On the other hand, Representative Murdock, Democrat, Utah, took the wage-hour vote to mean that any amendments to the labor act would be less sweeping than the Smith amendments, Murdock, who is a member of the house labor board inquiry headed by Smith, is opposed to the Smith amendment.

The Smith changes, 17 in all, may come up in the house week after next. They would abolish the present labor board and set up a new three-man body, would separate the judicial and administrative functions of the board and revise methods of procedure.

Smith contended that the issues involved in the wage-hour fight and the coming battle over the labor law were "totally different." Murdock, however, was much heartened by the wage-hour vote.

"The overzealous opponents of the labor legislation were emphatically given to understand by the wage-hour action," Murdock said, "that the house certainly is opposed to destructive amendments to labor laws."

The sixth amendments will come before the house as an alternative for less sweeping amendments proposed by the house labor committee.

The latter would add two more members to the present board, permit employers to petition for collective bargaining elections, make employer-employe contracts unchallengeable for one year and set up safeguards for craft unions.

Observers consider that the attitude of the two largest labor factions toward the labor act changes would have some effect on the house.

The C. I. O. is opposed to any amendments to the labor act at this time, while the A. F. L. is urging that some amendments be made, including the one to safeguard craft unions.

Both C. I. O. and A. F. L. opposed any change in the wage-hour act at this congressional session.

CROP INSURANCE VETO ON COTTON REPORTED

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)— Representative Fulmer, Democrat, South Carolina, said today he had learned indirectly from the White House that President Roosevelt had vetoed a bill to extend the federal crop insurance program to cotton.

Fulmer, co-author of the legislation, said he and other advocates of the measure planned to appeal to the president at Hyde Park to delay returning the bill to the house until they had an opportunity to discuss it with him.

Fulmer said he would try to impress upon the chief executive the fact that while losses might be expected under the cotton insurance phase of the program at the outset, the cost would "be nothing in comparison to what the government is spending now in relief of distress due to crop failures resulting from floods, droughts and similar disasters."

Uncle Sam Will Try Out Blitzkrieg In Louisiana

Red And Blue Armies Will Battle In Biggest Peacetime Test

By John Grover
AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The American army's 1940 maneuvers are testing the new products of Europe's war laboratory.

Blitzkrieg, civilian participation, mechanization and the other advances in the so-called art of war must pass an examination in Louisiana gumbo mud, May 5 to May 25, before the Mr. Bigs in the United States military forces stamp "approved" on Europe's new techniques.

The 1940 maneuvers, bringing together 70,000 men from 35 states, are the greatest massing of troops in United States peacetime history. They fulfill a long-time army dream of large-scale training operations. Previously army units were forced to train separately at widely-scattered points.

A general who talks tough—and is tough—won authorization for the war exercises by hammering on the table and telling a few homely truths to congress.

The General Spoke Out

Jut-jawed General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, told 'em, cold turkey, that the United States army was improperly trained.

"We have been forced (by lack of funds) to build up our technique of command and control, and even our development of leadership, largely on a theoretical basis," General Marshall declared.

General Marshall asked money to train his troops right. He got it.

That's why (1) blitzkrieg, (2) the new organization of the American army division and (3) military mechization are under critical scrutiny in the stiffest peacetime test ever faced by American troops.

Blitzkrieg wowed the world when the Germans overran Poland. But in Finland the Russian version flopped flatter than spilled milk.

Somewhere between the startling success of the Germans and the monumental bust of the soviet gasoline cavalry lies the ideal—and limited—function of a power army. The 20-day operations in the toughest terrain available will determine the capabilities and limitations of mechanized forces.

The 20,000-square-mile war games sector was deliberately chosen to put men and machines through the acid test under adverse conditions. It is laced withbayous and swamps. The Red and Sabine rivers, with few bridges, form natural barriers to sweeping troop movements.

Garand Gun Will Be There

The maneuvers will be the first broad test of the new streamlined army division. Total strength is 11,000 men, compared to 22,000 in the old unit. But the smaller force packs as much potential death as the old because their guns are better.

The new divisions are equipped with the army's pet killer, the Garand M-1 semi-automatic rifle. It pops off rat-a-tat-tat style—five times as fast as the old Springfield rifle.

The new division can "march" 75 miles a day, as against the 15-mile on-the-hoof range of the old. Doughboys get a break. They ride half the time. The old army mule that ran on hay and profanity has been given the air. The 1,000 trucks of the new division haul half the outfit, then shuttle back for the other marchers.

The officers know the theories—they're about all they've had for years. But the brass hats want to know if they can translate theory into actual know-how.

Legion Lends A Hand

Basically, the actual maneuvers pit two armies, with full modern equipment, against each other. (Some 9,000 American Legion members have also been enlisted to man 1,600 aircraft warning stations, to test the new civilian auxiliary technique—used by Britain.)

The blue army, 45,000 troops under Major-General Walter Campbell Short, is based north of Alexandria, La. The red army—a highly mobile force, ideally fitted for blitzkrieg's lightning thrusts—is based 100 miles west at Jasper, Tex., an important highway junction, Major-General Walter Krueger is in command.

The 100-mile no-man's land is a tangle of wild country and mud. The primary roads run north and south, and the armies must move at right angles to the roads to maintain a broad front.

To the north lies Shreveport, center of an oil empire, no mean military prize. Southeast is New Orleans, also a prime objective. The red army is poised to thrust at either place. It is the blue army's problem to interpose between the thrust and either objective.

The red army strategy may result in a pincers movement north and south from Jasper. But the wide frontal advances must proceed through the heavy going in the back country.

A Trial By Gumbo

All the army's new guns and equipment must undergo "trial by gumbo," under the binoculars of staff observers alert for the failure of equipment in gooey terrain. So must aviation, tanks, heavy and light artillery.

The 1940 war games will show the quality of the army we've already got—and will determine no little the kind of army we're going to get.

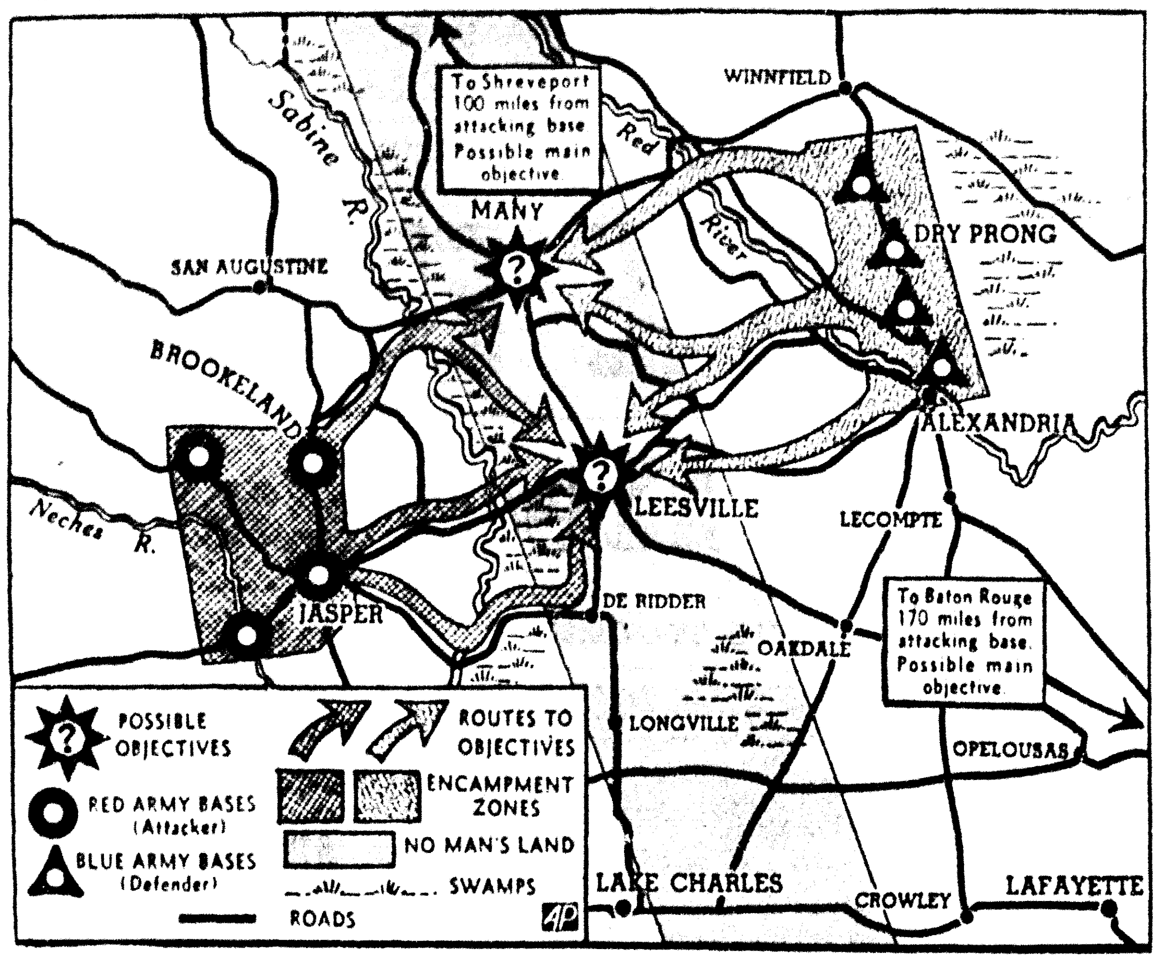
THREE GENERALS

(By Associated Press Feature Service)

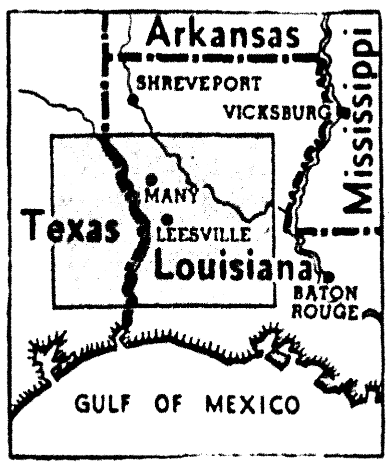
WASHINGTON—The three generals spotlighted by 1940 maneuvers reached the top without West Point diplomas.

General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, was graduated from Virginia Military Academy. Major General Walter Campbell Short, commander of the Blue army, was appointed second lieutenant of infantry after getting his degree from University of Illinois in 1901.

Major General Walter Krueger, Red army chief, came up the hard way. He was born in Germany, came to this country when a child, and enlisted as a buck private in the Spanish-American war. He came up through the ranks to win his stars.



In this area, 70,000 doughboys will clash in mock war. From bases at left, the Red army will launch lightning war on secret objectives. The Blues (at right) will defend. Foe of both will be swamps and mud, but these will prove the worth of modern war implements in sweeping troop movements.



Regional setting of war games.

'Boys In Gray' Refuse Aid From 'Damyankees'

They Want Louisiana And Sam Jones To Pay Their Pensions

BATON ROUGE, La., May 4.—(AP)—The Confederate pension board in its report to the legislature warns that unless additional revenue is provided for the next two years, monthly payments to Louisiana veterans of the War Between the States must be reduced from $60 to $40.

The current $60 payments are the maximum allowed by law and veterans still claim "back pensions" for a three-year period during which they received only $30 a month.

The board estimates that it needs about $400,000 during the next two years if it is to maintain the maximum $60 payments. An additional $1,000,000 or more will be required if the "back pension" claims are to be met.

During his campaign Governor-Elect Sam H. Jones pledged payments of the "back pensions" to the 46 remaining Civil war veterans and the nearly 1,000 widows of veterans entitled to pensions under the law.

Pensions are financed by three-quarter mills of the state property tax, netting about $900,000 a year. Bond retirement and interest payments require approximately $650,000 for this, leaving $250,000 each year for pensions and operating expenses.

The board estimates it will require $625,000 for pension payments at the $60 maximum during the current calendar year and, taking mortality figures into consideration, $515,000 for 1941. On present revenues this would leave the board with $403,352.80 deficit on December 31, 1941. The operating expenses are nominal.

"It is evident," the board says, after showing that a deficit is inevitable under its property tax allocation, "that additional funds must be provided, perhaps through sale of pension bonds to mature in 1952, or later, if pension payments are to be continued at the maximum amount of $60 a month to each pensioner.

"Otherwise the pension money available will probably not provide more than $40 per month to each pensioner over the next two years."

Thus, the board suggests using the $250,000 residue from its property tax revenues for funding new bonds so that the $60 pensions may be continued during 1940 and 1941.

The board now has approximately $4,000,000 bonds outstanding with maturities dated gradually through 1951.

Observers believe dedication of the $250,000 working capital available to the board for the next year or two would fund bonds sufficient to pay $60 pensions during 1940 and 1941 as well as the back pensions.

The $30 pensions paid from June 1, 1932, to June 1, 1935, came during the height of the depression when the board, according to its current report, was short on funds. Although the maximum $60 payments were authorized by law during this period, the report points out, "it was not mandatory that the maximum amount be paid."

After the shortage cleared and "necessary additional funds were provided, all pensions (after 1935) were again increased to the maximum amount allowed by law."

The 1938 legislature authorized the state board of liquidation of the state debt to fund the property tax revenues allocated to pension payments for meeting the "back pension" claims. However, the board of liquidation never availed itself of the authority and the money never has been raised.

Meanwhile, since 1938, the names of 42 veterans and 297 widows have been stricken from the pension roll, principally because of death.

Incidentally, under the constitution pension payments could be partially financed by the federal government by placing recipients in the welfare department category for needy aged. In this maner the government would contribute up to $15 a month for each pensioner, saving the state an estimated $50,000 a year.

A move in this direction in 1936, however, brought heavy protest from pensioners. The Confederates opposed being classed as needy, for one thing.

For another, they refused any helping hand from a "damned Yankee" government.

COLFAX HAS 1,352

CHINA AID FUND IS INVESTIGATED

$2,800,000 Sent Abroad Has American Government In Stew

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—(AP)—Agents of the United States government sought to learn today in what manner $2,800,000 was obtained for the aid of civilians in the war-stricken areas of China.

Leaders in this city's Chinatown—largest in the nation—admitted they had been questioned both by the federal bureau of investigation and the securities and exchange commission, but said the whole affair was "instigated by the Japanese.

(Japanese and Chinese stores are intermingled along Chinatown's narrow streets and despite hostilities in the orient the situation in the main has remained peaceful. There was no indication that the Chinese deemed local Japanese residents responsible for the investigation.)

Half of the $2,800,000 was raised in this area.

The F. B. I. office in Washington admitted a study was being made. The San Francisco office declined other comment.

T. Y. Tang, head of the campaign committee of the Chinese War Relief association, said the investigations were spurred by Japanese complaints, denied any wrong-doing, and commented that many contributions had been sent directly to China without aid from the association.

He said the F. B. I. was interested in how contributions were obtained and whether the association was or should be registered with the United States government, and that the SEC had asked regarding sale of unregistered bonds.

Tang said all contributions has been "purely voluntary," that whether the association was required to register had not been determined, and that he knew of no sale of bonds in connection with efforts to raise funds.

Tang indicated he anticipated no trouble in establishing his association's good faith and intent.

REED DENOUNCES BOARD'S TACTICS

Former Senator Says Labor Board Should Be Abolished At Once

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—James A. Reed, former Democratic senator from Missouri, denounced national labor tactics today as "the sort of thing engaged in by racketeers."

Reed told the special house committee investigating the board that the agency ought to be "abolished overnight" if even one-tenth of the committee's charges against it were true.

Representative Smith, Democrat, Virginia predicted today that his committee's amendments to the national labor relations act would pass the house despite rejection of proposed revisions of another keystone of administration labor policy, the wage-hour law.

On the other hand, Representative Murdock, Democrat, Utah, took the wage-hour vote to mean that any amendments to the labor act would be less sweeping than the Smith amendments, Murdock, who is a member of the house labor board inquiry headed by Smith, is opposed to the Smith amendment.

The Smith changes, 17 in all, may come up in the house week after next. They would abolish the present labor board and set up a new three-man body, would separate the judicial and administrative functions of the board and revise methods of procedure.

Smith contended that the issues involved in the wage-hour fight and the coming battle over the labor law were "totally different." Murdock, however, was much heartened by the wage-hour vote.

"The overzealous opponents of the labor legislation were emphatically given to understand by the wage-hour action," Murdock said, "that the house certainly is opposed to destructive amendments to labor laws."

The sixth amendments will come before the house as an alternative for less sweeping amendments proposed by the house labor committee.

The latter would add two more members to the present board, permit employers to petition for collective bargaining elections, make employer-employe contracts unchallengeable for one year and set up safeguards for craft unions.

Observers consider that the attitude of the two largest labor factions toward the labor act changes would have some effect on the house.

The C. I. O. is opposed to any amendments to the labor act at this time, while the A. F. L. is urging that some amendments be made, including the one to safeguard craft unions.

Both C. I. O. and A. F. L. opposed any change in the wage-hour act at this congressional session.

CROP INSURANCE VETO ON COTTON REPORTED

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)— Representative Fulmer, Democrat, South Carolina, said today he had learned indirectly from the White House that President Roosevelt had vetoed a bill to extend the federal crop insurance program to cotton.

Fulmer, co-author of the legislation, said he and other advocates of the measure planned to appeal to the president at Hyde Park to delay returning the bill to the house until they had an opportunity to discuss it with him.

Fulmer said he would try to impress upon the chief executive the fact that while losses might be expected under the cotton insurance phase of the program at the outset, the cost would "be nothing in comparison to what the government is spending now in relief of distress due to crop failures resulting from floods, droughts and similar disasters."

Scientific experiments have reduced the estimated speed of the deerfly from 800 miles per hour to a mere 28 miles per hour.

Uncle Sam Will Try Out Blitzkrieg In Louisiana

Red And Blue Armies Will Battle In Biggest Peacetime Test

By John Grover
AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The American army's 1940 maneuvers are testing the new products of Europe's war laboratory.

Blitzkrieg, civilian participation, mechanization and the other advances in the so-called art of war must pass an examination in Louisiana gumbo mud, May 5 to May 25, before the Mr. Bigs in the United States military forces stamp "approved" on Europe's new techniques.

The 1940 maneuvers, bringing together 70,000 men from 35 states, are the greatest massing of troops in United States peacetime history. They fulfill a long-time army dream of large-scale training operations. Previously army units were forced to train separately at widely-scattered points.

A general who talks tough—and is tough—won authorization for the war exercises by hammering on the table and telling a few homely truths to congress.

The General Spoke Out

Jut-jawed General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, told 'em, cold turkey, that the United States army was improperly trained.

"We have been forced (by lack of funds) to build up our technique of command and control, and even our development of leadership, largely on a theoretical basis," General Marshall declared.

General Marshall asked money to train his troops right. He got it.

That's why (1) blitzkrieg, (2) the new organization of the American army division and (3) military mechization are under critical scrutiny in the stiffest peacetime test ever faced by American troops.

Blitzkrieg wowed the world when the Germans overran Poland. But in Finland the Russian version flopped flatter than spilled milk.

Somewhere between the startling success of the Germans and the monumental bust of the soviet gasoline cavalry lies the ideal—and limited—function of a power army. The 20-day operations in the toughest terrain available will determine the capabilities and limitations of mechanized forces.

The 20,000-square-mile war games sector was deliberately chosen to put men and machines through the acid test under adverse conditions. It is laced withbayous and swamps. The Red and Sabine rivers, with few bridges, form natural barriers to sweeping troop movements.

Garand Gun Will Be There

The maneuvers will be the first broed test of the new streamlined army division. Total strength is 11,000 men, compared to 22,000 in the old unit. But the smaller force packs as much potential death as the old because their guns are better.

The new divisions are equipped with the army's pet killer, the Garand M-1 semi-automatic rifle. It pops off rat-a-tat-tat style—five times as fast as the old Springfield rifle.

The new division can "march" 75 miles a day, as against the 15-mile on-the-hoof range of the old. Doughboys get a break. They ride half the time. The old army mule that ran on hay and profanity has been given the air. The 1,000 trucks of the new division haul half the outfit, then shuttle back for the other marchers.

The officers know the theories—they're about all they've had for years. But the brass hats want to know if they can translate theory into actual know-how.

Legion Lends A Hand

Basically, the actual maneuvers pit two armies, with full modern equipment, against each other. (Some 9,000 American Legion members have also been enlisted to man 1,600 aircraft warning stations, to test the new civilian auxiliary technique—used by Britain.)

The blue army, 45,000 troops under Major-General Walter Campbell Short, is based north of Alexandria, La. The red army—a highly mobile force, ideally fitted for blitzkrieg's lightning thrusts—is based 100 miles west at Jasper, Tex., an important highway junction, Major-General Walter Krueger is in command.

The 100-mile no-man's land is a tangle of wild country and mud. The primary roads run north and south, and the armies must move at right angles to the roads to maintain a broad front.

To the north lies Shreveport, center of an oil empire, no mean military prize. Southeast is New Orleans, also a prime objective. The red army is poised to thrust at either place. It is the blue army's problem to interpose between the thrust and either objective.

The red army strategy may result in a pincers movement north and south from Jasper. But the wide frontal advances must proceed through the heavy going in the back country.

A Trial By Gumbo

All the army's new guns and equipment must undergo "trial by gumbo," under the binoculars of staff observers alert for the failure of equipment in gooey terrain. So must aviation, tanks, heavy and light artillery.

The 1940 war games will show the quality of the army we've already got—and will determine no little the kind of army we're going to get.

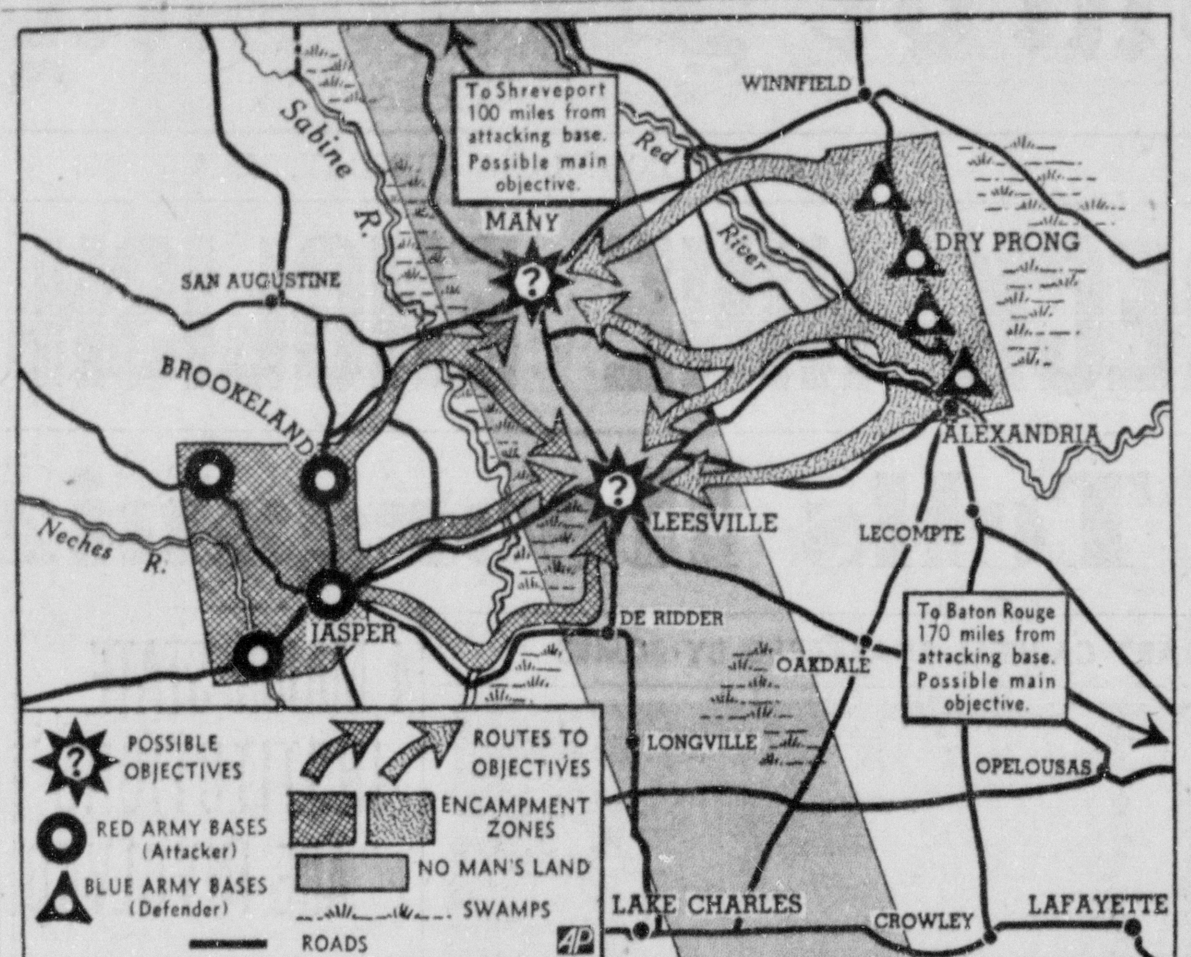
THREE GENERALS

(By Associated Press Feature Service)

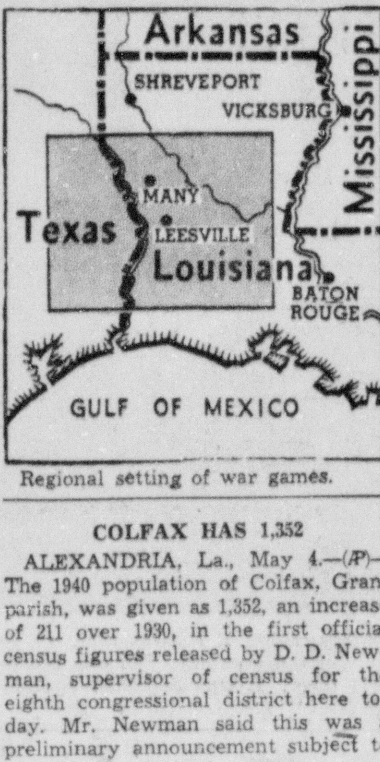
WASHINGTON—The three generals spotlighted by 1940 maneuvers reached the top without West Point diplomas.

General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, was graduated from Virginia Military Academy. Major General Walter Campbell Short, commander of the Blue army, was appointed second lieutenant of infantry after getting his degree from University of Illinois in 1901.

Major General Walter Krueger, Red army chief, came up the hard way. He was born in Germany, came to this country when a child, and enlisted as a buck private in the Spanish-American war. He came up through the ranks to win his stars.



In this area, 70,000 doughboys will clash in mock war. From bases at left, the Red army will launch lightning war on secret objectives. The Blues (at right) will defend. Foe of both will be swamps and mud, but these will prove the worth of modern war implements in sweeping troop movements.



Regional setting of war games.

COLFAX HAS 1,352

ALEXANDRIA, La., May 4.—(AP)—The 1940 population of Colfax, Grant parish, was given as 1,352, an increase of 211 over 1930, in the first official census figures released by D. D. Newman, supervisor of census for the eighth congressional district here today. Mr. Newman said this was a preliminary announcement subject to correction.

PROOF THAT EARTH IS ROUND

Four observable proofs that the earth is round are: During an eclipse of the moon, the earth's shadow on the moon is round; men have traveled around the earth; the sinking from view of ships as they sail away to sea; and, as we travel southward, stars in the north sink toward the horizon, and new ones come into view in the southern skies.

'Boys In Gray' Refuse Aid From 'Damyankees'

They Want Louisiana And Sam Jones To Pay Their Pensions

BATON ROUGE, La., May 4.—(AP)—The Confederate pension board in its report to the legislature warns that unless additional revenue is provided for the next two years, monthly payments to Louisiana veterans of the War Between the States must be reduced from $60 to $40.

The current $60 payments are the maximum allowed by law and veterans still claim "back pensions" for a three-year period during which they received only $30 a month.

The board estimates that it needs about $400,000 during the next two years if it is to maintain the maximum $60 payments. An additional $1,000,000 or more will be required if the "back pension" claims are to be met.

During his campaign Governor-Elect Sam H. Jones pledged payments of the "back pensions" to the 46 remaining Civil war veterans and the nearly 1,000 widows of veterans entitled to pensions under the law.

Pensions are financed by three-quarter mills of the state property tax, netting about $900,000 a year. Bond retirement and interest payments require approximately $650,000 for this, leaving $250,000 each year for pensions and operating expenses.

The board estimates it will require $625,000 for pension payments at the $60 maximum during the current calendar year and, taking mortality figures into consideration, $515,000 for 1941. On present revenues this would leave the board with $403,352.80 deficit on December 31, 1941. The operating expenses are nominal.

"It is evident," the board says, after showing that a deficit is inevitable under its property tax allocation, "that additional funds must be provided, perhaps through sale of pension bonds to mature in 1952, or later, if pension payments are to be continued at the maximum amount of $60 a month to each pensioner.

"Otherwise the pension money available will probably not provide more than $40 per month to each pensioner over the next two years."

Thus, the board suggests using the $250,000 residue from its property tax revenues for funding new bonds so that the $60 pensions may be continued during 1940 and 1941.

The board now has approximately $4,000,000 bonds outstanding with maturities dated gradually through 1951.

Observers believe dedication of the $250,000 working capital available to the board for the next year or two would fund bonds sufficient to pay $60 pensions during 1940 and 1941 as well as the back pensions.

The $30 pensions paid from June 1, 1932, to June 1, 1935, came during the height of the depression when the board, according to its current report, was short on funds. Although the maximum $60 payments were authorized by law during this period, the report points out, "it was not mandatory that the maximum amount be paid."

After the shortage cleared and "necessary additional funds were provided, all pensions (after 1935) were again increased to the maximum amount allowed by law."

The 1938 legislature authorized the state board of liquidation of the state debt to fund the property tax revenues allocated to pension payments for meeting the "back pension" claims. However, the board of liquidation never availed itself of the authority and the money never has been raised.

Meanwhile, since 1938, the names of 42 veterans and 297 widows have been stricken from the pension roll, principally because of death.

Incidentally, under the constitution pension payments could be partially financed by the federal government by placing recipients in the welfare department category for needy aged. In this maner the government would contribute up to $15 a month for each pensioner, saving the state an estimated $50,000 a year.

A move in this direction in 1936, however, brought heavy protest from pensioners. The Confederates opposed being classed as needy, for one thing.

For another, they refused any helping hand from a "damned Yankee" government.

$2,800,000 Sent Abroad Has American Government In Stew

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—(AP)—Agents of the United States government sought to learn today in what manner $2,800,000 was obtained for the aid of civilians in the war-stricken areas of China.

Leaders in this city's Chinatown—largest in the nation—admitted they had been questioned both by the federal bureau of investigation and the securities and exchange commission, but said the whole affair was "instigated by the Japanese.

(Japanese and Chinese stores are intermingled along Chinatown's narrow streets and despite hostilities in the orient the situation in the main has remained peaceful. There was no indication that the Chinese deemed local Japanese residents responsible for the investigation.)

Half of the $2,800,000 was raised in this area.

The F. B. I. office in Washington admitted a study was being made. The San Francisco office declined other comment.

T. Y. Tang, head of the campaign committee of the Chinese War Relief association, said the investigations were spurred by Japanese complaints, denied any wrong-doing, and commented that many contributions had been sent directly to China without aid from the association.

He said the F. B. I. was interested in how contributions were obtained and whether the association was or should be registered with the United States government, and that the SEC had asked regarding sale of unregistered bonds.

Tang said all contributions has been "purely voluntary," that whether the association was required to register had not been determined, and that he knew of no sale of bonds in connection with efforts to raise funds.

Tang indicated he anticipated no trouble in establishing his association's good faith and intent.

POLICE WHISTLE TRILL

A policeman's whistle has no vibrating object. The trill in it is due to the fact that the whistle is a double pipe affair, with one pipe producing a note of 10 to 15 vibrations more per second than the other, causing them to get out of step and back in step again in rapid succession.

BULLETS FLY, WIFE IS KILLED

Coroner Keeps Mum When Body Is Found In Doctor's Home

SPOKANE, Wash., May 4—(AP)—Dr. R. A. Hahn waited calmly in city jail today while police and county officials searched his home for clues, the coroner studied post-mortem findings and relatives made funeral arrangements for his wife, Sylvia, 42, who was found shot to death in her bedroom Thursday afternoon.

"Dr. Hahn has shown little concern over the outcome of the case," said Prosecutor Carl Quackenbush, adding that the reports of all officers possibly would be checked today in an attempt to determine whether Mrs. Hahn was slain or died by her own hand.

"We can't hurry the horses" was the only comment of Coroner Dr. I. S. Collins on the possible reason for the shooting, but he said Mrs. Hahn's skull was fractured when a bullet from an automatic pistol entered the right side of her head.

Quickenbush said the bedroom in which Mrs. Hahn's body was found, after the physician called police, was marked by more than a dozen bullet holes in walls and furniture.

The doctor, now "going on 75—and that's old enough for anybody," married his second wife 22 years ago. She had been his office girl. Two divorce actions and a police court appearance after a family quarrel kept them often in the headlines.

Sylvia Hahn was childless. She leaves three brothers, including Mordie Fly, Los Angeles, and Cletis Fly, Laurel, Mont.; five sisters, including Mrs. Grace Greub, St. Joseph, Mo., and her mother, Mrs. Mary Fly, Spokane.

COMMUNIST EDITOR FACES YEAR IN JAIL

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Editor Clarence Hathaway of the Communist Daily Worker, convicted of criminal libel, is open to a possible year in prison when he comes up for sentencing May 17.

A special panel jury returned the verdict last night, convicting on the same charge the Comprodaily Publishing company, publisher of the Daily Worker. The jury acquitted Hyman Colodny, former business manager of the paper.

Conviction of the 46-year-old Hathaway was based on a complaint by Mrs. Edith Liggett, widow of the slain Minneapolis editor, Walter Liggett, who charged that she and the memory of her husband were libelled by articles appearing in the Communist newspaper.

Liggett was shot by gunmen in 1935, the day before he was to urge before the legislature the impeachment of the late Governor Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota.

Hathaway was paroled in the custody of his counsel, Edward Kuntz, until Monday, when he must produce bail of $1,000.

Meanwhile a civil suit brought by Mrs. Liggett to compel payment by the newspaper and Hathaway of a libel judgment for $2,672 is pending. Trial has been set for May 6.

FEARS NO WAR— BUT FEARS PEACE

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—A geographer who helped draw the European boundary lines which Hitler's legions have been erasing declared last night that, even if he had the power, he would not halt the war today.

"I am not so much afraid of war, even in its present unfortunate status, as I am afraid of peace," Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of the Johns Hopkins university in Baltimore, told the American council on education.

"We aren't ready for peace," said Dr. Bowman, who was chief territorial specialist for the 1918 United States peace commission. "We haven't thought out our approach to it. We haven't decided what we want."

While declining to take the prophetic role of his namesake, Isaiah, and attempt to guess the war's outcome, Dr. Bowman said:

"If Germany wins this war, it will be a wholly irrational world, and no constructive program for peace will come.

"If the allies win—and I hope they will, don't be sure it will be a wholly rational world.

"If a stalemate occurs, it may be a rational world, because we may be brought in as umpires."

He explained that a military triumph by either side would put force and fear—not rationalism—into ascendancy at the conference table. That was the case at Versailles, he asserted.

Urging educators to aid peoples and governments in "evoking new power" to decide and obtain "what we want" from a peace treaty, Dr. Bowman set forth the proposition that the first objective should be—after war as before—"feeding hungry men."

LUMBER SCHOONER SINKING, GETS AID

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—(AP)—The coast guard said the cutter Ariadne had been dispatched to the aid of the coastal lumber schooner Daisy Mathews early today after the 204-foot vessel reported it was leaking badly and required assistance in heavy seas 250 miles north of San Francisco.

A report from the steamship Illinois, standing by the schooner, said the crew of the little vessel was throwing overboard its deckload of lumber, and had signalled that the ship could "hold out until morning."

FARMERVILLE 4-H PARADES

FARMERVILLE, May 4—(Special)—Union parish 4-H club members paraded through the main section of Farmerville Saturday morning on the occasion of 4-H club achievement day, each club assembled in a separate group with a banner made with the 4-H colors.

The boys and girls assembled at the agricultural auditorium at 8:30, and paraded to the High school auditorium to begin their work to ascertain who will win the 4-H pins and the trips to the short course at Baton Rouge. In the parish-wide contest day or achievement day, the clubs competed to determine the winners of the trophies. The Union parish farm bureau will award a trophy to the high school club scoring the most points on the day and the Farmerville Lions club will make a similar award to the winning grammar school club.

Coroner Keeps Mum When Body Is Found In Doctor's Home

SPOKANE, Wash., May 4.—(AP)—Dr. R. A. "We can't hurry the horses" was the only comment of Coroner Dr. I. S. Collins on the possible reason for the shooting, but he said Mrs. Hahn's skull was fractured when a bullet from an automatic pistol entered the right side of her head.

Quickenbush said the bedroom in which Mrs. Hahn's body was found, after the physician called police, was marked by more than a dozen bullet holes in walls and furniture.

The doctor, now "going on 75—and that's old enough for anybody," married his second wife 22 years ago. She had been his office girl. Two divorce actions and a police court appearance after a family quarrel kept them often in the headlines.

Sylvia Hahn was childless. She leaves three brothers, including Mordie Fly, Los Angeles, and Cletis Fly, Laurel, Mont.; five sisters, including Mrs. Grace Greub, St. Joseph, Mo., and her mother, Mrs. Mary Fly, Spokane.

COMMUNIST EDITOR FACES YEAR IN JAIL

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Editor Clarence Hathaway of the Communist Daily Worker, convicted of criminal libel, is open to a possible year in prison when he comes up for sentencing May 17.

A special panel jury returned the verdict last night, convicting on the same charge the Comprodaily Publishing company, publisher of the Daily Worker. The jury acquitted Hyman Colodny, former business manager of the paper.

Conviction of the 46-year-old Hathaway was based on a complaint by Mrs. Edith Liggett, widow of the slain Minneapolis editor, Walter Liggett, who charged that she and the memory of her husband were libelled by articles appearing in the Communist newspaper.

Liggett was shot by gunmen in 1935, the day before he was to urge before the legislature the impeachment of the late Governor Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota.

Hathaway was paroled in the custody of his counsel, Edward Kuntz, until Monday, when he must produce bail of $1,000.

Meanwhile a civil suit brought by Mrs. Liggett to compel payment by the newspaper and Hathaway of a libel judgment for $2,672 is pending. Trial has been set for May 6.

FEARS NO WAR— BUT FEARS PEACE

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—A geographer who helped draw the European boundary lines which Hitler's legions have been erasing declared last night that, even if he had the power, he would not halt the war today.

"I am not so much afraid of war, even in its present unfortunate status, as I am afraid of peace," Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of the Johns Hopkins university in Baltimore, told the American council on education.

"We aren't ready for peace," said Dr. Bowman, who was chief territorial specialist for the 1918 United States peace commission. "We haven't thought out our approach to it. We haven't decided what we want."

While declining to take the prophetic role of his namesake, Isaiah, and attempt to guess the war's outcome, Dr. Bowman said:

"If Germany wins this war, it will be a wholly irrational world, and no constructive program for peace will come.

"If the allies win—and I hope they will, don't be sure it will be a wholly rational world.

"If a stalemate occurs, it may be a rational world, because we may be brought in as umpires."

He explained that a military triumph by either side would put force and fear—not rationalism—into ascendancy at the conference table. That was the case at Versailles, he asserted.

Urging educators to aid peoples and governments in "evoking new power" to decide and obtain "what we want" from a peace treaty, Dr. Bowman set forth the proposition that the first objective should be—after war as before—"feeding hungry men."

TECH SOCIAL FRATERNITY GOES NATIONAL SATURDAY

RUSTON, La., May 4.—(Special)—Sigma Alpha Delta, local social fraternity at Louisiana Tech, has joined the ranks of the national Pi Kappa Alpha organization. Gamma Psi, as the chapter at Tech will be called, was installed Saturday night following a two-day round of events at which the local fraternity men were hosts to approximately 50 alumni and officials of Pi Kappa Alpha.

Those initiated into Pi Kappa Alpha Saturday are:

J. B. Middleton, Ida; W. L. Andreola, Shreveport; Cavitt Cookston, Winnfield; Pete Levert, Shreveport; Billy Newman, Shreveport; B. Stratton, El Dorado, Ark.; Harbert Marshall, Monroe; Simon Hodge, Calhoun; W. E. Odom, Farmerville; Noel Learned, Monroe; Tommy Nicholson, Monroe; J. D. Calhoun, Ruston, Clyde Brooke, Homer.

E. Ruff, Jr., faculty adviser.

LUMBER SCHOONER SINKING, GETS AID

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—(AP)—The coast guard said the cutter Ariadne had been dispatched to the aid of the coastal lumber schooner Daisy Mathews early today after the 204-foot vessel reported it was leaking badly and required assistance in heavy seas 250 miles north of San Francisco.

A report from the steamship Illinois, standing by the schooner, said the crew of the little vessel was throwing overboard its deckload of lumber, and had signalled that the ship could "hold out until morning."

FARMERVILLE 4-H PARADES

FARMERVILLE, May 4.—(Special)—Union parish 4-H club members paraded through the main section of Farmerville Saturday morning on the occasion of 4-H club achievement day, each club assembled in a separate group with a banner made with the 4-H colors.

The boys and girls assembled at the agricultural auditorium at 8:30, and paraded to the High school auditorium to begin their work to ascertain who will win the 4-H pins and the trips to the short course at Baton Rouge. In the parish-wide contest day or achievement day, the clubs competed to determine the winners of the trophies. The Union parish farm bureau will award a trophy to the high school club scoring the most points on the day and the Farmerville Lions club will make a similar award to the winning grammar school club.

BLAST WRECKS POWDER HOUSE

Early Morning Explosion Kills No One, Does Little Damage

PENNS GROVE, N. J., May 4.—(AP)—Two tons of rifle powder exploded at 4:45 a.m., eastern standard time, today in a building of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours company at nearby Carney's Point.

The blast shook this south Jersey area for miles but caused no serious injuries or property damage. Two workmen in another building 150 feet distant suffered from shock and were treated at a hospital. They are J. L. Roberts and H. L. Curtis, both of Penns Grove.

A company spokesman said the powder blew up "in what is known as a rifle-glazing barrel, where powder is polished." The barrel was located in a one-story galvanized iron building. Cause of the explosion was not immediately determined.

Three small narrow-gauge railway cars loaded with powder that had just been processed caught fire and burned nearby. The company said each car contained approximately 4,000 pounds of powder, which burned but did not explode.

About 150 men were at work in the plant at the time. The shock was felt in Wilmington, Del., five miles away, and across the Delaware river in Chester and Marcus Hook, Pa.

RADIO AMATEURS HOLD MAY MEET AT COLLEGE

Noth Louisiana radio amateurs assembled at Northeast Junior college Thursday ngiht for the first May meeting of the Ouachita Valley Amateur Radio club.

Well known in this section of the state, the Ouachita Valley Amateur Radio club is an organization open to all radio amateurs from the Ouachita valley area, and already includes in its membership radio amateurs from Hodge, Rayville, Jonesboro, Bastrop, Crowville, Sterlington, Lake Providence, Winnsboro, Shreveport, Holly Ridge, Ruston, West Monroe and Monroe.

Sessions are held in various towns in the area, the first meeting last month taking place at the country club in Hodge, where 55 members and guests were entertained by the radio amateurs who live in Jonesboro and Hodge. According to plans already made, other future meetings will also be held in several surrounding towns.

During 1939 a total of $399,097,000 was collected in state registration fees.

Qualifications

Milwaukee has just rejected its former mayor who has given the city 24 years of efficient, faithful service and has replaced him with a chap whose principal qualification for the head of the municipality seems to be that he made himself popular by singing all over town.

In its last gubernatorial contest the great state of Texas elevated to the governorship a fellow who warbled ditties and told jokes to get votes. Incidentally that governor has distinguished himself by giving a 30-day reprieve to a negro sentenced to death so the condemned man would have longer to suffer through longer contemplation of his execution.

We Americans have not yet quite grown up. Not yet do we appreciate the responsibility placed on our shoulders by the privilege of franchise. Not yet have we grasped the truth that the right to vote carries with it the grave obligation to vote sincerely, seriously and intelligently. Often we treat our votes with about as much respect as we treat soap wrappers when we are not saving the premium coupons.

A few years ago a candidate in the state of Washington won a high public office by promising if elected to have chorus girls run the street cars and water hydrants spout free beer.

No wonder the agents of Communism and Naziism are so hopefully busy over here. Naturally they think that people with no more sense than we so often manifest in our public affairs can be fooled into falling for anything.

We are a big nation with the right to vote, and we don't know how to use it—yet. We are like heirs to a great fortune who are unaccustomed to riches, and do not know how to employ and safeguard them. Such persons are always the prey of exploiters. Too often such heirs learn only after they have been wangled out of their inheritance. Let us hope that we Americans who have inherited the precious right of franchise will learn how to use it before we lose it.

WAGE-HOUR DEBATE

Bitterness of the debate in the house on revision of the wage and hour law centers especially on two points—white collar workers and exemption of farm workers from the law.

Workers in an executive capacity getting $150 a month would be exempted by one amendment. This, it is held, would ease the burden on business which is now forced to pay time and a half to such men when they work more than 42 hours a week.

There is much confusion about the status of agricultural workers. Under the present interpretation of the law an "area of production" has been applied. This area is a ten-mile circle. After farm products leave this circle the people who handle them are subject to the terms of the wage-hour law. It is contended this is depressing farm prices and otherwise proving annoying to agriculture.

John L. Lewis is lambasting every hint of an amendment to the law. The administration is extremely hesitant about going very far with revision. President Roosevelt opposes all revision. But a large number of congressmen, fired by public criticism, are taking the initiative for revision and seem intent on going down the line for it.

THEORY AND PRACTICE

A few years ago there spread widely over England, especially among young men, a movement whose adherents took oath never to shoulder a gun in any war.

So popular was this movement that many believed that any British attempt to raise an army would face serious difficulties.

Many did stand firm on their convictions, and the conscientious objectors have had dignified and considerate hearings as they were called to service and stood on their principles. But in the latest call of 312,912 men of age 26, only 3,838 listed themselves as conscientious objectors, about 1.23 per cent.

Thus the force of circumstances has beaten down the conscientious principles of many, who realize now that only if German youth were in a position to take the same attitude could their principles set up an effective barrier against war.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON — Vitally needing dollars and unable to borrow any, Great Britain has set out to get them by currency manipulation and renewed competition in foreign trade. Directly and indirectly, the plan is likely to be costly to American business.

The pound sterling is pegged at $4.02, but in the "free markets" outside of England it can be bought for $3.56, or thereabouts. An American trader buying British goods for import naturally gets more for his money if he can change his dollars into pounds at the low, or free market, rate.

Late in March, however, the British government ruled that all the empire's exports of tin, rubber, jute, jute products and Scotch whisky must be paid for via the official $4.02 rate. These are products on which the empire has virtually a monopoly. Last year, the United States bought $250,000,000 worth of them. New ruling means that an American out to buy a pound sterling worth of rubber, for instance, must pay $4.02 for it instead of $3.56.

Argentine Must 'Buy British'

In addition, Britain is trying a new stunt in South America. When goods from Argentina are sold in Britain, the sterling exchange thus obtained is "frozen" and can't be used for any purpose except to buy British goods for import into Argentina.

The drive to increase United States exports to South America rested largely on the hope that even if a nation like Argentina couldn't boost its sales to the United States, it could use foreign exchange obtained by its exports to Britain to pay for more United States goods. Thus, it was hoped, the United States could get a big share of the trade formerly held by Germany.

Freezing of exchange with the Argentine kills that hope. This may be significant for other Latin nations.

CAA Juggling Worries Congressmen

Congressmen interested in commercial aviation are puzzled and a bit worried by the new reorganization order which abolishes the air safety board and puts the civil aeronautics authority back in the department of commerce.

One value of the old setup was that air safety was independent and if it chose, could even blame a crash on a defective regulation of CAA itself. (It never did, though it has recommended changes in some CAA regulations.) Now its job will be done by CAA.

More important, CAA was beyond political pressure. With its administrator due to be virtually a bureau head in commerce, the way has been opened—in theory, anyway—for political control.

Townsend Plan Wins Smiles

Not without significance was the friendly reception the Townsend plan got in the senate the other day when Senator Downey moved for an investigation of the plan and its gross income tax proposal. Not only were kind words said about the plan publicly, which could be mere vote-catching devices, but in private, Downey got the nod from some pretty solid conservatives.

Biggest favor congress ever did the Townsendites was last year, when it deferred the scheduled increase in social security payroll taxes. That was a long step toward getting social security off an actuarial basis and financing it out of the general fund. Because that step was taken, existence of the social security act is no longer the effective barrier against the Townsend plan that it was originally designed to be.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, May 4.—Dear Staff: Can you name me one good reason (parental objections don't count as a good reason) why Shirley Temple and Jane Withers are not co-starred in a picture?

Such a film would be a b.o. natural! These two youngsters did appear together some years back, and teamed beautifully. I am sure the proper vehicle, providing each with the type of role at which she excels, would bolster the popularity of both young ladies. At the same time, 20th Century-Fox's pockets would sag with gold.

There have been tales of feuds between the Temple and Withers clans. Such stories are more or less nonsense. There has been rivalry, to be sure; there would be, with the two kids under contract to the same studio. And frankly, I wouldn't care to be the director of the picture co-starring Jane and Shirley; the poor guy is a cinch to finish his job a nervous wreck.

It's only natural for the parents of the two young stars to fight against teaming them—but is the studio boss or not? Of course, to give one little girl more footage or an extra word of dialogue might precipitate a typhoon that would make Sam Goldwyn's "Hurricane" look like an April puff. But a properly prepared scenario would eliminate this danger.

Personally, I would walk a mile to see La Temple, and another mile to view Miss Withers. I would stretch it to three miles to see the pair of them, and I'll bet I would have to stand in line.

JIMMIE FIDLER.

Dear Boss: Being unable to think of a comeback to the above suggestion—we also would walk miles in the same cause—we'll start today's gossip broadcast without delay.

Expect Helen Gilbert and Agent Vic Orsatti (June Lang's ex) to Yumate when her divorce is final. . . . Maureen O'Sullivan is packing for a quick jaunt to Toronto, Canada, where hubby John Farrow is training for active war duty in the Oakleaf navy. . . . Blue-pencil those rift rumors about the Fred MacMurrays—we've checked, and there's nothing to 'em. . . . Richard (Connie Bennett's b. f.) Ainley, who's been mulling movie offers, will sign with WB if the price is right. . . . Look for a decided upswing in Technicolor production now the price has been pared a cent a foot. . . . Freddie Bartholomew, who's shooting a 16 mm burlesque of his current pic, "Tom Brown's Schooldays," persuaded Producers Gene Towne and Graham Baker to don Eton jackets and play the comedy leads.

Elsa Maxwell is one up on that femme columnist who's been making unkind remarks of late—she sent the pillar-peddler a catnip bouquet and a box of liver pills! . . . Speaking of feuds, have you heard about the one twixt pro-Roosevelt W. S. Van Dyke and anti-Roosevelt William Powell—"Woody" gained an edge yesterday by plastering Bill's car with New Deal posters. . . . Now it's John Carroll who's shopping for a Valley stock ranch. . . . Don Ameche, unhappy because of too many sugary roles, is urging studio bosses to assign him at least one menace a year. . . . Lionel Atwill has posted "For Sale" signs on his Maryland estate and will home-build in Hollywood.

There's a dramatic incident behind those "No Visitors Allowed" signs on the "Four Sons" set at 20th Century-Fox. The other day a lady tourist from Paris rounded a sound stage and suddenly found herself confronted by Alan Curtis, authentically decked from head-to-toe in the Nazi storm trooper's uniform he wears in the picture. Her face flamed. Then as Alan, with a hasty apology tried to step aside, she spit on the hated uniform!

Tyrone Power and Dean Jagger will violate Hollywood custom by taking their better-halves on "Brigham Young" location jaunts. . . . Judy Garland has dated Robert Stack, former champ, for skeet-shooting lessons. . . . Lorin Raker has signed for a spot in Neil Hamilton's movie exhibit at the S F World's fair. . . . Basil Rathbone and Frank Cavens, swordsplay instructor, are producing a short on fencing, and will make a series if it clicks. . . . Better Business Bureau sleuths should investigate photographers who are tricking visiting notables by posing—but not putting themselves on record—as news cameramen and then hi-pressuring portrait sales.

State Welfare worked mixed champagne bibing at a birthday party on the "Street of Memories" set because Lynn Roberts, leading lady in the pic, is under eighteen. . . . Frank Morgan is re-fitting his boat for that Alaskan cruise and plans to hoist canvas early next month. . . . Gloria Stuart, out of pics for a year while world-touring, will divide time between scenario scribing and acting. . . . Have you heard Lynn Overman's crack about that dizzy blonde? He says she has a photographic mind—under-developed!

Human Side Of The News

(Copyright, 1940, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

When a policeman touches you on the shoulder, it is, on the whole, better to go quietly, without making him put the handcuffs on you. You will do well to remember this the next time you get arrested. We cull this little homily from an essay on change and conformity by Hymie Augen, who fills the chair of sociology, for this seminar; that is, in research covering Red Hook, Hester and Allen streets and the Bowery, stuss, keno, craps, blackjack, sumptuary legislation, politics, free lunches and the like as they pertain to wider aspects of human behavior, over quite a stretch of years.

Mr. Augen's territory has undergone revolutionary change since his happy days as a stuss-dealer. He has been over in Red Hook and down on the lower East side, surveying the huge model housing developments, the supervised playgrounds, the various health and educational services which have replaced the old red brick tenements and the swarming free-for-all where they kept the coal in the bathtubs and the devil took the hindmost. He approves the change but ponders rather wistfully memories of certain excitements and adventures lost in the carry-over.

"Any gink that croaks and crabs about the good old days in Red Hook is just dotty," Mr. Augen reported. "I vote for soap and sunlight and free air and playgrounds and doctors and education, etc., like anybody would that wasn't mean or dumb, but I figure something here that I don't know if I can spill it or not. I'm just an amateur author and I might have to call it a pro to get it straight, even in my own conk.

"To show you what I mean, you take alleys and high backyard fences, and cellars and junk piles and screwy-looking old empty houses and maybe a nice city dump and there's something for a kid to work on. Whichever way you look, there's something to start rooting around and maybe fighting some other kid over some scrap iron and some cop-dodging over fences and roofs and maybe getting some old pieces of sheet-iron and gunnysacks and making a house for yourself, and playing sheep-pen-down at night. You have a pretty good time even if you are underprivileged—I got that word out of a piece I read in the paper about the new government houses in Red Hook. But, on the level, the other end of an alley can get a kid steamed up like Byrd going to the south pole.

"So I take a gander at this big new government playground in Red Hook. It was outfitted with swings and slides and sandpiles and teeter-totters and bats and balls—everything that kids like except a back-alley and a junk pile. There were two or three nice-looking dames standing around and if the kids got to making too much noise or started to take a poke at each other or anything like that, they made them pipe down. That was all right.

"The kids looked a lot cleaner than we used to be and they yelled a lot, the way kids do, but there was something missing. I couldn't make a book on it, but I figure the trouble was that this playground was fenced in and that everything you did was just that and didn't lead off into anything else. You get into a tangle of crooked streets and just follow your nose and maybe one of them will shoot you right off to the moon. But when it comes to a dead-end—that's the end of an alley they made a play about—this new government playground is all dead-end, even if it's nice.

"I wish they would put me on this committee or whatever it is that makes these new government houses and playgrounds. I would have a lot of caves and blind-alleys and a junk pile and a lot of corrugated iron and orange crates, etc., for the kids to make things with and I'd have everything lead into something else. Of course I would have some rules. I wouldn't let any kid carry a gat, or smoke hop or shoot trained dice or teach other kids the long roll or anything like that. But I'll bet, the way I would fix it, they would have a lot of fun and learn a lot, the way kids do, playing and fighting if they were left alone."

We summarize Mr. Augen's inference as to the bearing of the above on our social order, which derivation he always offers on the slightest provocation. As he puts it:

"It's nice to be clean and safe and have a pension in your old age, but when everything is in the bag, you know you will never fight Indians, or go gold-mining or be an aviator and maybe you were happier when you were just a dirty little brat and thought you were going to be a regular devil when you grew up."

But Hymie is no longer a cop-fighter. He goes peacefully, but, like Anatole France, sheds a tear for "the hell that formed his genius."

Don't Overlook Color When You're Buying Food Supplies

By Alice H. Smith
(Nutritionist, Cleveland Health Council)

How colorful is your diet?

That's a question you'd better look into the next time you order your groceries. There's food value in color.

Science has not come to the point where it thinks the color of a cabbage has anything to do with whether you are blond or brunet, but science is sure it has a lot to with your complexion, your teeth, your muscles and the luster of your hair.

The colorful diet is the diet contributing most to general good health and body-building. It includes these foods:

1. Green, leafy vegetables such as kale, green cabbage, lettuce, chard, mustard and dandelion greens, spinach. Their chief contribution is iron and vitamin A.
2. Yellow vegetables and fruits such as carrots, squash, sweet potatoes, apricots and peaches. These too are splendid sources of vitamin A.
3. Tomatoes (canned and fresh) and citrus fruits such as oranges, lemons, grapefruit and limes. This group is especially valuable as a dependable source of vitamin C.
4. Eggs. They contribute a good quality protein (muscle builder) along with iron, vitamin A and vitamin D.
5. Whole grain cereals and breads. These are good sources of thiamin (vitamin B), iron and phosphorus.
6. Cheese and milk. They supply the best quality protein as well as calcium, phosphorus, vitamins A, B and riboflavin.
7. Wheat, including the organs. These are also a rich source of iron, phosphorus, thiamin and nicotinic acid.

Because these foods contribute most to forming and maintaining healthy bodies, they are called "protective." In addition to the constituents mentioned here, they contain smaller amounts of other vitamins and minerals as well as supplying calories.

Finally, a colorful diet stimulates the appetite. Without an appetite no diet does its best work.

"Where's Mickey?"

"He's over at Hickey's doing some weeding. He asked me if he could go and I thought it would keep him out of the way for a while. He gets in everybody's hair. He hasn't anything he likes to do here. The other two haven't patience with him. I'm sure I don't know what's to be done with him."

"Too bad he's so dumb in school. The other two are bright enough."

"He is a dead loss in arithmetic. Can't seem to get it. That's the only subject he missed out on."

"The teacher's report didn't sound so good."

"Well, she has his brother and sister in mind. They get honor marks and he gets a low mark in arithmetic and good marks in the rest. He shows up poorly beside them. If he wasn't so dumb in arithmetic—"

"What do you suppose set him to weeding? He wouldn't think of weeding here."

"He's earning money. We wouldn't have enough weeding to do to keep him busy every day. And we wouldn't pay him."

Poor (?) Financier

"But why the sudden interest in working for money? Since when has money meant anything to him? He never seemed to want any. He's the only one who has any money at the end of the week. The others have to borrow from him, I notice."

"Yes, and forget to pay it back and he lets them get away with it. At least so far. This earning business may change his ways."

"Let's hope it sharpens his arithmetic. How long does he work and what does he get?"

"He works from seven to eleven and gets a dollar. He collects each day and puts it in his red box."

At lunch time Mickey, after eating about twice as much as his brother and sister, sighed contentedly and refused another helping of pie.

"How are you getting on with the job?" asked father. "Mother tells me you are a working man these days. I'm glad that there is another man in the house bringing in the sheaves. What are you going to do with all this money? A man has to think about that, you know, or he won't get very far ahead."

Mickey showed his delight at such recognition from father. His eyes danced and he said, "I'll talk that over, confidentially, with you. My business secrets have to be strictly respected, like Mr. Hickey's."

Not So Dumb

When he got a chance Mickey told father: "Mother wouldn't join the club she wanted to join because it cost twenty-five dollars a year," he said. "She pays Mrs. Sam about thirty a year for helping. I'm going to earn that twenty-five, maybe the whole thirty, and give it to her for Christmas so she can pay the club membership. But don't tell."

"Mickey, I thought you couldn't figure? Thought you couldn't use your head to see through a problem? Thought you said you were dumb in arithmetic?"

"So I am but I'm getting better, a little. Don't tell Ma, now, will you?"

"Nope. I wouldn't miss seeing her face Christmas morning when she gets that present, not for anything in this world, and just remember, boy, you've given me a grand present right now. You're a right good fellow. Shake, partner."

Mr. Patri has prepared a leaflet entitled "Sex Instruction," in which he tells parents how to approach and teach this all-important question. WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—The slap-and-scratch season soon will be with us . . . and I figured it's high time we got into the middle of the mosquito situation.

Wars may come and wars may go but the fall of the house of Oslo doesn't strike nearly as close to home as a cloud of whirring mosquitoes on the night you and the best girl have gone to the lake for a picnic and a swim.

Sitting in Rock Creek park the other night, I slapped at a whining noise nearing the back of my neck. It might have been the first mosquito of the season. Like a diplomat caught in a corner, it refused to be interviewed. But just hearing it there gave me an idea and I popped in on the federal bureau of entomology today. They know more about mosquitoes than J. Edgar Hoover, Martin Dies, and the army and navy combined will ever know about Nazis.

For example, Kipling couldn't possibly have written with so much fervor about the "female of the species" being more deadly than the male, if he hadn't had a brush with mosquitoes. As a matter of fact, it's the female mosquito that's afflicted with blood lust.

They Croon Of Love

The young men of the tribe are just winged Rudy Vallees and Bing Crosbys who vo-do-de-o-do about the summer night, trying to get the ladies to pay them some mind. And it's their little habit of going where the female humming is thickest that the bureau of entomology hopes will be their undoing.

The bureau is pushing a new electrical gadget which duplicates the siren love songs of the mosquito femmes. When the young men dash into the trap, the result is shocking . . . at least shocking enough to kill the lovesick swains. The theory is that if this wholesale electrocution system can kill off enough males, the queenies will get discouraged and the tribe will become extinct. It's a grand theory. I hope it works.

That wasn't all I learned from the bureau. Not only are the girl mosquitoes the only ones that attack man but only one of three families of girls is deadly.

If you've merely had a night out with the Culex and Aedes girls, the bureau tells me, you needn't worry. They are pests, it is true, and can raise hob and knobs on the skin you love to touch and yours, too, but they don't do serius damage.

She's A Changed Gal

Edie Aedis and her clan used to pack a kiss of death but science put a stop to that. They isolated the yellowjack sufferers . . . put them where Edie couldn't come up to see them anymore . . . which made a lady out of Edie. That applies only to this country. There are some nations where Edie still is doing business as Murder, Inc., but even there she's losing ground.

The Borgia of mosquitoes today is Anopheles. Annie is the girl who held up the building of the Panama canal. Her specialty is malaria. It wasn't until the United States army medical corps went to work on Annie—made her home untenable, destroyed her larvae by gillions—that workmen could work in Panama.

Only recently a flock of the girls (Anopheles Gambiae) hitch-hiked from Africa on a transatlantic plane and started a serious outbreak of malaria in Brazil. That's why you'll find the bureau of entomology boys down at the airport, combing over every plane that comes in from South America.

It's Annie's sisters (including a recent debutante Anpheles Walkeri Theobald) down in the southland that do the most damage in the United States and malaria victims are so common there that it's impossible to hide them all. Annie has some kinfolks in the west, too, but they have a hard time finding malaria blood.

The bureau and medicine and education are making headway. The time may come when the Borgias of Mosquito-land may be as dead as the Borgias of history. But it's still a good idea to duck when you hear that hum-o-de-o-do, even if it's only Bing Mosquito crooning to a lovelorn mate.

Hatay's Pictorials Were Republic's Last Issue

THERE will be no more "Hata Devleti" stamps. The littl two-year-old republic, originall carved out of Syria, shown on th map stamp above, became part Turkey as the price France pai for the promise of Turkish assist ance in the Near East.

The 1939 pictorial series of fou designs and 13 values, and a post age due set of four values, con prise the principal philatelic issue of the short-lived republic. Th first Hatay stamps were Syria and Turkish overprints. The en of the republic is noted, philatel cally, by overprints of a Turkis issue of 1930.

Hatay became independent u der a treaty between France a Turkey in 1937. Turkey formal annexed the 3000-square mile n tion of 250,000 people on July 2 1939. Citizens were permitted choose Syrian, Lebanese or Tur ish citizenship. Those rejecti Turkey will be given 18 months leave the area.

Qualifications

Milwaukee has just rejected its former mayor who has given the city 24 years of efficient, faithful service and has replaced him with a chap whose principal qualification for the head of the municipality seems to be that he made himself popular by singing all over town.

In its last gubernatorial contest the great state of Texas elevated to the governorship a fellow who warbled ditties and told jokes to get votes. Incidentally that governor has distinguished himself by giving a 30-day reprieve to a negro sentenced to death so the condemned man would have longer to suffer through longer contemplation of his execution.

We Americans have not yet quite grown up. Not yet do we appreciate the responsibility placed on our shoulders by the privilege of franchise. Not yet have we grasped the truth that the right to vote carries with it the grave obligation to vote sincerely, seriously and intelligently. Often we treat our votes with about as much respect as we treat soap wrappers when we are not saving the premium coupons.

A few years ago a candidate in the state of Washington won a high public office by promising if elected to have chorus girls run the street cars and water hydrants spout free beer.

No wonder the agents of Communism and Naziism are so hopefully busy over here. Naturally they think that people with no more sense than we so often manifest in our public affairs can be fooled into falling for anything.

We are a big nation with the right to vote, and we don't know how to use it—yet. We are like heirs to a great fortune who are unaccustomed to riches, and do not know how to employ and safeguard them. Such persons are always the prey of exploiters. Too often such heirs learn only after they have been wangled out of their inheritance. Let us hope that we Americans who have inherited the precious right of franchise will learn how to use it before we lose it.

WAGE-HOUR DEBATE

Bitterness of the debate in the house on revision of the wage and hour law centers especially on two points—white collar workers and exemption of farm workers from the law.

Workers in an executive capacity getting $150 a month would be exempted by one amendment. This, it is held, would ease the burden on business which is now forced to pay time and a half to such men when they work more than 42 hours a week.

There is much confusion about the status of agricultural workers. Under the present interpretation of the law an "area of production" has been applied. This area is a ten-mile circle. After farm products leave this circle the people who handle them are subject to the terms of the wage-hour law. It is contended this is depressing farm prices and otherwise proving annoying to agriculture.

John L. Lewis is lambasting every hint of an amendment to the law. The administration is extremely hesitant about going very far with revision. President Roosevelt opposes all revision. But a large number of congressmen, fired by public criticism, are taking the initiative for revision and seem intent on going down the line for it.

THEORY AND PRACTICE

A few years ago there spread widely over England, especially among young men, a movement whose adherents took oath never to shoulder a gun in any war.

So popular was this movement that many believed that any British attempt to raise an army would face serious difficulties.

Many did stand firm on their convictions, and the conscientious objectors have had dignified and considerate hearings as they were called to service and stood on their principles. But in the latest call of 312,912 men of age 26, only 3,838 listed themselves as conscientious objectors, about 1.23 per cent.

Thus the force of circumstances has beaten down the conscientious principles of many, who realize now that only if German youth were in a position to take the same attitude could their principles set up an effective barrier against war.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON — Vitally needing dollars and unable to borrow any, Great Britain has set out to get them by currency manipulation and renewed competition in foreign trade. Directly and indirectly, the plan is likely to be costly to American business.

The pound sterling is pegged at $4.02, but in the "free markets" outside of England it can be bought for $3.56, or thereabouts. An American trader buying British goods for import naturally gets more for his money if he can change his dollars into pounds at the low , or free market, rate.

Late in March, however, the British government ruled that all the empire's exports of tin, rubber, jute, jute products and Scotch whisky must be paid for via the official $4.02 rate. These are products on which the empire has virtually a monopoly. Last year, the United States bought $250,000,000 worth of them. New ruling means that an American out to buy a pound sterling worth of rubber, for instance, must pay $4.02 for it instead of $3.56.

Argentine Must 'Buy British'

In addition, Britain is trying a new stunt in South America. When goods from Argentina are sold in Britain, the sterling exchange thus obtained is "frozen" and can't be used for any purpose except to buy British goods for import into Argentina.

The drive to increase United States exports to South America rested largely on the hope that even if a nation like Argentina couldn't boost its sales to the United States, it could use foreign exchange obtained by its exports to Britain to pay for more United States goods. Thus, it was hoped, the United States could get a big share of the trade formerly held by Germany.

Freezing of exchange with the Argentine kills that hope. This may be significant for other Latin nations.

CAA Juggling Worries Congressmen

Congressmen interested in commercial aviation are puzzled and a bit worried by the new reorganization order which abolishes the air safety board and puts the civil aeronautics authority back in the department of commerce.

One value of the old setup was that air safety was independent and if it chose, could even blame a crash on a defective regulation of CAA itself. (It never did, though it has recommended changes in some CAA regulations.) Now its job will be done by CAA.

More important, CAA was beyond political pressure. With its administrator due to be virtually a bureau head in commerce, the way has been opened—in theory, anyway—for political control.

Townsend Plan Wins Smiles

Not without significance was the friendly reception the Townsend plan got in the senate the other day when Senator Downey moved for an investigation of the plan and its gross income tax proposal. Not only were kind words said about the plan publicly, which could be mere vote-catching devices, but in private, Downey got the nod from some pretty solid conservatives.

Biggest favor congress ever did the Townsendites was last year, when it deferred the scheduled increase in social security payroll taxes. That was a long step toward getting social security off an actuarial basis and financing it out of the general fund. Because that step was taken, existence of the social security act is no longer the effective barrier against the Townsend plan that it was originally designed to be.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, May 4.—Dear Staff: Can you name me one good reason (parental objections don't count as a good reason) why Shirley Temple and Jane Withers are not co-starred in a picture?

Such a film would be a b.o. natural! These two youngsters did appear together some years back, and teamed beautifully. I am sure the proper vehicle, providing each with the type of role at which she excels, would bolster the popularity of both young ladies. At the same time, 20th Century-Fox's pockets would sag with gold.

There have been tales of feuds between the Temple and Withers clans. Such stories are more or less nonsense. There has been rivalry, to be sure; there would be, with the two kids under contract to the same studio. And frankly, I wouldn't care to be the director of the picture co-starring Jane and Shirley; the poor guy is a cinch to finish his job a nervous wreck.

It's only natural for the parents of the two young stars to fight against teaming them—but is the studio boss or not? Of course, to give one little girl more footage or an extra word of dialogue might precipitate a typhoon that would make Sam Goldwyn's "Hurricane" look like an April puff. But a properly prepared scenario would eliminate this danger.

Personally, I would walk a mile to see La Temple, and another mile to view Miss Withers. I would stretch it to three miles to see the pair of them, and I'll bet I would have to stand in line.

JIMMIE FIDLER.

Dear Boss: Being unable to think of a comeback to the above suggestion—we also would walk miles in the same cause—we'll start today's gossip broadcast without delay.

Expect Helen Gilbert and Agent Vic Orsatti (June Lang's ex) to Yumate when her divorce is final. . . . Maureen O'Sullivan is packing for a quick jaunt to Toronto, Canada, where hubby John Farrow is training for active war duty in the Oakleaf navy. . . . Blue-pencil those rift rumors about the Fred MacMurrays—we've checked, and there's nothing to 'em. . . . Richard (Connie Bennett's b. f.) Ainley, who's been mulling movie offers, will sign with WB if the price is right. . . . Look for a decided upswing in Technicolor production now the price has been pared a cent a foot. . . . Freddie Bartholomew, who's shooting a 16 mm burlesque of his current pic, "Tom Brown's Schooldays," persuaded Producers Gene Towne and Graham Baker to don Eton jackets and play the comedy leads.

Elsa Maxwell is one up on that femme columnist who's been making unkind remarks of late—she sent the pillar-peddler a catnip bouquet and a box of liver pills! . . . Speaking of feuds, have you heard about the one twixt pro-Roosevelt W. S. Van Dyke and anti-Roosevelt William Powell—"Woody" gained an edge yesterday by plastering Bill's car with New Deal posters. . . . Now it's John Carroll who's shopping for a Valley stock ranch. . . . Don Ameche, unhappy because of too many sugary roles, is urging studio bosses to assign him at least one menace a year. . . . Lionel Atwill has posted "For Sale" signs on his Maryland estate and will home-build in Hollywood.

There's a dramatic incident behind those "No Visitors Allowed" signs on the "Four Sons" set at 20th Century-Fox. The other day a lady tourist from Paris rounded a sound stage and suddenly found herself confronted by Alan Curtis, authentically decked from head-to-toe in the Nazi storm trooper's uniform he wears in the picture. Her face flamed. Then as Alan, with a hasty apology tried to step aside, she spit on the hated uniform!

Tyrone Power and Dean Jagger will violate Hollywood custom by taking their better-halves on "Brigham Young" location jaunts. . . . Judy Garland has dated Robert Stack, former champ, for skeet-shooting lessons. . . . Lorin Raker has signed for a spot in Neil Hamilton's movie exhibit at the S F World's fair. . . . Basil Rathbone and Frank Cavens, swordsplay instructor, are producing a short on fencing, and will make a series if it clicks. . . . Better Business Bureau sleuths should investigate photographers who are tricking visiting notables by posing—but not putting themselves on record—as news cameramen and then hi-pressuring portrait sales.

State Welfare worked mixed champagne bibing at a birthday party on the "Street of Memories" set because Lynn Roberts, leading lady in the pic, is under eighteen. . . . Frank Morgan is re-fitting his boat for that Alaskan cruise and plans to hoist canvas early next month. . . . Gloria Stuart, out of pics for a year while world-touring, will divide time between scenario scribing and acting. . . . Have you heard Lynn Overman's crack about that dizzy blonde? He says she has a photographic mind—under-developed!

Human Side Of The News

(Copyright, 1940, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

When a policeman touches you on the shoulder, it is, on the whole, better to go quietly, without making him put the handcuffs on you. You will do well to remember this the next time you get arrested. We cull this little homily from an essay on change and conformity by Hymie Augen, who fills the chair of sociology, for this seminar; that is, in research covering Red Hook, Hester and Allen streets and the Bowery, stuss, keno, craps, blackjack, sumptuary legislation, politics, free lunches and the like as they pertain to wider aspects of human behavior, over quite a stretch of years.

Mr. Augen's territory has undergone revolutionary change since his happy days as a stuss-dealer. He has been over in Red Hook and down on the lower East side, surveying the huge model housing developments, the supervised playgrounds, the various health and educational services which have replaced the old red brick tenements and the swarming free-for-all where they kept the coal in the bathtubs and the devil took the hindmost. He approves the change but ponders rather wistfully memories of certain excitements and adventures lost in the carry-over.

"Any gink that croaks and crabs about the good old days in Red Hook is just dotty," Mr. Augen reported. "I vote for soap and sunlight and free air and playgrounds and doctors and education, etc., like anybody would that wasn't mean or dumb, but I figure something here that I don't know if I can spill it or not. I'm just an amateur author and I might have to call it a pro to get it straight, even in my own conk.

"To show you what I mean, you take alleys and high backyard fences, and cellars and junk piles and screwy-looking old empty houses and maybe a nice city dump and there's something for a kid to work on. Whichever way you look, there's something to start rooting around and maybe fighting some other kid over some scrap iron and some cop-dodging over fences and roofs and maybe getting some old pieces of sheet-iron and gunnysacks and making a house for yourself, and playing sheep-pen-down at night. You have a pretty good time even if you are underprivileged—I got that word out of a piece I read in the paper about the new government houses in Red Hook. But, on the level, the other end of an alley can get a kid steamed up like Byrd going to the south pole.

"So I take a gander at this big new government playground in Red Hook. It was outfitted with swings and slides and sandpiles and teeter-totters and bats and balls—everything that kids like except a back-alley and a junk pile. There were two or three nice-looking dames standing around and if the kids got to making too much noise or started to take a poke at each other or anything like that, they made them pipe down. That was all right.

"The kids looked a lot cleaner than we used to be and they yelled a lot, the way kids do, but there was something missing. I couldn't make a book on it, but I figure the trouble was that this playground was fenced in and that everything you did was just that and didn't lead off into anything else. You get into a tangle of crooked streets and just follow your nose and maybe one of them will shoot you right off to the moon. But when it comes to a dead-end—that's the end of an alley they made a play about—this new government playground is all dead-end, even if it's nice.

"I wish they would put me on this committee or whatever it is that makes these new government houses and playgrounds. I would have a lot of caves and blind-alleys and a junk pile and a lot of corrugated iron and orange crates, etc., for the kids to make things with and I'd have everything lead into something else. Of course I would have some rules. I wouldn't let any kid carry a gat, or smoke hop or shoot trained dice or teach other kids the long roll or anything like that. But I'll bet, the way I would fix it, they would have a lot of fun and learn a lot, the way kids do, playing and fighting if they were left alone."

We summarize Mr. Augen's inference as to the bearing of the above on our social order, which derivation he always offers on the slightest provocation. As he puts it:

"It's nice to be clean and safe and have a pension in your old age, but when everything is in the bag, you know you will never fight Indians, or go gold-mining or be an aviator and maybe you were happier when you were just a dirty little brat and thought you were going to be a regular devil when you grew up."

But Hymie is no longer a cop-fighter. He goes peacefully, but, like Anatole France, sheds a tear for "the hell that formed his genius."

• HOW to EAT to BEAT the HEAT

Don't Overlook Color When You're Buying Food Supplies

By Alice H. Smith
(Nutritionist, Cleveland Health Council)

How colorful is your diet?

That's a question you'd better look into the next time you order your groceries. There's food value in color.

Science has not come to the point where it thinks the color of a cabbage has anything to do with whether you are blond or brunet, but science is sure it has a lot to with your complexion, your teeth, your muscles and the luster of your hair.

The colorful diet is the diet contributing most to general good health and body-building. It includes these foods:

1. Green, leafy vegetables such as kale, green cabbage, lettuce, chard, mustard and dandelion greens, spinach. Their chief contribution is iron and vitamin A.

2. Yellow vegetables and fruits such as carrots, squash, sweet potatoes, apricots and peaches. These too are splendid sources of vitamin A.

3. Tomatoes (canned and fresh) and citrus fruits such as oranges, lemons, grapefruit and limes. This group is especially valuable as a dependable source of vitamin C.

4. Eggs. They contribute a good quality protein (muscle builder) along with iron, vitamin A and vitamin D.

5. Whole grain cereals and breads. These are good sources of thiamin (vitamin B), iron and phosphorus.

6. Cheese and milk. They supply the best quality protein as well as calcium, phosphorus, vitamins A, B and riboflavin.

7. Wheat, including the organs. These are also a rich source of iron, phosphorus, thiamin and nicotinic acid.

Because these foods contribute most to forming and maintaining healthy bodies, they are called "portective." In addition to the constituents mentioned here, they contain smaller amounts of other vitamins and minerals as well as supplying calories.

Finally, a colorful diet stimulates the appetite. Without an appetite no diet does its best work.

NEXT: Food and your figure.

OUR CHILDREN

"Where's Mickey?"

"He's over at Hickey's doing some weeding. He asked me if he could go and I thought it would keep him out of the way for a while. He gets in everybody's hair. He hasn't anything he likes to do here. The other two haven't patience with him. I'm sure I don't know what's to be done with him."

"Too bad he's so dumb in school. The other two are bright enough."

"He is a dead loss in arithmetic. Can't seem to get it. That's the only subject he missed out on."

"The teacher's report didn't sound so good."

"Well, she has his brother and sister in mind. They get honor marks and he gets a low mark in arithmetic and good marks in the rest. He shows up poorly beside them. If he wasn't so dumb in arithmetic—"

"What do you suppose set him to weeding? He wouldn't think of weeding here."

"He's earning money. We wouldn't have enough weeding to do to keep him busy every day. And we wouldn't pay him."

Poor (?) Financier

"But why the sudden interest in working for money? Since when has money meant anything to him? He never seemed to want any. He's the only one who has any money at the end of the week. The others have to borrow from him, I notice."

"Yes, and forget to pay it back and he lets them get away with it. At least so far. This earning business may change his ways."

"Let's hope it sharpens his arithmetic. How long does he work and what does he get?"

"He works from seven to eleven and gets a dollar. He collects each day and puts it in his red box."

At lunch time Mickey, after eating about twice as much as his brother and sister, sighed contentedly and refused another helping of pie.

"How are you getting on with the job?" asked father. "Mother tells me you are a working man these days. I'm glad that there is another man in the house bringing in the sheaves. What are you going to do with all this money? A man has to think about that, you know, or he won't get very far ahead."

Mickey showed his delight at such recognition from father. His eyes danced and he said, "I'll talk that over, confidentially, with you. My business secrets have to be strictly respected, like Mr. Hickey's."

Not So Dumb

When he got a chance Mickey told father: "Mother wouldn't join the club she wanted to join because it cost twenty-five dollars a year," he said. "She pays Mrs. Sam about thirty a year for helping. I'm going to earn that twenty-five, maybe the whole thirty, and give it to her for Christmas so she can pay the club membership. But don't tell."

"Mickey, I thought you couldn't figure? Thought you couldn't use your head to see through a problem? Thought you said you were dumb in arithmetic?"

"So I am but I'm getting better, a little. Don't tell Ma, now, will you?"

"Nope. I wouldn't miss seeing her face Christmas morning when she gets that present, not for anything in this world, and just remember, boy, you've given me a grand present right now. You're a right good fellow. Shake, partner."

Mr. Patri has prepared a leaflet entitled "Sex Instruction," in which he tells parents how to approach and teach this all-important question. Send for it, addressing your request to Mr. Angelo Patri, Child Psychology Department of this paper, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—The slap-and-scratch season soon will be with us . . . and I figured it's high time we got into the middle of the mosquito situation.

Wars may come and wars may go but the fall of the house of Oslo doesn't strike nearly as close to home as a cloud of whirring mosquitoes on the night you and the best girl have gone to the lake for a picnic and a swim.

Sitting in Rock Creek park the other night, I slapped at a whining noise nearing the back of my neck. It might have been the first mosquito of the season. Like a diplomat caught in a corner, it refused to be interviewed. But just hearing it there gave me an idea and I popped in on the federal bureau of entomology today. They know more about mosquitoes than J. Edgar Hoover, Martin Dies, and the army and navy combined will ever know about Nazis.

For example, Kipling couldn't possibly have written with so much fervor about the "female of the species" being more deadly than the male, if he hadn't had a brush with mosquitoes. As a matter of fact, it's the female mosquito that's afflicted with blood lust.

They Croon Of Love

The young men of the tribe are just winged Rudy Vallees and Bing Crosbys who vo-do-de-o-do about the summer night, trying to get the ladies to pay them some mind. And it's their little habit of going where the female humming is thickest that the bureau of entomology hopes will be their undoing.

The bureau is pushing a new electrical gadget which duplicates the siren love songs of the mosquito femmes. When the young men dash into the trap, the result is shocking . . . at least shocking enough to kill the lovesick swains. The theory is that if this wholesale electrocution system can kill off enough males, the queenies will get discouraged and the tribe will become extinct. It's a grand theory. I hope it works.

That wasn't all I learned from the bureau. Not only are the girl mosquitoes the only ones that attack man but only one of three families of girls is deadly.

If you've merely had a night out with the Culex and Aedes girls, the bureau tells me, you needn't worry. They are pests, it is true, and can raise hob and knobs on the skin you love to touch and yours, too, but they don't do serius damage.

She's A Changed Gal

Edie Aedis and her clan used to pack a kiss of death but science put a stop to that. They isolated the yellowjack sufferers . . . put them where Edie couldn't come up to see them anymore . . . which made a lady out of Edie. That applies only to this country. There are some nations where Edie still is doing business as Murder, Inc., but even there she's losing ground.

The Borgia of mosquitoes today is Anopheles. Annie is the girl who held up the building of the Panama canal. Her specialty is malaria. It wasn't until the United States army medical corps went to work on Annie—made her home untenable, destroyed her larvae by gillions—that workmen could work in Panama.

Only recently a flock of the girls (Anopheles Gambiae) hitch-hiked from Africa on a transatlantic plane and started a serious outbreak of malaria in Brazil. That's why you'll find the bureau of entomology boys down at the airport, combing over every plane that comes in from South America.

It's Annie's sisters (including a recent debutante Anpheles Walkeri Theobald) down in the southland that do the most damage in the United States and malaria victims are so common there that it's impossible to hide them all. Annie has some kinfolks in the west, too, but they have a hard time finding malaria blood.

The bureau and medicine and education are making headway. The time may come when the Borgias of Mosquito-land may be as dead as the Borgias of history. But it's still a good idea to duck when you hear that hum-o-de-o-do, even if it's only Bing Mosquito crooning to a lovelorn mate.

HATAY DEVLETI

POSTALARI

Hatay's Pictorials Were Republic's Last Issue

THERE will be no more "Hatay Devleti" stamps. The little, two-year-old republic, originally carved out of Syria, shown on the map stamp above, became part of Turkey as the price France paid for the promise of Turkish assistance in the Near East.

The 1939 pictorial series of four designs and 13 values, and a postage due set of four values, comprise the principal philatelic issues of the short-lived republic. The first Hatay stamps were Syrian and Turkish overprints. The end of the republic is noted, philatelically, by overprints of a Turkish issue of 1930.

Hatay became independent under a treaty between France and Turkey in 1937. Turkey formally annexed the 3000-square mile nation of 250,000 people on July 23, 1939. Citizens were permitted to choose Syrian, Lebanese or Turkish citizenship. Those rejecting Turkey will be given 18 months to leave the area.

MONROE LIONS TO ATTEND MEET

Club Planning To Send Large Delegation To Alexandria Convention

The Monroe Linos club is making plans to be well represented at the approaching state convention which will assemble in Alexandria, June 11-12, and is expected to be the largest assembly in the history of the organization since it was launched in Louisiana in 1917.

Past International President Julien C. Hyer of Fort Worth, Tex., will be the guest of the Lions of Louisiana at their Alexandria convention and will deliver two addresses. The Alexandria club has prepared an outstanding program of entertainment. It is expected that important subjects will be considered at its business session as well as routine matters having to do with the work of Lion clubs in Louisiana.

The delegates selected to represent the local club are Lions M. G. Moore, M. L. Padgett, Shelby Cage, Dwight Petty, Raymond O. Ware, A. B. Clarkson, J. Norman Coon, Sam Walker, and S. A. Collins. Many others from the club will be present at the convention, according to E. C. Gibson, Dstrict Governor of Louisiana which is designated as District 8 of the International association. L. E. Mathis and A. N. Robinson will represent the local club at Lions international convention meeting in Havana Cuba July 23-25. An attendance of more than 10,000 delegates and visitors has been shown at the recent International Conventions of Lions clubs.

According to District Governor Gibson, there will be no less than 60 Louisianians in attendance at this convention in Havana. Passage to Havana is by sailings from Miami, Key West or Port Tampa, Fla., in addition to the facilities of the Pan-American Airways which will operate six round trip flights from Miami to Havana during the week of the convention.

Delegates attending the convention from the east will make the trip from New York by boat. Mr. Gibson stated that the International association has arranged for chartering the luxury liner New Amesterdam of the Holland-American line which will accommodate 1,500 passengers and is reported that it's capacity has already been booked.

Havana is to be the meeting place this year of two great International conventions of service clubs. Rotary having been forced to cancel their original selection of Rio de Janerio as the place for holding their 1940 convention. They will meet in Havana during the month of June.

CHAPTER I

Captain Steve Hansen leaned over the rail of the 'Northern Belle' and scratched his iron-gray whiskers reflectively. Quite a voyage this would be. Quite.

Captain Steve spat down into the waters of San Francisco bay, where the "Belle" lay moored to her pier. He straightened up as Barney MacGregor approached.

"You sent for me, Steve?"

Captain Hansen grunted. "Yeah." And then: "How long you been first mate on this tub, Mac?"

"Long time, Steve . . . somethin' like eight years I guess. Why—what's in th' wind?"

"Well, you ain't first mate no longer, Mac. At least not for awhile."

Barney MacGregor placed two big hands on his hips and struck a belligerent Scotch chin four degrees forward. "And would you mind explainin' just what th' hell you mean, Steve Hansen?"

Captain Steve spat overside again. "Pull in your jib, Mac. Ain't as bad as you suspect. Y'see Mac, we're going to have some company going up to Prince Rupert this trip. Female company," he added significantly.

Barney MacGregor's expression clearly indicated he didn't get it.

Captain Hansen sighed lustily. "Might as well tell you th' whole story." He pulled a battered pipe from his pocket, tamped some tobacco into it deliberately and lit up.

"Old Hank Vaughan called me long distance today. All th' way from New York . . . musta cost him a week's pay. . . . Week o' your pay, that is," he corrected. "Anyway, Hank calls to tell me his one and only niece is shipping with us this trip. Says he put her aboard one of those airplanes himself and she'll be here this afternoon."

"An' who is Hank's niece an' how come we're signin' on females?"

Captain Steve squinted at him. "Mac, don't stand there and tell me you don't remember little Valerie Douglas. She used to scramble all over this ship 12 years ago."

"You don't mean that long-legged kid with th' pig-tails, Steve!"

"Th' same, Mac, except I doubt very much if she still has those pig-tails. Must be quite a lady by now. A cute one was then, too."

Steve Hansen smiled softly. "Took her fishing out in the bay, once and she threw all my worms overboard because she was sorry for them. Before her mother took her east I promised she could come back some day and be my first mate for a trip or two."

"And this is it, eh? An' you're goin' through with it?"

"Orders from Hank. Th' gal is th' star woman's sports writer for a big newspaper syndicate. Hank says she's dallyin' around with a sea-farin' novel and decided she wanted to spend part of her vacation aboard th' 'Belle' to get some more atmosphere, as she calls it."

MacGregor snorted and Captain Steve continued. "But don't take all this too seriously, Mac. O' course you're still first mate. Th' gal's going to have a sorta honorary title. But the boys can amuse her by stringing along with any little things she wants done. See?"

"Yeah," Mac said mournfully. "I see, but I don't like. Neither will th' boys, I'm thinkin'."

Captain Steve hitched up his belt. "It's gonna be your job to see that they do like or there'll be a lot of cracked skulls around here."

It was 4 o'clock that afternoon when the taxi drew up at the dock and instinctively Steve Hansen knew Valerie Douglas had arrived. The cab drew away and the girl who stood with hands on hips looking up at the ship was slender, blond and, even from a distance of 60 feet, amazingly pretty. Two suitcases were at her feet.

"Captain Steve!" she hailed him. "Stevie, you old landlubber, is this the best welcome you have for me? C'mon down and haul up my duffle."

Steve Hansen's leathery face cracked. That little tyke . . . grown up like this. He could hardly believe it. And then a twinkle popped into his eye.

"Lug it up yourself," he called down to her. "You're in the navy, now."

She laughed heartily at him, picked up her bags and hurried up the gangplank. Seconds later she threw her arms around his neck and gave him a big kiss.

He held her off at arm's length for a minute and shook his head. "Danged if I can hardly believe it. Little Val Douglas, all grown up and purtier'n a West Indies sunset."

"And just as bright," she twitted coquettishly. "Where do I bunk, Captain Steve? I'd like to get into some different clothes."

"Good idea. You'll be in th' port cabin, aft. It's fresh scrubbed and waitin' for you."

When she joined him on deck a half hour later she was garbed in blue denim trousers, gray flannel shirt and heavy tan moccasins. Perched saucily on top her blonde curls was a battered officer's hat.

He grinned, saluted her smartly and then led her over and sat her down on a hatch cover. "Now then, matey, you've got 12 years of your past to tell me about so let's have it."

She hooked an arm in his. "Gee, Captain Steve, I hardly know where to start. I'm a sports writer for World Syndicate, you know, and—"

It was 4 o'clock that afternoon when the taxi drew up at the dock and instinctively Steve Hansen knew Valerie Douglas had arrived. The cab drew away and the girl who stood with hands on hips looking up at the ship was slender, blond and, even from a distance of 60 feet, amazingly pretty. Two suitcases were at her feet.

"Captain Steve!" she hailed him. "Stevie, you old landlubber, is this the best welcome you have for me? C'mon down and haul up my duffle."

Steve Hansen's leathery face cracked. That little tyke . . . grown up like this. He could hardly believe it. And then a twinkle popped into his eye.

"Lug it up yourself," he called down to her. "You're in the navy, now."

She laughed heartily at him, picked up her bags and hurried up the gangplank. Seconds later she threw her arms around his neck and gave him a big kiss.

He held her off at arm's length for a minute and shook his head. "Danged if I can hardly believe it. Little Val Douglas, all grown up and purtier'n a West Indies sunset."

"And just as bright," she twitted coquettishly. "Where do I bunk, Captain Steve? I'd like to get into some different clothes."

"Good idea. You'll be in th' port cabin, aft. It's fresh scrubbed and waitin' for you."

When she joined him on deck a half hour later she was garbed in blue denim trousers, gray flannel shirt and heavy tan moccasins. Perched saucily on top her blonde curls was a battered officer's hat.

He grinned, saluted her smartly and then led her over and sat her down on a hatch cover. "Now then, matey, you've got 12 years of your past to tell me about so let's have it."

She hooked an arm in his. "Gee, Captain Steve. I hardly know where to start. I'm a sports writer for World Syndicate, you know, and—"

Steve Hansen slapped his thigh as he interrupted. "Say, that reminds me. What's this about you feudin' with this box-fighter . . . what's his name? You know who I mean. It was in all th' papers a short spell back."

A shadow of a smile crossed her face. "Oh . . . I guess you mean Eddie Cavalier."

She clasped both hands around a knee. "He's a pugilistic snob. I told him so in a column I wrote. Told him his pants were too pretty, too, and I guess he didn't like it. Then one night at Madison Square Garden . . . the night he knocked out Tuffy Brostak . . . he leaned over the ropes and laughed in my face. He didn't say anything . . . just laughed. I'm going to fix him for that."

He looked at her keenly. "Well, he's close at hand if you want to get at it immediately like. I see by the papers he has a big fight here in Frisco in a couple weeks. Uh—I suppose you knew that, didn't you?"

"Look, Steve," she growled. "If you mean what I think you mean, let me tell you that it's strictly coincidence that he happens to be here just when I'm starting my vacation."

NEGRO WHO ROBBED TAXI DRIVER CAUGHT

CROSSETT, Ark., May 4—(Special)—City Marshal W. L. Strickland of Crossett returned last night from Scott county, Arkansas with "Snooks" Williams, negro who shot and robbed John W. Harville, taxi driver, on the Ouachita river bridge near here April 11th. Sheriff B. S. Bray of Scott county made the arrest on information furnished by Strickland. The negro was still in possession of the taxi and Harville's bill fold. The license plates had been changed and the car had been driven four thousand miles in the three week period. Strickland brought the negro back unassisted making the negro do the driving.

Harville is recovering from the bullet wound he received in the robbery.

HEARING IS HELD IN WOMAN'S DEATH

LAUREL, Miss., May 4—(AP)—Defense witnesses were summoned today in the preliminary hearing for Walter (Speedy) Hendry, charged with murder in connection with the death last month of his estranged wife, Viola Blackledge Hendry.

The state charges Hendry took his wife to a roadhouse and later parked on the roadside, where they quarreled. Dr. Tom Ramsay testified when the hearing opened yesterday that the woman died from a blow on the head.

Hendry brought his wife's body to the home of her mother shortly after midnight on Sunday morning, April 21.

DEATHS

MRS. F. M. DAVIS

CHOUDRANT, May 4.—(Special)—Mrs. F. M. Davis, 70, died Saturday at 1 a.m. at her home in New Hope community. She was the former Miss Flora Kay.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at New Hope, the Reverends H. M. Mikiel and Mittleton officiating, with interment in the New Hope cemetery.

Mrs. Davis is survived by four sons, Joseph Davis, C. W. Davis, T. K. Davis, and A. M. Davis; two daughters Mrs. J. E. Ambrose and Mrs. W. A. Collie, eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

SPEAKS BEFORE CONVENTION

Mrs. B. L. Parkinson, of Columbus, Miss., wife of the president of the Mississippi State College for Women, was one of the principal speakers at the convention of University Women here yesterday.

A. A. U. W. ENDS MEETING HERE

part in the discussions were Dr. Sarah L. C. Clapp, arts; Miss Carmen deLaureal, education; Mrs. Clarence C. Henson, international relations, and Miss Ivo Wilson, social studies.

Reports of committees were heard at 10 a.m. from Mrs. M. J. Myer, legislation; Miss Mary Belle Huff, economic and legal status of women; Miss Alma Burke, recent graduates, and Mrs. Isaac Wahlder, fellowship.

After coffee in the faculty lounge, the association heard a speech titled "Regional Studies—The Next Step," by Dr. Dera D. Parkinson, vice-president of the national A. A. U. W., which was followed by a discussion led by Dr. Parkinson.

Miss Sue Hefley, librarian at the junior college, discussed "Library Service in Louisiana Today," and the association considered in turn the report of the credentials committee, old business, recommendations of the executive board, new business, invitations for the next meeting, and reports of the resolutions committee before attending a luncheon in the college cafeteria as guests of the college.

Reports of officers and delegates who attend the conference of the Southeast Central section of the association in Birmingham took up most of the two hour business session Friday afternoon, which was presided over by Mrs. William Lamb, president of the Louisiana division of the A. A. U. W.

Greetings were extended to the visitors by Miss Myrtle Rodgers of the Monroe branch and Dean Colvert, and Mrs. G. B. Roberts made the response.

Officers' reports were made by Mrs. Lamb, president; Mrs. C. Bryant Davidson, vice-president; Mrs. D. Vickers, second vice-president; Mrs. Colvert, third vice-president; Mrs. George E. Allen, secretary-treasurer, and branch presidents Mrs. H. O. Barker, Alexandria; Mrs. Elton Huckaby, Baton Rouge; Miss Vickers, Hammond; Mrs. G. B. Roberts, Lafayette; Mrs. Colvert, Monroe; Mrs. Luther H. Dyson, Jr., Natchitoches; Mrs. Rosa L. Wyatt, New Orleans; Miss Mabel May, Ruston, and Mrs. C. L. Moody, Shreveport.

Association members were entertained with a boat ride Friday evening and later a barbecue at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Melville Hunter, the Hard Times plantation.

MEXICO DEFIES U. S. ON OIL LAND

Government States Seizing Is Internal Matter, Refuses To Talk

By Lloyd A. Lehrbas

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—The Mexican government flatly rejected tonight the United States request for arbitration of the two-year-old dispute growing out of expropriation of American-owned oil companies.

General Eduardo Hay, Mexican minister for foreign affairs, said in a note that the Mexican government "considers arbitration incompatible with the facts in the controversy and international law since the matter in dispute is domestic in nature and is near solution by the authorities of Mexico."

The note presented the view that the United States could not contend there had been a denial of justice until after the American oil companies had exhausted every means of adjustment provided by the Mexican laws, including recourse to the Mexican courts.

General Hay announced, in the note, that a settlement had been reached with the Sinclair interests under which the American company, "accepting the expropriation as definite, will limit itself to discussing the amount of indemnity and the conditions of payment in reasonable installments, recognizing the justification of the Mexican point of view."

The Mexican note was dated May 1. News dispatches from Mexico City said yesterday that an agreement, understood to involve the delivery of Mexican oil to Sinclair interest, had been reached.

The Mexican note said the Sinclair interests "represent approximately 40 per cent of the investments of American interests in the oil industry." New York financial circles estimate that Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of New York, and the Sinclair group investments are valued at $200,000,000, of which only approximately $16,000,000 is owned by the Sinclair group.

The Mexican note promised that similar settlements would be made with the other American oil companies whose properties had been expropriated.

General Hay charged, however, that long delays had resulted from obstructionist tactics by the American companies "which have systematically refused to allow the value of their properties to be determined, whether in the friendly manner proposed by Mexico through private negotiations or before the competent courts."

The companies, the note alleged, "by all means at their disposal, have prevented the attainment of a knowledge of the amount of the indemnity, an absolutely indespensable requisit for being able to affect payment."

The note charged the companies were directing their efforts "towards delaying the settlement of the dispute, by which means they have caused serious economic injury to Mexico and to the commercial relations between our two countries—even going so far as to cherish the hope that these differences, which ought not to exceed the bounds of a dispute between the government and a group of private companies, should weaken the bonds of friendship which unite our two peoples."

Suspension of negotiations for a settlement of unpaid services on the Mexican foreign debt and railroads, the Mexican note alleged, resulted from upset international conditions and the "campaign undertaken against Mexico by the oil companies, with the aid of certain governments, using, among other means, the boycott to prevent all sales of our oil in foreign countries or else restricting it considerably by the adoption of tariff barriers, especially the so-called quotas, producing an appreciable limitation of the possibilities of payment by Mexico."

General Hays' note said that the Mexican government had always concurred in arbitration questions, when the facts made the case one of arbitration, citing the Clipperton island case in which an arbitration court awarded that island to France.

The note also cited the Chamizal case in which, it asserted, a decision, was made in favor of Mexico against the United States but has been awaiting execution since 1911.

"My government," General Hays' note said, "considers that arbitration must not be admitted except when the nation has put into practice in full its rights of sovereignty through the action of its courts and the existence of a denial of justice can be proved."

HOW N. Y. WOMAN LOST 26 LBS. OF FAT

Fat Girls — Here's A Tip!
NEW YORK—Special

In 40 days Mrs. Helga Blaugh reduced 26 lbs. Took 4 inches off hips, 3 inches off bust and 7 1-2 inches off waist. She writes: "I feel fine and look 10 yrs. younger."

How would you like to safely and harmlessly lost 15 pounds of fat in a few weeks? How would you like to lose your double chin and your bulging hips and stomach and along with it get the increase in energy and improvement in health which so often accompanies excess fat reduction?

Get on the scales today and see how much you weigh. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water first thing every morning to gently activate liver, bowels and kidneys. Cut down your caloric intake. Eat wisely and satisfyingly.

Then after 30 days, weigh yourself again and just see if you haven't lost pounds of ugly fat. Money back if not joyfully satisfied.

INAUGURAL SEATS NOT SO PLENTIFUL

BATON ROUGE, La., May 4.—(AP)—Those coming to the capital for the inauguration of Governor-Elect Sam H. Jones on May 14 were urged today to arrive early in order to obtain seats in Louisiana State university football stadium where the ceremonies will be held.

Colonel Troy H. Middleton, acting vice-president and comptroller of L. S. U., chairman of the [illegible] committee, outlined plans for seating the 15,000 expected for the oath taking.

Colonel Middleton said seats in the stadium will be filled first according to the method used at football games. Then the gridiron itself and the arena behind the [illegible] will be filled.

Special seats have been reserved for members of the legislature and their families. Gates will open at 9 a.m., the same time that the parade from the state house to the stadium is due to start.

The inaugural stand will be located at the open end of the mammoth horseshoe stadium. Towers are being erected for cameramen. The stadium itself is being elaborately decorated as well as the entire parade route.

Adequate areas for parking automobiles have been set aside, Colonel Middleton said.

DEATHS

MRS. F. M. DAVIS

CHOUDRANT, May 4.—(Special)—Mrs. F. M. Davis, 70, died Saturday at 1 a.m. at her home in New Hope community. She was the former Miss Flora Kay.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at New Hope, the Reverends H. M. Mikiel and Mittleton officiating, with interment in the New Hope cemetery.

Mrs. Davis is survived by four sons, Joseph Davis, C. W. Davis, T. K. Davis, and A. M. Davis; two daughters Mrs. J. E. Ambrose and Mrs. W. A. Collie, eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

SPEAKS BEFORE CONVENTION

Mrs. B. L. Parkinson, of Columbus, Miss., wife of the president of the Mississippi State College for Women, was one of the principal speakers at the convention of University Women here yesterday.

A. A. U. W. ENDS MEETING HERE

part in the discussions were Dr. Sarah L. C. Clapp, arts; Miss Carmen deLaureal, education; Mrs. Clarence C. Henson, international relations, and Miss Ivo Wilson, social studies.

Reports of committees were heard at 10 a.m. from Mrs. M. J. Myer, legislation; Miss Mary Belle Huff, economic and legal status of women; Miss Alma Burke, recent graduates, and Mrs. Isaac Wahlder, fellowship.

After coffee in the faculty lounge, the association heard a speech titled "Regional Studies—The Next Step," by Dr. Dera D. Parkinson, vice-president of the national A. A. U. W., which was followed by a discussion led by Dr. Parkinson.

Miss Sue Hefley, librarian at the junior college, discussed "Library Service in Louisiana Today," and the association considered in turn the report of the credentials committee, old business, recommendations of the executive board, new business, invitations for the next meeting, and reports of the resolutions committee before attending a luncheon in the college cafeteria as guests of the college.

Reports of officers and delegates who attend the conference of the Southeast Central section of the association in Birmingham took up most of the two hour business session Friday afternoon, which was presided over by Mrs. William Lamb, president of the Louisiana division of the A. A. U. W.

Greetings were extended to the visitors by Miss Myrtle Rodgers of the Monroe branch and Dean Colvert, and Mrs. G. B. Roberts made the response.

Officers' reports were made by Mrs. Lamb, president; Mrs. C. Bryant Davidson, vice-president; Mrs. D. Vickers, second vice-president; Mrs. Colvert, third vice-president; Mrs. George E. Allen, secretary-treasurer, and branch presidents Mrs. H. O. Barker, Alexandria; Mrs. Elton Huckaby, Baton Rouge; Miss Vickers, Hammond; Mrs. G. B. Roberts, Lafayette; Mrs. Colvert, Monroe; Mrs. Luther H. Dyson, Jr., Natchitoches; Mrs. Rosa L. Wyatt, New Orleans; Miss Mabel May, Ruston, and Mrs. C. L. Moody, Shreveport.

Association members were entertained with a boat ride Friday evening and later a barbecue at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Melville Hunter, the Hard Times plantation.

MEXICO DEFIES U. S. ON OIL LAND

Government States Seizing Is Internal Matter, Refuses To Talk

By Lloyd A. Lehrbas

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—The Mexican government flatly rejected tonight the United States request for arbitration of the two-year-old dispute growing out of expropriation of American-owned oil companies.

Gerneral Eduardo Hay, Mexican minister for foreign affairs, said in a note that the Mexican government "considers arbitration incompatible" with the facts in the controversy and international law "since the matter in dispute is domestic in nature and is near solution by the authorities of Mexico."

The note presented the view that the United States could not contend there had been a denial of justice until after the American oil companies had exhausted every means of adjustment provided by the Mexican laws, including recourse to the Mexican courts.

General Hay announced, in the note, that a settlement had been reached with the Sinclair interests under which the American company, "accepting the expropriation as definite, will limit itself to discussing the amount of indemnity and the conditions of payment in reasonable installments, recognizing the justification of the Mexican point of view."

The Mexican note was dated May 1. News dispatches from Mexico City said yesterday that an agreement, understood to involve the delivery of Mexican oil to Sinclair interest, had been reached.

The Mexican note said the Sinclair interests "represent approximately 40 per cent of the investments of American interests in the oil industry." New York financial circles estimate that Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of New York, and the Sinclair group investments are valued at $200,000,000, of which only approximately $16,000,000 is owned by the Sinclair group.

The Mexican note promised that similar settlements would be made with the other American oil companies whose properties had been expropriated.

General Hay charged, however, that long delays had resulted from obstructionist tactics by the American companies "which have systematically refused to allow the value of their properties to be determined, whether in the friendly manner proposed by Mexico through private negotiations or before the competent courts."

The companies, the note alleged, "by all means at their disposal, have prevented the attainment of a knowledge of the amount of the indemnity, an absolutely indespensable requisit for being able to affect payment."

The note charged the companies were directing their efforts "towards delaying the settlement of the dispute, by which means they have caused serious economic injury to Mexico and to the commercial relations between our two countries—even going so far as to cherish the hope that these differences, which ought not to exceed the bounds of a dispute between the government and a group of private companies, should weaken the bonds of friendship which unite our two peoples."

Suspension of negotiations for a settlement of unpaid services on the Mexican foreign debt and railroads, the Mexican note alleged, resulted from upset international conditions and the "campaign undertaken against Mexico by the oil companies, with the aid of certain governments, using, among other means, the boycott to prevent all sales of our oil in foreign countries or else restricting it considerably by the adoption of tariff barriers, especially the so-called quotas, producing an appreciable limitation of the possibilities of payment by Mexico."

General Hays' note said that the Mexican government had always concurred in arbitration questions, when the facts made the case one of arbitration, citing the Clipperton island case in which an arbitration court awarded that island to France.

The note also cited the Chamizal case in which, it asserted, a decision, was made in favor of Mexico against the United States but has been awaiting execution since 1911.

"My government," General Hays' note said, "considers that arbitration must not be admitted except when the nation has put into practice in full its rights of sovereignty through the action of its courts and the existence of a denial of justice can be proved."

It is reported that a driver in Europe was recently sentenced to 80 years in prison because he refused to dim his automobile headlights during a blackout.

HOW N. Y. WOMAN LOST 26 LBS. OF FAT

Fat Girls — Here's A Tip!
NEW YORK—Special

In 40 days Mrs. Helga Blaugh reduced 26 lbs. Took 4 inches off hips, 3 inches off bust and 7 1-2 inches off waist. She writes: "I feel fine and look 10 yrs. younger."

How would you like to safely and harmlessly lost 15 pounds of fat in a few weeks? How would you like to lose your double chin and your bulging hips and stomach and along with it get the increase in energy and improvement in health which so often accompanies excess fat reduction?

Get on the scales today and see how much you weigh. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water first thing every morning to gently activate liver, bowels and kidneys. Cut down your caloric intake. Eat wisely and satisfyingly.

Then after 30 days, weigh yourself again and just see if you haven't lost pounds of ugly fat. Money back if not joyfully satisfied.

INAUGURAL SEATS NOT SO PLENTIFUL

BATON ROUGE, La., May 4.—(AP)—Those coming to the capital for the inauguration of Governor-Elect Sam H. Jones on May 14 were urged today to arrive early in order to obtain seats in Louisiana State university football stadium where the ceremonies will be held.

Colonel Troy H. Middleton, acting vice-president and comptroller of L. S. U., chairman of the inauguration grounds committee, outlined plans for seating the 125,000 expected for the oath-taking.

Colonel Middleton said seats in the stadium will be filled first according to the method used at football games. Then, the gridiron itself and the arena behind the scoreboard will be filled.

Special seats have been reserved for members of the legislature and their families. Gates will open at 9 a.m., the same time that the parade from the state house to the stadium is due to start.

The inaugural stand will be located at the open end of the mammoth horseshoe stadium. Towers are being erected for cameramen. The stadium itself is being elaborately decorated as well as the entire parade route.

Adequate areas for parking automobiles have been set aside, Colonel Middleton said.

For serving the huge crowd with the barbecue feast after the inaugural, 84 stands are being built outside the stadium.

It is estimated that Texas, at one time, had prairie dog towns covering a total area of 90,000 square miles.

LOAFING CAUSED CHANGES

Flatfishes originated from a species of sea-perch that "lay down on the job" while awaiting prey, according to scientists. These fish reclined so much that their eyes migrated to the top side, and the bottom side lost its colorings.

In 1895 there were four passenger cars registered in the United States as compared to the 25,804,340 registered at the end of 1939.

SELFRIDGE FIELD, Mich., May 4—(AP)—Twenty-eight pursuit ships and 13 transport planes carrying maintenance crews left the army air field here today for Louisiana to participate in extensive maneuvers based on the latest lessons from the battle fields of Europe.

The Selfridge field forces included 36 officers and 107 men. A truck train with heavy supplies preceded them south.

Information obtained by observers in Scandinavia will be available.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 4—(AP)—The 34th and 29th infantries moved through Alabama today in 300 vehicles en route to army maneuvers in the Sabine river valley of Texas and Louisiana.

The units, which left Fort Benning, Ga., today, are scheduled to camp near Demopolis tonight.

Tomorrow the fourth corps' march begins on a wartime scale, with 15,000 men in 2,300 vehicles slated to leave Fort Benning via U. S. highway 80 across Alabama.

In tomorrow's movement will be the streamlined sixth cavalry which will camp overnight near Demopolis, and the sixth infantry division which will stop on the outskirts of Montgomery.

ALLIES SILENT AS NAZIS BRAG

denial from London. (The British admiralty has made it a practice to make no immediate comment on such German claims, explaining that to do so only gives the Germans information they are seeking.)

Up to now Britain has admitted the loss of no capital ships to air action. It has, however, conceded the sinking of the sloop Bittern and the destroyer Gurkha by air bombs since the start of the Norwegian campaign, and damage to various other vessels.

Today's brief announcement of the battleship's destruction said it was proceeding on a westerly course off Namsos yesterday afternoon when the German dive bombers swooped down on it, dropping heavy bombs.

"It was hit . . . between the forward turrets," said the communique. "Half a minute after the bombs hit, shooting flames flared 500 meters high admidst great clouds of smoke. After the clouds disappeared there was nothing more of the ship to be seen except debris."

A single bomb, German experts said, must have hit a power magazine on the warship, although others were dropped.

No sooner had the power diver unit reported the feat to Goering than he hurried to the Reichs chancellery to tell Adolf Hitler about it.

The two decided, then, to withhold the news until Saturday noon "to see whether Churchill (British first lord of the admiralty) will have the courage to admit this terrific loss."

Churchill, however, said nothing.

"For some time we have been waiting for an opportunity to prove to the world that even a battleship can be sunk by air raiders," said one man in the know today.

"General Erhardt Milch, secretary of state in the air ministry, went personally to Norway with orders from the fuehrer and Goering that, if and when the hour for the test came, a battleship must be sunk, come what may.

"We are simply amazed, ourselves, that the experiment succeeded without so much as a single loss for us. Our airforce was determined to send wave after wave of power divers into action and to continue the assault, even if at first, every attacking plane was shot down.

"In our fondest dreams we didn't think it possible that the job could be completed in less than three minutes without the loss of a single plane."

PLANES CRASH IN MISSISSIPPI

private and two crew members bailed out over Georgetown.

The damaged pursuit planes were all T-35's.

Major W. R. Taylor, executive officer with the 27 pursuit ships and 13 transports which landed here during the day, blamed the C-33's accident on a "heavy load and a short field."

The transport was one of a group ferrying air corps men from Selfridge Field to McComb.

The pursuit ships' pilots were Lieutenants Harry B. Riley, R. L. Matthews and P. B. Blanchard. The wingtip of Riley's plane was damaged in a collision with a truck. The landing gear of Matthews' ship was damaged when it ran off the field and onto rough ground. Blanchard's plane was damaged the same way.

The non-commissioned officers and enlisted men making the jump with Lieutenant Olinger were Stagg Sergeant Harry Schuh, Corporals Harry Rattnar, Walter France, Harold West, George Kallal and Loyal R. Bunce, Sergeants Jacob Bauer and James Tyler, Private Empey (first name unknown) and two crew members whose names were not learned.

CHAMBERLAIN TO FIGHT OPPONENTS

eyes of political observers was the obvious unrest in Chamberlain's own Conservative party and its affiliates. Many of its parliament members went back to their constituencies over the week-end to hear the grumbling of restless and vaguely suspicious voters.

Morrison, in an address before the Labor Regional conference, declared that Chamberlain, Simon and Hoare were "primarily responsible for the relative weakness of our war effort."

While urging them "to consider whether their best service would not be by way of resignation," he prophesied that commons will demand it be told "a lot about Norway."

Attlee asserted that the government will be forced to "satisfy the country that everything possible was done" in the Norwegian campaign.

Shinwell declared that, if the government can not undertake the war task, "we shall have no alternative but to expose them and call for a government which can show more firmness and courage."

Well-informed quarters described the German claims as "of a fantastic character to which the public fast is becoming accustomed."

These sources also revealed details of the unsuccessful attempts to capture Trondheim.

They admitted that "the allies failed to anticipate" Germany's lighting move into Denmark and Norway and thus were left with a force "which never had been designed or intended to land against opposition forces."

These sources reported that territorial troops, similar in training and equipment to the United States national guard, were the "spearhead of our troops in the first landings" in Norway and "formed the bridge heads through which more trained and experienced troops would pass."

'MAD BUTCHER' BLAMED IN CRIME

were charred scraps of a Youngstown newspaper dated December 11, 1939.

Investigators plan to center their search at Youngstown where a mysterious fire broke out in the railroads yards February 28. District Attorney Andrew T. Park said it was possible the madman killer, who has burned several victims, started the blaze in the hope the gruesome evidence would be destroyed. Not far from the yards is a hobo jungle in which officials theorized the victims might have been staying.

"I think it is safe to say the mad butcher's victims now total 24," declared Detective Peter Merylo of Cleveland, who for four years has hunted the killer. "The whole thing looks like his work."

However, Deputy Coroner Anthony Sappo found the mad butcher angle confused by discovery of the word "Nazi" on the body which he said "indicates a possibility there might be some secret society, opposed to Nazis, connected with the case."

Merylo reported a bloody print of a "good-sized" shoe found on wrappings in one of the cars apparently was that of the slayer's and proved for the first time that the butcher was a man and not a woman as some suspected. He also considered the inverted "Z" in the carved "Nazi" as "showing the sex-fiend killer is not educated and probably is a fellow who rides the trains, roaming the country."

WOMEN SEEK END OF HUSBAND-WIFE LAW

COVINGTON, La., May 4—(AP)—Mrs. Juanita Hawley Privette, a past president of the Covington club, was unanimously reelected state president of the Louisiana Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs today at the 21st annual convention. Shreveport was chosen for the 1941 convention.

The federation adopted a resolution favoring repeal of act 15 of the 1940 special session of the legislature, which provides that both husband and wife cannot be employed by the state when the salary is in excess of $100 monthly. The resolution was sponsored by Miss Monita Goldsby of Baton Rouge, immediate past president of the federation.

Other recommendations were for greater efforts to get women to vote, encouragement of more appointments of women to public boards and jury service by women, and formulation of a plan whereby various women's groups in Louisiana may combine to obtain laws giving men and women equal rights in all fields.

Other officers chosen were Miss Ethel Ryan, New Orleans, first vice-president; Mrs. Eunice Stuckey, Ruston, second vice-president; Miss Hattie Lee West, Shreveport, recording secretary; Miss Katie Hebert, Baton Rouge, treasurer, and Miss Kathryn Bower, Lake Charles, auditor.

The address of Mrs. Jessie K. Norton of Shreveport, honorary state president, who was unable to attend, was delivered by District Attorney James T. Burns. It was called "Making Democracy Work."

The convention will end tomorrow.

JONES ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR STATE

is without funds for future road construction.

However, the audit disclosed that for the first time since the 1932 financial crisis, when the highway department was unable to sell bonds and plunged deep into debt, the department will wind up the current fiscal year without a deficit.

Maladministration in the highway department, as revealed in the audit, included purchasing supplies without obtaining competitive bids required by law, paying highway commissioners' expense accounts without accompanying receipts, and allowing employes to buy gasoline through the commission.

The audit showed that more than three score highway employes had obtained advances for expenses which never have been repaid. Among these was listed L. L. Morgan, the commission's former general counsel who in recent years has received consideration for appointment as a federal judge and as a gubernatorial candidate.

Another named was L. A. Jones, former assistant superintendent of the state highway patrol and former penitentiary warden. He was listed as owing $150 and Morgan as owing $200. Others currently employed by the commission owe as much as $600, the audit showed.

Governor-Elect Jones said he expected reports from the citizen committee investigating the dock board and Charity hospital at New Orleans as soon as possible. Data produced in the surveys will be used for placing the two institutions on a more stable basis.

In reorganizing the state board of health, presently headed by Dr. J. A. O'Hara, a high figure in the smashed political machine, Jones said he was asking the United States public health service's cooperation. It was indicated a Louisiana physician may be trained by the federal agency to head the new state health program.

SELFRIDGE FIELD, Mich., May 4.—(AP)—Twenty-eight pursuit ships and 13 transport planes carrying maintenance crews left the army air field here today for Louisiana to participate in extensive maneuvers based on the latest lessons from the battle fields of Europe.

The Selfridge field forces included 36 officers and 107 men. A truck train with heavy supplies preceded them south.

Information obtained by observers in Scandinavia will be available.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 4.—(AP)—The 34th and 29th infantries moved through Alabama today in 300 vehicles en route to army maneuvers in the Sabine river valley of Texas and Louisiana.

The units, which left Fort Benning, Ga., today, are scheduled to camp near Demopolis tonight.

Tomorrow the fourth corps' march begins on a wartime scale, with 15,000 men in 2,300 vehicles slated to leave Fort Bennings via U. S. highway 80 across Alabama.

In tomorrow's movement will be the streamlined sixth cavalry, which will camp overnight near Demopolis, and the sixth infantry division, which will stop on the outskirts of Montgomery.

ALLIES SILENT AS NAZIS BRAG

denial from London. (The British admiralty has made it a practice to make no immediate comment on such German claims, explaining that to do so only gives the Germans information they are seeking.)

Up to now Britain has admitted the loss of no capital ships to air action; it has, however, conceded the sinking of the sloop Bittern and the destroyer Gurkha by air bombs since the start of the Norwegian campaign, and damage to various other vessels.

Today's brief announcement of the battleship's destruction said it was proceeding on a westerly course off Namsos yesterday afternoon when the German dive bombers swooped down on it, dropping heavy bombs.

"It was hit . . . between the forward turrets," said the communique. "Half a minute after the bombs hit, shooting flames flared 500 meters high admidst great clouds of smoke. After the clouds disappeared there was nothing more of the ship to be seen except debris."

A single bomb, German experts said, must have hit a power magazine on the warship, although others were dropped.

No sooner had the power diver unit reported the feat to Goering than he hurried to the Reichs chancellery to tell Adolf Hitler about it.

The two decided, then, to withhold the news until Saturday noon "to see whether Churchill (British first lord of the admiralty) will have the courage to admit this terrific loss."

Churchill, however, said nothing.

"For some time we have been waiting for an opportunity to prove to the world that even a battleship can be sunk by air raiders," said one man in the know today.

"General Erhardt Milch, secretary of state in the air ministry, went personally to Norway with orders from the fuehrer and Goering that, if and when the hour for the test came, a battleship must be sunk, come what may.

"We are simply amazed, ourselves, that the experiment succeeded without so much as a single loss for us. Our airforce was determined to send wave after wave of power divers into action and to continue the assault, even if at first, every attacking plane was shot down.

"In our fondest dreams we didn't think it possible that the job could be completed in less than three minutes without the loss of a single plane."

PLANES CRASH IN MISSISSIPPI

private and two crew members bailed out over Georgetown.

The damaged pursuit planes were all T-35's.

Major W. R. Taylor, executive officer with the 27 pursuit ships and 13 transports which landed here during the day, blamed the C-33's accident on a "heavy load and a short field."

The transport was one of a group ferrying air corps men from Selfridge Field to McComb.

The pursuit ships' pilots were Lieutenants Harry B. Riley, R. L. Matthews and P. B. Blanchard. The wingtip of Riley's plane was damaged in a collision with a truck. The landing gear of Matthews' ship was damaged when it ran off the field and onto rough ground. Blanchard's plane was damaged the same way.

The non-commissioned officers and enlisted men making the jump with Lieutenant Olinger were Stagg Sergeant Harry Schuh, Corporals Harry Rattnar, Walter France, Harold West, George Kallal and Loyal R. Bunce, Sergeants Jacob Bauer and James Tyler, Private Empey (first name unknown) and two crew members whose names were not learned.

eyes of political observers was the obvious unrest in Chamberlain's own Conservative party and its affiliates. Many of its parliament members went back to their constituencies over the week-end to hear the grumbling of restless and vaguely suspicious voters.

Morrison, in an address before the Labor Regional conference, declared that Chamberlain, Simon and Hoare were "primarily responsible for the relative weakness of our war effort."

While urging them "to consider whether their best service would not be by way of resignation," he prophesied that commons will demand it be told "a lot about Norway."

Attlee asserted that the government will be forced to "satisfy the country that everything possible was done" in the Norwegian campaign.

Shinwell declared that, if the government can not undertake the war task, "we shall have no alternative but to expose them and call for a government which can show more firmness and courage."

Well-informed quarters described the German claims as "of a fantastic character to which the public fast is becoming accustomed."

These sources also revealed details of the unsuccessful attempts to capture Trondheim.

They admitted that "the allies failed to anticipate" Germany's lighting move into Denmark and Norway and thus were left with a force "which never had been designed or intended to land against opposition forces."

These sources reported that territorial troops, similar in training and equipment to the United States national guard, were the "spearhead of our troops in the first landings" in Norway and "formed the bridge heads through which more trained and experienced troops would pass."

'MAD BUTCHER' BLAMED IN CRIME

were charred scraps of a Youngstown newspaper dated December 11, 1939.

Investigators plan to center their search at Youngstown where a mysterious fire broke out in the railroads yards February 28. District Attorney Andrew T. Park said it was possible the madman killer, who has burned several victims, started the blaze in the hope the gruesome evidence would be destroyed. Not far from the yards is a hobo jungle in which officials theorized the victims might have been staying.

"I think it is safe to say the mad butcher's victims now total 24," declared Detective Peter Merylo of Cleveland, who for four years has hunted the killer. "The whole thing looks like his work."

However, Deputy Coroner Anthony Sappo found the mad butcher angle confused by discovery of the word "Nazi" on the body which he said "indicates a possibility there might be some secret society, opposed to Nazis, connected with the case."

Merylo reported a bloody print of a "good-sized" shoe found on wrappings in one of the cars apparently was that of the slayer's and proved for the first time that the butcher was a man and not a woman as some suspected. He also considered the inverted "Z" in the carved "Nazi" as "showing the sex-fiend killer is not educated and probably is a fellow who rides the trains, roaming the country."

WOMEN SEEK END OF HUSBAND-WIFE LAW

COVINGTON, La., May 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Juanita Hawley Privette, a past president of the Covington club, was unanimously reelected state president of the Louisiana Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs today at the 21st annual convention. Shreveport was chosen for the 1941 convention.

The federation adopted a resolution favoring repeal of act 15 of the 1940 special session of the legislature, which provides that both husband and wife cannot be employed by the state when the salary is in excess of $100 monthly. The resolution was sponsored by Miss Monita Goldsby of Baton Rouge, immediate past president of the federation.

Other recommendations were for greater efforts to get women to vote; encouragement of more appointments of women to public boards and jury service by women, and formulation of a plan whereby various women's groups in Louisiana may combine to obtain laws giving men and women equal rights in all fields.

Other officers chosen were Miss Ethel Ryan, New Orleans, first vice-president; Mrs. Eunice Stuckey, Ruston, second vice-president; Miss Hattie Lee West, Shreveport, recording secretary; Miss Katie Hebert, Baton Rouge, treasurer, and Miss Kathryn Bower, Lake Charles, auditor.

The address of Mrs. Jessie K. Norton of Shreveport, honorary state president, who was unable to attend, was delivered by District Attorney James T. Burns. It was called "Making Democracy Work."

The convention will end tomorrow.

is without funds for future road construction.

However, the audit disclosed that for the first time since the 1932 financial crisis, when the highway department was unable to sell bonds and plunged deep into debt, the department will wind up the current fiscal year without a deficit.

Maladministration in the highway department, as revealed in the audit, included purchasing supplies without obtaining competitive bids required by law, paying highway commissioners' expense accounts without accompanying receipts, and allowing employes to buy gasoline through the commission.

The audit showed that more than three score highway employes had obtained advances for expenses which never have been repaid. Among these was listed L. L. Morgan, the commission's former general counsel who in recent years has received consideration for appointment as a federal judge and as a gubernatorial candidate.

Another named was L. A. Jones, former assistant superintendent of the state highway patrol and former penitentiary warden. He was listed as owing $150 and Morgan as owing $200. Others currently employed by the commission owe as much as $600, the audit showed.

Governor-Elect Jones said he expected reports from the citizen committee investigating the dock board and Charity hospital at New Orleans as soon as possible. Data produced in the surveys will be used for placing the two institutions on a more stable basis.

In reorganizing the state board of health, presently headed by Dr. J. A. O'Hara, a high figure in the smashed political machine, Jones said he was asking the United States public health service's cooperation. It was indicated a Louisiana physician may be trained by the federal agency to head the new state health program.

gray hair

If you have gray hair, simply wet it with Canute Water and allow to dry. A few applications, (all in one day, if desired) re-colors it completely . . . similar to its former natural shade. Attention only once a month will keep it that way.

Curl your hair or get a permanent, if you wish. There's no interference. Neither will sunshine, salt-water or shampooing disturb the color. Your hair remains clean and natural to the touch and looks natural in any light.

Safe!

Skin Test Not Needed

Canute Water is pure, safe, colorless and crystal-clear. It has a remarkable record of 25 years without injury to a single person. It was also tested and proven perfectly harmless by a Noted Scientist in one of America's Greatest Universities.

THAT'S WHAT MONROE NEEDS!---THAT'S WHAT E. M. STEEN OFFERS!

PLATFORM

E. M. Steen does not seek the office of Mayor for his own gratification. He wants to help make Monroe a better city, and to accomplish this purpose, the following program will be inaugurated when he takes office:

1—He will direct all his efforts toward establishing a city government which will enjoy the cooperation of all departments and which will function for the benefit of all citizens of Monroe—each department being under the direction of an executive who will be directly responsible for its successful operation.

2—He will make an effort to reduce unemployment by securing for Monroe her share of governmental projects—

3—He will use the many advantages of Monroe to secure the industries to which it is entitled—

4—He will improve and make every effort to complete the city's sewerage and drainage system—

5—He will use the taxpayers' money so that one hundred cents value will be derived from every dollar spent—

6—He will make the power plant adequate to meet the city's needs—

7—He will cooperate with the school board in improving the school system—

8—He will direct his efforts toward the beautification of Monroe—

9—He will do all within his power to build for posterity a city that will be looked upon as an outstanding example of progressive municipal government.

STEEN IS PROGRESSIVE....

E. M. Steen is qualified, by education and experience, to carry out his program. He is well versed in modern business methods which will be used in conducting the affairs of the office of Mayor!

WHO IS STEEN?

E. M. STEEN

The question, "WHO IS STEEN?" has been asked! Here is the answer:

E. M. STEEN is a successful business man who rose from a $15.00 per week grocery clerk to the head of his own business which is recognized as one of Louisiana's most outstanding organizations of its kind—

E. M. STEEN is the man who has organized his business to such extent that he can turn its operation over to one of his associates in order to give his full time to the duties of the office of Mayor—

E. M. STEEN is the man in this race who is young enough to be progressive—yet old enough to be conservative. He is the man who will put the affairs of Monroe on a strict business-like basis—

E. M. STEEN is the man who will take a definite stand on every public issue! You'll always know where E. M. Steen stands on every question!—

E. M. STEEN is a man qualified in every respect to make Monroe a good Mayor!

LET'S PUT THE IMPORTANT THINGS FIRST!

Monroe needs many things, some of which are more important than others. The three things in which citizens are most interested at the present time are:

1—An adequate sewerage and drainage system

2—Improvement and enlargement of the power plant

3—Additional industries to provide larger payrolls

Monroe's present sewerage and drainage system is a disgrace to a city of its size. When homeowners in some of the better residential sections are forced to resort to the use of septic tanks, such a condition should, by all means, be corrected! E. M. Steen realizes that it would be practically impossible to build a bigger city until this condition is first corrected. Homeowners and business people alike are being inconvenienced and put to extra expense on account of the present condition of the sewerage and drainage system. One of E. M. Steen's first objectives when elected your Mayor will be to relieve this condition.

The feasibility of keeping and improving the power plant is clearly shown by the fact that it is a profitable business operation.

E. M. Steen wants more industries for Monroe which, as a result of increased payrolls, will give the people more purchasing power. When people have the money with which to buy the things they need and want, they are happy. And it takes happy people to make a good city!

ELECT E. M. STEEN YOUR MAYOR AND GIVE HIM A CHANCE TO IMPROVE MONROE!

STEEN IS CONSERVATIVE....

E. M. Steen does not believe in throwing away the taxpayers' money! Elections are expensive . . . the people know what they want! So, let's elect Steen in the first primary and save the expense of a second!

GREENVILLE PROFITS BY ERRORS TO BEAT SOX

BUCKSHOTS WIN SERIES FINAL IN EASY STYLE, 11-4

Eight Miscues Chalked Up By Monroe; Four Hurlers Employed

GREENVILLE, Miss., May 4.—(Special)—Greenville won the third game of the series with the White Sox yesterday afternoon, when the Monroe team miscued repeatedly in the early innings, by the score of 11 to 4. Manager Doug Taitt used four hurlers in the attempt to stop the carnage, and made switches in his batting order and lineup but to no avail. The Buckshots collected ten blows off the offerings of the Sox pitchers and were helped along with seven free passes and eight errors.

Monroe's infield went to pieces in the first frame and committed three errors, good for two runs. After Hill and Seal were out, Hodge walked. Neuman was safe on an error by Fisher and Reese singled, scoring Hodge. Neuman went to third and Reese to second when Burt let the ball get away from him. Oliver hit to Eagar at short and he fumbled the ball and Neuman crossed the plate. McNamara fanned to end the inning.

Monroe came to life in their half of the second and scored two runs. Medak was safe on an error by Seal. Taitt walked and Hackney singled, scoring Medak. Schang hit into a double play McNamara to Hodge to Reese but Taitt scored. Fisher flied to right.

Again in the second frame the Sox got the jitters and three more miscues were chalked up. Didier was safe on Eagar's wild throw to first. Spikes doubled to right scoring Didier. Hill flied to Englehorn in left. Seal fanned and Schang made an attempt to catch Spikes off second and threw the ball into centerfield, Spikes going to third. Hodge bounced a hit off Maxfield's glove, Hackney scooped it up, and when hurried, threw the ball wild to first and Spikes scored and Hodge went to second. Jim Brister relieved Kelton Maxfield on the mound. Neuman grounded to Hackney and was out at first.

Monroe again scored in the third. Brister, first man up, singled and Eagar walked. Burt flied to right. Englehorn singled, scoring Brister and then stole second. Medak struck out and Doug Taitt walked. Hackney forced Taitt at second, to retire the side.

Greenville added three more runs in the fourth to lead 7 to 3. Spikes walked and Hill got a hit when he beat out a bunt down the third base line. Seal forced Hill at second, but Spikes went to third. With Hodge at bat, the first ball thrown to him went through Schang and Seal went to second, but Schang recovered in time to hold Spikes on third. Lefty Hinton relieved Brister on the hill and walked Hodge. Neuman hit a long fly against the fence, which Englehorn pulled in, Spikes scoring and Seal going to third after the catch. Hodge then made a break for second and Hinton, hesitating a moment, threw the ball into centerfield and Seal scored and Hodge went to third. Reese singled, scoring Hodge. Oliver flied to Englehorn in left.

Monroe scored its fourth and last run in the sixth. Doug Taitt singled to open the frame. Hackney got a base on balls but Schang flied to right. Pettigrew came up to bat for Fisher and walked, filling the bases. Riha, hitting for Hinton, popped to second. Eagar walked, forcing home Taitt. Williams relieved Spikes on the

OUACHITA ENTRY LOSES IN TENNIS

BATON ROUGE, La., May 4.—(AP)—Jesuit recaptured the state high school rally baseball championship today by conquering its New Orleans rival and defending champion, Fortier, 12-1. Fortier wrested the crown from Jesuit last year after Jesuit had won it for six straight years.

In the softball rally tournament, held for the first time this year, Erath won the title in the boys' division and Elizabeth the crown in the girls' division. Erath downed Winnfield 9-4 while Elizabeth conquered Lyon High of Covington 6-0.

Bolton High of Alexandria won four of the five Class A tennis rally events, Fortier annexing the boys' singles crown as Glenn Gardner, ninth-ranked national boy netter, defeated Nelson Abell, Ouachita High of Monroe, 11-13, 6-2, 6-1. The grueling match lasted three hours.

Rufus Harris, Jr., of Newman High, New Orleans, captured the Class B boys' singles title by eliminating Jack Bremmerman, New Orleans academy, 6-4, 6-2. N. O. A. won the boys' doubles and Waterproof swept the girls' events.

Fortier and Lutcher, perennial champions in the rally swim championships, again dominated the tank events.

BIMELECH SECOND WHEN LONG SHOT OUT-GAMES FIELD

Victory For 'Bargain Counter Horse' Stuns Record Crowd

By Sid Feder

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Louisville, Ky., May 4.—(AP)—Bimelech and the last long quarter mile broke the Blue Grass today, as Gallahadion, a "bargain counter horse" from the yearling sales, out-gamed seven other gallopers to win the 66th running of the Kentucky Derby.

Second-longest priced winner in the 65 year history of this mile and a quater classic, Gallahadion not only ran with Bimmie, but actually made him "holler uncle" in a roaring stretch drive to come winging home a length and a half in front.

A shriek of astonishment choked in the throats of the spectators at the failure of "Big Bim," most popular favorite in 35 years.

Colonel Matt J. Winn, president of Churchill Downs, estimated the crowd at 95,000, which he said was the largest ever to see a horse race in the United States.

By taking the top portion of the Derby stake, Gallahadion marked "paid in full," the score Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago, his owner, has held since she bought him for $5,000 at Saratoga two years ago, among a number of youngsters whom she bid in for a total of more than $100,000. None of the other purchases had paid any kind of dividend to compare with this—$60,150 as the winner's share of the richest Derby in history plus the glory that goes with the victor's necklace of roses.

Bimelech was second, but he might as well have been 22nd. He was a beaten horse in the last quarter mile, for this son of Sir Gallahad III did what none had ever done before—run with Bimmie to the wire. And in the defeat lay not only the end of Bimmie's all-triumphant run of eight straight races, but the ashes of 80-year-old Colonel Edward R. Bradley's dream of breaking his own record with a fifth Derby winner today.

With all due respect to Gallahadion, it was a perfect ride by Jockey Carroll Bierman, the veteran from Centralia, Wash., which told in the end. Bierman broke Gallahadion from the

GREENVILLE PROFITS BY ERRORS TO BEAT SOX

BUCKSHOTS WIN SERIES FINAL IN EASY STYLE, 11-4

Eight Miscues Chalked Up By Monroe; Four Hurlers Employed

GREENVILLE, Miss., May 4.—(Special)—Greenville won the third game of the series with the White Sox yesterday afternoon, when the Monroe team miscued repeatedly in the early innings, by the score of 11 to 4. Manager Doug Taitt used four hurlers in the attempt to stop the carnage, and made switches in his batting order and lineup but to no avail. The Buckshots collected ten blows off the offerings of the Sox pitchers and were helped along with seven free passes and eight errors.

Monroe's infield went to pieces in the first frame and committed three errors, good for two runs. After Hill and Seal were out, Hodge walked. Neuman was safe on an error by Fisher and Reese singled, scoring Hodge. Neuman went to third and Reese to second when Burt let the ball get away from him. Oliver hit to Eagar at short and he fumbled the ball and Neuman crossed the plate. McNamara fanned to end the inning.

Monroe came to life in their half of the second and scored two runs. Medak was safe on an error by Seal. Taitt walked and Hackney singled, scoring Medak. Schang hit into a double play McNamara to Hodge to Reese but Taitt scored. Fisher flied to right.

Again in the second frame the Sox got the jitters and three more miscues were chalked up. Didier was safe on Eagar's wild throw to first. Spikes doubled to right scoring Didier. Hill flied to Englehorn in left. Seal fanned and Schang made an attempt to catch Spikes off second and threw the ball into centerfield, Spikes going to third. Hodge bounced a hit off Maxfield's glove, Hackney scooped it up, and when hurried, threw the ball wild to first and Spikes scored and Hodge went to second. Jim Brister relieved Kelton Maxfield on the mound. Neuman grounded to Hackney and was out at first.

Monroe again scored in the third. Brister, first man up, singled and Eagar walked. Burt flied to right. Englehorn singled, scoring Brister and then stole second. Medak struck out and Doug Taitt walked. Hackney forced Taitt at second, to retire the side.

Greenville added three more runs in the fourth to lead 7 to 3. Spikes walked and Hill got a hit when he beat out a bunt down the third base line. Seal forced Hill at second, but Spikes went to third. With Hodge at bat, the first ball thrown to him went through Schang and Seal went to second, but Schang recovered in time to hold Spikes on third. Lefty Hinton relieved Brister on the hill and walked Hodge. Neuman hit a long fly against the fence, which Englehorn pulled in, Spikes scoring and Seal going to third after the catch. Hodge then made a break for second and Hinton, hesitating a moment, threw the ball into centerfield and Seal scored and Hodge went to third. Reese singled, scoring Hodge. Oliver flied to Englehorn in left.

Monroe scored its fourth and last run in the sixth. Doug Taitt singled to open the frame. Hackney got a base on balls but Schang flied to right. Pettigrew came up to bat for Fisher and walked, filling the bases. Riha, hitting for Hinton, popped to second. Eagar walked, forcing home Taitt. Williams relieved Spikes on the

Victory For 'Bargain Counter Horse' Stuns Record Crowd

By Sid Feder

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Louisville, Ky., May 4.—(AP)—Bimelech and the last long quarter mile broke the Blue Grass today, as Gallahadion, a "bargain counter horse" from the yearling sales, out-gamed seven other gallopers to win the 66th running of the Kentucky Derby.

Second-longest priced winner in the 65 year history of this mile and a quater classic, Gallahadion not only ran with Bimmie, but actually made him "holler uncle" in a roaring stretch drive to come winging home a length and a half in front.

A shriek of astonishment choked in the throats of the spectators at the failure of "Big Bim," most popular favorite in 35 years.

Colonel Matt J. Winn, president of Churchill Downs, estimated the crowd at 95,000, which he said was the largest ever to see a horse race in the United States.

By taking the top portion of the Derby stake, Gallahadion marked "paid in full," the score Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago, his owner, has held since she bought him for $5,000 at Saratoga two years ago, among a number of youngsters whom she bid in for a total of more than $100,000. None of the other purchases had paid any kind of dividend to compare with this—$60,150 as the winner's share of the richest Derby in history plus the glory that goes with the victor's necklace of roses.

Bimelech was second, but he might as well have been 22nd. He was a beaten horse in the last quarter mile, for this son of Sir Gallahad III did what none had ever done before—run with Bimmie to the wire. And in the defeat lay not only the end of Bimmie's all-triumphant run of eight straight races, but the ashes of 80-year-old Colonel Edward R. Bradley's dream of breaking his own record with a fifth Derby winner today.

With all due respect to Gallahadion, it was a perfect ride by Jockey Carroll Bierman, the veteran from Centralia, Wash., which told in the end. Bierman broke Gallahadion from the

COTTON BOLL LOOP TO MEET ON MONDAY

The Cotton Boll league leaders and team managers will have their last meeting, before the season starts, Monday night, in the upstairs of the Hatchell Store in West Monroe. Entrance fees must be paid at this meeting by the clubs wishing to enter. Games will be played every Sunday and Wednesday.

Prospective entrants include the following: Green Parrots, managed by Parker Wink; Clarks, managed by W. A. Smith; Mt. Vernon, managed by W. W. Webb; Gilbert, managed by D. L. Chase; West Monroe, managed by H. Ingram; Monroe Pirates, managed by Bob Harmon; Keystone Paint, managed by J. W. Joiner; and Mangham, managed by W. E. Hickson.

It was announced that the league was trying to interest Collinston and Sterlington in joining the league.

The schedule will start May 12 and the season will be divided into two halves with fourteen games in each half. Play will be on Sundays and Wednesdays.

Officers of the Cotton Boll league are B. H. Dyar, president; Frank Polancic, vice-president; and Parker Wink, secretary-treasurer.

Today the Green Parrots will play Clarks in an exhibition game, beginning at 3:00 p. m.

HOME RUN BY LEIBER BEATS GIANTS FOR CUBS

HUBBELL LOSES IN CLOSE GAME AGAINST BRUINS

Circuit Blow In Sixth Provides Margin; Carl Allows Six Hits

CHICAGO, May 4.—(AP)—A home run over the left field wall by a former teammate, Hank Leiber, beat the Giants 3-2 in their first meeting with the Chicago Cubs today.

Leiber's drive came in the sixth inning to break a tie and to give Larry French his third victory of the season.

The Giants' meal ticket, Carl Hubbell went the distance, giving up only six hits but he had to accept his second loss of the season.

CARDS DEFEAT BEES

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—(AP)—Fiddler Bill McGee became the first St. Louis Cardinals' pitcher to go the full nine innings this season as he defeated the Boston Bees today, 3 to 1.

In the Cardinals' first 12 games, Manager Ray Blades called upon a total of 36 pitchers.

CONFERENCE MEET SLATED AT TECH

Louisiana Colleges To Hold First Carnival Next Saturday

RUSTON, La., May 4.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech next Saturday afternoon will be host to the first Louisiana Intercollegiate conference track meet, in which representatives of five colleges will participate. Besides Tech, colleges to have entries in the meet will be Centenary, Louisiana State Normal, Southwestern Louisiana institute and Louisiana college.

The Tech athletic director, Joe Aillet, who has attended to details of the program, said that L. di Benedetto of New Orleans, national president of the A. A. U., will serve as referee for the general supervision of the meet.

The five-college attraction will begin with some of the field events at 12:30 p.m. and be concluded with the mile relay, which is scheduled to start at 4:40 p.m.

Arrangements have been made to have either the Tech band or orchestra furnish music for the occasion, Coach Aillet announced.

Admission prices will be 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children, with the Tech students to be admitted on their athletic ticket books.

Because the Tech football field is being reconstructed, the field events of the meet will be staged near the men's new dormitory. The gridiron is being moved 33 feet closer to the stadium.

Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded to individual winners of first, second and third places. A plaque will be given to the winning relay team and a loving cup will be presented to the team winning in the freshman competition. The college winning the varsity meet will be awarded a large trophy, which will be rotated to the winning team from year to year. The latter will be provided by the Louisina Intercollegiate conference, while all of the other awards will be given by the Tech athletic department, Coach Aillet stated.

On Friday night preceding the track meet, a banquet will be given in the private room of the new Tech dining hall for coaches who are members of the conference and for several invited newspaper men. The dinner will be provided by the Tech publications department and will be under sponsorship of the Jumpers club, an organization of coaches and sports writers which originated in connection with the annual relays at Southwestern. Otis Harris, sports editor of the Shreveport Journal, has accepted an invitation to talk at the banquet on some phases of sports writing, emphasizing methods of presenting afternoon coverage as differentiated from reports in morning papers. Among the visiting newspaper men expected at the banquet will be Fred Digby, sports editor of the New Orleans Item, according to Rex McCullough, publicity director at Southwestern, who is aiding in arranging the meeting. Other newspaper men from Shreveport, Monroe and Ruston also are expected to attend.

Following the banquet, the conference officials will conduct a business session, at which time an application for membership in the conference will be submitted by Southeastern of Hammond, Coach Aillet reported. Head Coach Lloyd Stovall and Assistant Coach Jess Fatheree of Southeastern are expected to present the college's application.

GALLAHADION IS WINNER OF DERBY

inside position, saved ground with him all the way to the stretch, and then finished just as he started—on the rail.

As for Bimmie, a 4 to 10 shot, he appeared "stale" from three races in the last nine days. He showed this particularly in the final gruelling quarter, where the true test comes for a three-year-old this early in the season.

He took the lead momentarily at the head of the straight road home, but just couldn't hold on when Sir Gallahad's big, handsome bay son looked him in the eye.

In fact, at the finish, he barely saved second place, for Arnold Hanger's Dit, another yearling "buy" at $4,000, came on again after being forced wide rounding the stretch turn.

Dit just missed the place spot by a nose. He was in third place by a length over the California "glamour boy," Charles S. Howard's Mioland, while the rest of the field of eight—Charles T. Fisher's Sirocco, Joseph E. Widener's Roman, Harold S. Clark's Royal Man, and the mud-running Marylander, William L. Brann's Pictor, trailed in that order.

Although run on a fast racing strip and in warm sunny weather, which had smiled its way in for the Blue Grass classic after a four-day touch of winter in Derbytown, Gallahadion's time of 2:05 was the slowest since Omaha came bouncing home first in 1935, on an off track. Omaha, incidentally, is a cousin of today's winner.

No accurate check of the tremendous crowd, which jammed the grandstand and clubhouse, choked the picturesque clubhouse lawn, and packed all the front of the infield grass, was available immediately.

In the press box, the "experts" estimated some 75,000 to 80,000 saw the show. But the "experts" had climbed all the way out on the limb in picking Bimelech to win, virtually unanimously, so that they weren't too sure about this.

INDIANS GET MORE FOOTBALL PRACTICE

Coach James L. Malone of Northeast Junior college, announced last night that he would have ten days of football practice for his ends, backs, and centers, starting Monday. There will be no heavy work, just a little brushing up on the games' fundamentals, passing, pass defence and punting.

Coach Malone announced that the practice would take place at night, beginning at seven and last on hour. Sixteen boys in all will take part in the ten-day session. Eight of them will be lettermen. This should enable the Indians to at least have plenty of experience in these three departments.

"The regular spring practice was a success," said the coach, "but this is just a little extra checking up."

TIGER NINE BEATS OLE MISS TWICE

BATON ROUGE, La., May 4.—(AP)—Louisiana State swept Mississippi's baseball nine off its feet today winning both ends of a double-header by shutout scores, 3-0, 4-0.

Erdman hit a home run and a triple in the first game for L. S. U. and his teammates, Brotherton and Anastasio, each blasted out four-baggers in the second. Brotherton's homer carried nearly 450 feet, the longest swat ever seen in the Tiger baseball park.

Joe Kuhel Hits Two Home Runs To Spark Chicago's Attack

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Thornton Lee, the 10th lefthander to face the New York Yankees in 13 games, was too much for them today and he pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 10-3 triumph.

His teammates slapped 15 blows off Steve Sundra, Bump Hadley, Oral Hildebrand and Lee Grissom. Two of the blows were homers by Joe Kuhel.

INDIANS WHIP NATS

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—Collecting 13 hits off a trio of Washington hurlers, Cleveland registered a 12-4 triumph over the Nationals today.

Second Baseman Ray Mack sparked the attack with a 420-foot home run into the center field stands with nobody on base in the sixth inning.

RED SOX BEAT BROWNS

BOSTON, May 4.—(AP)—Boston's Red Sox hit lightly but effectively today to give Pitcher Denny Galehouse his first victory of the year, a 4-1 triumph which swept a two-game series with the luckless St. Louis Browns.

Bob Harris and Johnny Niggeling limited the potent Sox lineup to six hits, but five of the blows figured in the Hose scoring.

ON MAT SHOW TUESDAY NIGHT

Jack "Stinger" Steele above will be one of the principals in the mixed show planned by Promoter Gus Kallio Tuesday.

Mixed Match Feature Of Wrestling Card Tuesday

Kallio Books What He Believes To Be Best Presented Here

Promoter Gus Kallio has lined up what he claims to be the biggest show in the history of the Monroe wrestling arena for next Tuesday night. He has signed Jack "Stinger" Steele and Duke Ruppenthal for a mixed wrestling and boxing bout for his main event and supporting this will be a wrestling match between Jack Curtis and Joe Banaski with two out of three falls or a one-hour time limit. There will also be a four-round boxing match between Cecil Martin, weighing 154 pounds and Wesley Davis 156. Another feature of the show will be a wrestling bout if "the Duke" beats Steele and a boxing bout of six rounds if Steele beats Ruppenthal. Bob Arthur will be the opponent, challenging the winner.

Kallio announced a new contest, with a watch given away to the popular grappler that can get the nod of the fans three times. The last contest of this nature was won by Irish McGee in seven weeks. The watch will be donated by Ray's Jewelry store and will be on display at the arena.

"Stinger" Steele, a pugilist of the light heavyweight class, issued a challenge to the Duke. So Kallio arranged the bout for next Tuesday night's card. Arthur, who proved himself as a good wrestler last week, said he would take on the winner. Arthur, who is an amateur boxer of some ability, will box Steele in a six-round bout, or wrestle Ruppenthal in a one-fall or a 45 minute time limit.

Steele has had some experience as a wrestler and thinks he can whip "the Duke" by staying out of his reach and socking him with rights and lefts to the face and mid-section. The bout will be made up of eight three-minute rounds instead of going until one is whipped. If Ruppenthal should pin Steele in less than eight rounds, then he will be the winner and if Steele k.o's Ruppenthal, it's all over too.

Jack Curtis and Joe Banaski have wrestled here before and both are well liked by the fans. It should be an interesting match.

The four-rounder will find two middleweights trying to outsmart each other. Martin is from Columbia, La., and Davis is a home town product.

All in all this should be the best show staged by the Finn during his tenure of promoting bouts here in Monroe. It gives the fans boxing, wrestling and a combination of both. Many people have speculated over which would win in a mixed bout and this offers an opportunity to find out.

Steele, winner over several of the best light heavies in the game, and Ruppenthal, winner over everything he has taken on in Monroe, should be an interesting pair to watch in the ring.

Patrons may vote on their favorite among the five wrestlers and one boxer that appear on this week's show.

Prices will be 55 cents for the ringside, 40 cents for general admission and 25 cents for students.

HOME RUN BY LEIBER BEATS GIANTS FOR CUBS

HUBBELL LOSES IN CLOSE GAME AGAINST BRUINS

Circuit Blow In Sixth Provides Margin; Carl Allows Six Hits

CHICAGO, May 4.—(AP)—A home run over the left field wall by a former teammate, Hank Leiber, beat the Giants 3-2 in their first meeting with the Chicago Cubs today.

Leiber's drive came in the sixth inning to break a tie and to give Larry French his third victory of the season.

The Giants' meal ticket, Carl Hubbell went the distance, giving up only six hits but he had to accept his second loss of the season.

CARDS DEFEAT BEES

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—(AP)—Fiddler Bill McGee became the first St. Louis Cardinals' pitcher to go the full nine innings this season as he defeated the Boston Bees today, 3 to 1.

In the Cardinals' first 12 games, Manager Ray Blades called upon a total of 36 pitchers.

CONFERENCE MEET SLATED AT TECH

Louisiana Colleges To Hold First Carnival Next Saturday

RUSTON, La., May 4.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech next Saturday afternoon will be host to the first Louisiana Intercollegiate conference track meet, in which representatives of five colleges will participate. Besides Tech, colleges to have entries in the meet will be Centenary, Louisiana State Normal, Southwestern Louisiana institute and Louisiana college.

The Tech athletic director, Joe Aillet, who has attended to details of the program, said that L. di Benedetto of New Orleans, national president of the A. A. U., will serve as referee for the general supervision of the meet.

The five-college attraction will begin with some of the field events at 12:30 p.m. and be concluded with the mile relay, which is scheduled to start at 4:40 p.m.

Arrangements have been made to have either the Tech band or orchestra furnish music for the occasion, Coach Aillet announced.

Admission prices will be 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children, with the Tech students to be admitted on their athletic ticket books.

Because the Tech football field is being reconstructed, the field events of the meet will be staged near the men's new dormitory. The gridiron is being moved 33 feet closer to the stadium.

Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded to individual winners of first, second and third places. A plaque will be given to the winning relay team and a loving cup will be presented to the team winning in the freshman competition. The college winning the varsity meet will be awarded a large trophy, which will be rotated to the winning team from year to year. The latter will be provided by the Louisina Intercollegiate conference, while all of the other awards will be given by the Tech athletic department, Coach Aillet stated.

On Friday night preceding the track meet, a banquet will be given in the private room of the new Tech dining hall for coaches who are members of the conference and for several invited newspaper men. The dinner will be provided by the Tech publications department and will be under sponsorship of the Jumpers club, an organization of coaches and sports writers which originated in connection with the annual relays at Southwestern. Otis Harris, sports editor of the Shreveport Journal, has accepted an invitation to talk at the banquet on some phases of sports writing, emphasizing methods of presenting afternoon coverage as differentiated from reports in morning papers. Among the visiting newspaper men expected at the banquet will be Fred Digby, sports editor of the New Orleans Item, according to Rex McCullough, publicity director at Southwestern, who is aiding in arranging the meeting. Other newspaper men from Shreveport, Monroe and Ruston also are expected to attend.

Following the banquet, the conference officials will conduct a business session, at which time an application for membership in the conference will be submitted by Southeastern of Hammond, Coach Aillet reported. Head Coach Lloyd Stovall and Assistant Coach Jess Fatherce of Southeastern are expected to present the college's application.

GALLAHADION IS WINNER OF DERBY

inside position, saved ground with him all the way to the stretch, and then finished just as he started—on the rail.

As for Bimmie, a 4 to 10 shot, he appeared "stale" from three races in the last nine days. He showed this particularly in the final gruelling quarter, where the true test comes for a three-year-old this early in the season.

He took the lead momentarily at the head of the straight road home, but just couldn't hold on when Sir Gallahad's big, handsome bay son looked him in the eye.

In fact, at the finish, he barely saved second place, for Arnold Hanger's Dit, another yearling "buy" at $4,000, came on again after being forced wide rounding the stretch turn.

Dit just missed the place spot by a nose. He was in third place by a length over the California "glamour boy," Charles S. Howard's Mioland, while the rest of the field of eight—Charles T. Fisher's Sirocco, Joseph E. Widener's Roman, Harold S. Clark's Royal Man, and the mud-running Marylander, William L. Brann's Pictor, trailed in that order.

Although run on a fast racing strip and in warm sunny weather, which had smiled its way in for the Blue Grass classic after a four-day touch of winter in Derbytown, Gallahadion's time of 2:05 was the slowest since Omaha came bouncing home first in 1935, on an off track. Omaha, incidentally, is a cousin of today's winner.

No accurate check of the tremendous crowd, which jammed the grandstand and clubhouse, choked the picturesque clubhouse lawn, and packed all the front of the infield grass, was available immediately.

In the press box, the "experts" estimated some 75,000 to 80,000 saw the show. But the "experts" had climbed all the way out on the limb in picking Bimelech to win, virtually unanimously, so that they weren't too sure about this.

INDIANS GET MORE FOOTBALL PRACTICE

Coach James L. Malone of Northeast Junior college, announced last night that he would have ten days of football practice for his ends, backs, and centers, starting Monday. There will be no heavy work, just a little brushing up on the games' fundamentals, passing, pass defence and punting.

Coach Malone announced that the practice would take place at night, beginning at seven and last on hour. Sixteen boys in all will take part in the ten-day session. Eight of them will be lettermen. This should enable the Indians to at least have plenty of experience in these three departments.

"The regular spring practice was a success," said the coach, "but this is just a little extra checking up."

TIGER NINE BEATS OLE MISS TWICE

BATON ROUGE, La., May 4.—(AP)—Louisiana State swept Mississippi's baseball nine off its feet today winning both ends of a double-header by shutout scores, 3-0, 4-0.

Erdman hit a home run and a triple in the first game for L. S. U. and his teammates, Brotherton and Anastasio, each blasted out four-baggers in the second. Brotherton's homer carried nearly 450 feet, the longest swat ever seen in the Tiger baseball park.

SMOKIES DOWN PELS

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—(AP)—The Knoxville Smokies opened their three-game series with the New Orleans Pelicans today with a 5 to 3 victory. They pounded the offerings of Gordon Maltzberger for 16 hits, twice as many as their own Jim Bivin allowed. First Sacker Buck Stanton led the invaders' onslaught with a perfect day, four hits out of four times up.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Rumor foundry: St. Louis wires say unless the Cards are in a strong contending position July 4, Ray Blades will get a nice large dose of fresh air. . . . Professor Rabbit Maranville has been added to the faculty of Ray Doan's traveling baseball school. . . . Mixed Match Feature Of Wrestling Card Tuesday

Kallio Books What He Believes To Be Best Presented Here

Promoter Gus Kallio has lined up what he claims to be the biggest show in the history of the Monroe wrestling arena for next Tuesday night. He has signed Jack "Stinger" Steele and Duke Ruppenthal for a mixed wrestling and boxing bout for his main event and supporting this will be a wrestling match between Jack Curtis and Joe Banaski with two out of three falls or a one-hour time limit. There will also be a four-round boxing match between Cecil Martin, weighing 154 pounds, and Wesley Davis, 156. Another feature of the show will be a wrestling bout if "the Duke" beats Steele and a boxing bout of six rounds if Steele beats Ruppenthal. Bob Arthur will be the opponent, challenging the winner.

Kallio announced a new contest, with a watch given away to the popular grappler that can get the nod of the fans three times. The last contest of this nature was won by Irish McGee in seven weeks. The watch will be donated by Ray's Jewelry store and will be on display at the arena.

"Stinger" Steele, a pugilist of the light heavyweight class, issued a challenge to the Duke. So Kallio arranged the bout for next Tuesday night's card. Arthur, who proved himself as a good wrestler last week, said he would take on the winner. Arthur, who is an amateur boxer of some ability, will box Steele in a six-round bout, or wrestle Ruppenthal in a one-fall or a 45-minute time limit.

Steele has had some experience as a wrestler and thinks he can whip "the Duke" by staying out of his reach and socking him with rights and lefts to the face and mid-section. The bout will be made up of eight three-minute rounds instead of going until one is whipped. If Ruppenthal should pin Steele in less than eight rounds, then he will be the winner and if Steele k.o's Ruppenthal, it's all over too.

Jack Curtis and Joe Banaski have wrestled here before and both are well liked by the fans. It should be an interesting match.

The four-rounder will find two middleweights trying to outsmart each other. Martin is from Columbia, La., and Davis is a home town product.

All in all this should be the best show staged by the Finn during his tenure of promoting bouts here in Monroe. It gives the fans boxing, wrestling and a combination of both. Many people have speculated over which would win in a mixed bout and this offers an opportunity to find out.

Steele, winner over several of the best light heavies in the game, and Ruppenthal, winner over everything he has taken on in Monroe, should be an interesting pair to watch in the ring.

Patrons may vote on their favorite among the five wrestlers and one boxer that appear on this week's show.

Prices will be 55 cents for the ringside, 40 cents for general admission and 25 cents for students.

mound, and Burt forced Eagar at second to retire the side.

Riha went to third at the beginning of the last half of the sixth and George Taitt came in to pitch. Hill, Seal, and Hodge were out, three up—three down.

Greenwood scored two more tallies in the seventh. Reese was safe on an error by Eagar, after Neuman had fanned. Oliver walked and McNamara whiffed. Didier singled, scoring Reese and Oliver stopped at second. Willams doubled to left center field, scoring Oliver. Hill fouled out to Schang.

The eighth inning saw Greenville continue their scoring and make their total 11. Seal popped to Riha and Hodge was out, Medak to George Taitt, who covered first. Neuman walked, Reese singled and Oliver walked to fill the sacks. McNamara singled to score Neuman and Reese. Didier struck out.

Monroe threatened in the ninth, when Englehorn the first man up, doubled and Medak was passed. Doug Taitt flied to right and Hackney ended the game by hitting into a double play, McNamara to Hodge to Reese.

BARGAIN EVENT IS SUCCESSFUL

to exceeded anything we have had in many years."

Sam Davis, executive of The Palace, expressed his views in the absence out of town of H. L. Patterson, another member of the committee.

"The crowd in our store was much larger than is usual on Saturdays," Mr. Davis said. "Friday also was a good day. I believe the Monroe Bargain Days events was most successful."

Hal Hodges, another member of the special committee, said results were "miraculous."

"It was a marvelous event," Mr. Hodges said. The increase in business over the same two days a year ago is almost unbelievable. It was one of the most successful sales events in which I have ever participated."

George D. Holland, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, also termed the event outstanding.

"I wish to express my gratitude in behalf of the merchants of Monroe," Mr. Holland said, "and my appreciation to the shopping public for the fine support given Monroe Bargain Days. It was an outstanding success. Our merchants offered some unusual bargains and our friends here and in this section of the state continued their support of and appreciation for Monroe as a shopping center. The results were most gratifying."

OFFICERS SEEK MASSIE SLAYER

investigate. He met the slayer half way to the cabin, and the man still was carrying the ax with which he struck the farmer. Schalnus fired one shot and missed, and the attacker fled. In the darkness Schalnut was unable to identify the man who struck him.

Officers in Tallulah observed late today that jealousy might have been the motive for the slaying, and were biding their time on the search in the belief that the assailant would come out of hiding in a few hours.

The parish coroner, Dr. H. C. Sevier, held an inquest today and the verdict reached was "murder at the hands of a party unknown."

Massie is survived by his wife who lives in Prentiss, Miss., five grown children, and a brother, A. L. Massie of Soso, Miss.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, but relatives of the slain man said the body would be returned to Mississippi for burial.

Speaking of Elections

we have been wondering why the present one is so quiet.

But—come to think of it—if you had seventy thousand soldiers just south of you, looking for a scrap, you'd be quiet too.

Incidentally—we have some choice lots for building purposes—North Side—South Side—West Monroe.

Will close them out at very attractive prices as we are bankers and not in the real estate business.

SPOT COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—(AP)—Spot cotton closed quiet, 3 lower. Sales 7.21; low middling 9.70; middling 10.70, good middling 11.15. Receipts 2,486, stock 668,120.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15-16 inch cotton at 10 designated southern spot markets today was three lower at 10.57 cents a pound. Average for the past 30 market days was 10.61. Middling 7-8 inch average was 10.39 cents a pound.

New York

NEW YORK, May 4—(AP)—Late covering by spot cotton interests steadied distant future positions today and the market closed with irregular price changes.

Earlier foreign and domestic liquidation and hedge selling met limited support from trade and local sources. Favorable weekly weather forecasts brought in new crop liquidation.

Final prices were 2 lower to 5 higher.

Sugar

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Domestic sugar futures steadied today as firmness in the freight situation and consequent lack of selling pressure in raws offset unsettlement in the southern refined market.

World futures were irregular after a quiet session of evening up operations with traders watching Europe.

Raws were quiet with offerings unchanged.

Refined was unchanged locally at 4.50 cents a pound.

Futures No. 3 closed unchanged to 1 higher. Sales 950 tons. July 1.93b; Sept. 1.98b.

No. 4 futures 1-2 lower to 1-2 higher. Sales 2,750 tons. July 1.48 1-2b; Sept. 1.48 1-2b.

BRAINS, FOOTBALL ALL IN ONE BODY!

IOWA CITY, Ia., May 4.—(AP)—Nile Kinnick had a new type of trophy today—a Phi Beta Kappa key.

The all-American halfback spark of last season's University of Iowa football team was one of 30 students named yesterday to the Iowa chapter of the national honorary scholastic fraternity.

Membership in Phi Beta Kappa is the highest scholastic honor students can achieve and less than five per cent of the senior class at the university received such recognition.

MARRIAGES

GILL-DUNN

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., May 4.—(Special)—Mr. Prince Gill and Mrs. Lois Dunn were married April 20 at the Baptist pastorium with Rev. A. L. Russell officiating.

Mr. Gill is an employe of a service station in Rayville and Mrs. Gill is one of the operators of the local branch of the telephone company.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Stocks irregular; leaders drift. Bonds mixed; Italian loans rally. Foreign exchange lower; general decline led by pound sterling. Cotton narrow; hedge selling, foreign liquidation. Sugar level; trading inactive. Metals quiet; routine demand for copper. Wool tops steady; trade covering.

CHICAGO—Wheat lower. Corn lower. Cattle nominally steady. Hogs nominally steady.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Fears of unexpected European war developments over the week-end caused the trimming of speculative sails in today's stock market.

Trends were indefinite until the final hour when light selling put a number of leaders down fractions to a point or so. The fact offerings were never forced was comforting to bullish proponents who recalled that real activity in the past several weeks usually has accompanied rising prices.

With the ticker tape loafing during the greater part of the proceedings, transfers for the two hours ran to approximately 350,000 shares.

While efforts of the administration to halt the spread of the overseas conflict and keep Italy out were consoling to financial quarters, the presence of the big allied fleet in the eastern Mediterranean revived some market apprehension as to eventualities in that part of the world. Possibilities of a drastic British cabinet upheaval in the wake of the Norwegian campaign also were given as an excuse in boardrooms for the lack of stock buying demand.

Although affairs abroad aroused varying conjectures as to possible repercussions on American trade, domestic industrial prospects provided a mildly bolstering influence for the share list.

Bonds and commodities were a trifle ragged. American securities moved up at Amsterdam, only important foreign market open today.

Oil And Gas News

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—(AP)—Twenty-two new producing wells in Louisiana oil fields, with total initial daily flow of 5,911 barrels, are listed in the weekly report of the department of conservation, made public Saturday.

The report includes the official announcement of three wells opening as many new fields in south Louisiana which had already been unofficially reported. These were the discovery wells of the Humble Oil and Refining company at Bayou des Glaises, of the California company at Belle Chasse and the Texas company at Erath.

Best producer listed in the report is the Amerada Petroleum corporation's No. 5 South Coast in the Raceland field, flowing 833 barrels a day through a quarter-inch choke. This is on a par with other good producers in this field. Six of the new producers listed are in north Louisiana fields with total initial flow of 800 barrels a day. The remainder are in south Louisiana.

Permits for new wells issued during the week totalled 37, of which all but 10 were for south Louisiana operations.

New wells officially reported by the department during the week, with date of completion ranging from April 3 to April 27, were the following:

BARGAIN EVENT IS SUCCESSFUL

to exceeded anything we have had in many years."

Sam Davis, executive of The Palace, expressed his views in the absence out of town of H. L. Patterson, another member of the committee.

"The crowd in our store was much larger than is usual on Saturdays," Mr. Davis said. "Friday also was a good day. I believe the Monroe Bargain Days events was most successful."

Hal Hodges, another member of the special committee, said results were "miraculous."

"It was a marvelous event," Mr. Hodges said. The increase in business over the same two days a year ago is almost unbelievable. It was one of the most successful sales events in which I have ever participated."

George D. Holland, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, also termed the event outstanding.

"I wish to express my gratitude in behalf of the merchants of Monroe," Mr. Holland said, "and my appreciation to the shopping public for the fine support given Monroe Bargain Days. It was an outstanding success. Our merchants offered some unusual bargains and our friends here and in this section of the state continued their support of and appreciation for Monroe as a shopping center. The results were most gratifying."

OFFICERS SEEK MASSIE SLAYER

investigate. He met the slayer half way to the cabin, and the man still was carrying the ax with which he struck the farmer. Schalnus fired one shot and missed, and the attacker fled. In the darkness Schalnut was unable to identify the man who struck him.

Officers in Tallulah observed late today that jealousy might have been the motive for the slaying, and were biding their time on the search in the belief that the assailant would come out of hiding in a few hours.

The parish coroner, Dr. H. C. Sevier, held an inquest today and the verdict reached was "murder at the hands of a party unknown."

Massie is survived by his wife who lives in Prentiss, Miss., five grown children, and a brother, A. L. Massie of Soso, Miss.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, but relatives of the slain man said the body would be returned to Mississippi for burial.

Speaking of Elections

we have been wondering why the present one is so quiet.

But—come to think of it—if you had seventy thousand soldiers just south of you, looking for a scrap, you'd be quiet too.

Incidentally—we have some choice lots for building purposes — North Side — South Side — West Monroe.

Will close them out at very attractive prices as we are bankers and not in the real estate business.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15-16 inch cotton at 10 designated southern spot markets today was three lower at 10.57 cents a pound. Average for the past 30 market days was 10.61. Middling 7-8 inch average was 10.39 cents a pound.

New York

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Late covering by spot cotton interests steadied distant future positions today and the market closed with irregular price changes.

Earlier foreign and domestic liquidation and hedge selling met limited support from trade and local sources. Favorable weekly weather forecasts brought in new crop liquidation.

Final prices were 2 lower to 5 higher.

BRAINS, FOOTBALL ALL IN ONE BODY!

IOWA CITY, Ia., May 4.—(AP)—Nile Kinnick had a new type of trophy today—a Phi Beta Kappa key.

The all-American halfback spark of last season's University of Iowa football team was one of 30 students named yesterday to the Iowa chapter of the national honorary scholastic fraternity.

Membership in Phi Beta Kappa is the highest scholastic honor students can achieve and less than five per cent of the senior class at the university received such recognition.

MARRIAGES

GILL-DUNN

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., May 4.—(Special)—Mr. Prince Gill and Mrs. Lois Dunn were married April 20 at the Baptist pastorium with Rev. A. L. Russell officiating.

Mr. Gill is an employe of a service station in Rayville and Mrs. Gill is one of the operators of the local branch of the telephone company.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Stocks irregular; leaders drift. Bonds mixed; Italian loans rally. Foreign exchange lower; general decline led by pound sterling. Cotton narrow; hedge selling, foreign liquidation. Sugar level; trading inactive. Metals quiet; routine demand for copper. Wool tops steady; trade covering.

CHICAGO—Wheat lower. Corn lower. Cattle nominally steady. Hogs nominally steady.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Fears of unexpected European war developments over the week-end caused the trimming of speculative sails in today's stock market.

Trends were indefinite until the final hour when light selling put a number of leaders down fractions to a point or so. The fact offerings were never forced was comforting to bullish proponents who recalled that real activity in the past several weeks usually has accompanied rising prices.

With the ticker tape loafing during the greater part of the proceedings, transfers for the two hours ran to approximately 350,000 shares.

While efforts of the administration to halt the spread of the overseas conflict and keep Italy out were consoling to financial quarters, the presence of the big allied fleet in the eastern Mediterranean revived some market apprehension as to eventualities in that part of the world. Possibilities of a drastic British cabinet upheaval in the wake of the Norwegian campaign also were given as an excuse in boardrooms for the lack of stock buying demand.

Although affairs abroad aroused varying conjectures as to possible repercussions on American trade, domestic industrial prospects provided a mildly bolstering influence for the share list.

Bonds and commodities were a trifle ragged. American securities moved up at Amsterdam, only important foreign market open today.

Oil And Gas News

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—(AP)—Twenty-two new producing wells in Louisiana oil fields, with total initial daily flow of 5,911 barrels, are listed in the weekly report of the department of conservation, made public Saturday.

The report includes the official announcement of three wells opening as many new fields in south Louisiana which had already been unofficially reported. These were the discovery wells of the Humble Oil and Refining company at Bayou des Glaises, of the California company at Belle Chasse and the Texas company at Erath.

Best producer listed in the report is the Amerada Petroleum corporation's No. 5 South Coast in the Raceland field, flowing 833 barrels a day through a quarter-inch choke. This is on a par with other good producers in this field. Six of the new producers listed are in north Louisiana fields with total initial flow of 800 barrels a day. The remainder are in south Louisiana.

Permits for new wells issued during the week totalled 37, of which all but 10 were for south Louisiana operations.

New wells officially reported by the department during the week, with date of completion ranging from April 3 to April 27, were the following:

Bayou des Glaises, Iberville parish: Discovery well, Humble Oil and Refining company, No. 2 A. Wilberts, 450 barrels, 12/64-inch choke.

Belle Chasse, Plaquemines parish: Discovery well, The California company, No. 1 Delta Minerals, 250 barrels, 3/16-inch choke.

PRESS SUPPORTS GOVERNOR-ELECT

Convention Votes Unanimously To Aid Jones In Clean-Up

SHREVEPORT, La., May 4—(AP)—The Louisiana Press association, in closing session here today, unanimously pledged support to Governor-Elect Sam H. Jones and outlined a legislative program for passage and enforcement of laws requiring that government agencies publish a yearly budget and a semi-annual accounting of any money and resources under their control.

The legislative program, outlined in detail, and approved unanimously at the convention, will be presented at the coming session of the legislature.

H. K. Goodwyn of Covington, editor of the St. Tammany Farmer, was elevated from the vice-presidency to the presidency of the association and Horace Mangham of Rayville, as president of the northern division and Howard Fore of Bunkie, as president of the southern division, were named vice-presidents. George T. Goodman of Ponchatoula was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Named to the board of directors besides the officers were Marcel Bienvenu, St. Martinville; John B. Gordon, Houma; Orville E. Priestley, Crowley; W. L. Rountree, Tallulah; C. G. Scott, Winnsboro; Estelle Tannehill, Winnfield; Mrs. C. L. Breazeale, Natchitoches; Edwin Roy, Araby; Dolph Frantz, Shreveport.

The resolution backing Jones expressed the association's "confidence in his sincerity, determination and ability to carry out his plans and policies as promised," and pledged their "sincere and active support to him as governor and to his administration."

The legislative program outlined two types of proposals—rigid enforcement of laws now in effect requiring publication of official proceedings and passage of amendments to certain "publication" laws fixing a penalty for non-publication. The association would set the penalty for non-publication at $25 to $500, 10 days to six months, or both. At present no "publication" laws have any penalty for those disobeying them and in many instances they have not been enforced, the committee reported.

"This is a safeguard to the people of the state which they should have," Major Bruce R. McCoy, field manager of the L. P. A., said. "If only one person reads that account of the proceedings, that is enough to keep the officials from any mishandling of funds or misgovernment."

The association urged enforcement of laws calling for publication of budgets and financial statements by legal procedure, invoking of the citizens' rights to refuse to pay taxes until such statements are published.

The press association pointed to the part which Louisiana newspapers have played in clearing up and exposing political scandals and mismanagement of public funds, declaring that they would fight editorially for the enactment of these proposed measures and for the enforcement of existing statutes.

Robert B. Smith, Virginia Press association manager, principal speaker on the morning program, compared the press to a political party and the advertisers and readers to voters.

"The press has a bright outlook. It is still the principal party and I believe will remain so."

In the principal afternoon address Sam Schwieger, manager of the Arkansas Press association, urged newspapermen to advertise themselves.

"Don't apologize for yourself, your paper or your profession. Newspapermen compliment everyone else but never think of patting themselves on the back. Well, you have to sell yourself in no uncertain terms," Schwieger said.

At the final round-table discussion George T. Goodman led a conference on financial accounting in publishing and Major McCoy and W. G. Jones of Denham Springs were speakers.

Selection of the 1941 convention city was left to the board of directors and the incoming president.

Odd Items In The News

(By Associated Press)

GREASE TIGHTS

ROCHESTER, Ind.—Snow fell and the elephants shivered as Cole Brothers circus gave its first 1940 show under canvas.

Acrobats met the situation by coating themselves with thick layers of grease—a la channel swimmer.

SIX-MONTH YEAR

PITTSBURGH—Energetic Charles D. Delphey, Jr., wants credit for the overtime he's put in at the county jail.

Asking a parole after serving six months of a one to three-year sentence for false pretense, Delphey explained he worked 16 hours daily and added:

"Figuring the average working day of a man at eight hours, I have done a year's work in six months."

County court will hear his petition later.

SCOREKEEPER'S DELIGHT?

KETTLE FALLS, Wash.—Northport High school gave all it had but lost its ball game with Kettle Falls 40 to 4.

The Northport coach sent every boy on the bench into the pitcher's box in a futile effort to hold down Kettle Falls. The game was called at the end of the seventh because the last Northport pitcher—a girl—was getting tired.

ALL SET

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—George E. Rieder came from Baltimore just to work 32 hours at the postoffice where he had worked 37 years ago.

It wasn't nostalgia that brought him back—he needed the 32 hours to complete his probationary period as a government employe to qualify for a job at Baltimore.

DISAPPEARING DENTURE

MILWAUKEE—At dinner, Alfred Mitchell, 74, coughed violently, clutched violently, clutched at his mouth and gasped: "My uppers—they're gone."

Alarmed relatives summoned a rescue squad, which worked for 20 minutes over Mitchell as he coughed intermittently.

At a hospital physicians found the missing plate—in Mitchell's coat pocket. His coughing, apparently caused by a food particle, soon subsided.

FALSE ALARM

OMAHA, Neb.—Detectives sped to the office of Dr. Lee Edwards after a man excitedly told police the doctor had abruptly terminated a telephone conversation with the statement, "I'm being held up."

To the detectives Dr. Edwards explained he merely meant he had no time for further conversation.

WAY BACK IN 1865 THINGS WERE . . . BUT

SILVER CITY, Idaho, May 4.—(AP)—Taking the census in the sage and juniper country of Owyhee county is no soft job.

C. M. Brooks, long-time resident of this ghost mining camp, traveled nearly 3,000 miles by automobile, 16 miles by horseback and walked 100 miles to add up the scattered ranchers, prospectors and sheepherders in the isolated, mountainous area.

At one time Silver City had a population of 5,000. It was the county seat. Idaho's first daily newspaper brought in its news by wire.

But that was in 1865.

Do You Want to Become One of the Many Successful Business Men?

Opportunity Knocking at Your Door

[illegible] successful business men started their climb up the ladder by acquiring one or more formulas of a product, and started by manufacturing them in a small way, then eventually building up this business and becoming a large manufacturer. YOU TOO HAVE THIS SAME OPPORTUNITY: By purchasing this book of a large list of selected formulas, trade secrets, etc., which I have prepared, selecting one or [illegible] manufactured in your home at spare moments at a small cost and selling at a large profit, as your business expands eventually you too are to become one of our large manufacturers. Another problem can be solved for those desiring to cut down the high cost of living and save considerable money each year by making many of these home products for your home use at a small cost, thus a big money saving in your home budget. Remember delay may mean lost opportunity. So write now for this valuable book of formulas. This may mean your fortune, for $1.00. Send cash or money order to: J. W. PRESS SUPPORTS GOVERNOR-ELECT

Convention Votes Unanimously To Aid Jones In Clean-Up

SHREVEPORT, La., May 4.—(AP)—The Louisiana Press association, in closing session here today, unanimously pledged support to Governor-Elect Sam H. Jones and outlined a legislative program for passage and enforcement of laws requiring that government agencies publish a yearly budget and a semi-annual accounting of any money and resources under their control.

The legislative program, outlined in detail, and approved unanimously at the convention, will be presented at the coming session of the legislature.

H. K. Goodwyn of Covington, editor of the St. Tammany Farmer, was elevated from the vice-presidency to the presidency of the association and Horace Mangham of Rayville, as president of the northern division and Howard Fore of Bunkie, as president of the southern division, were named vice-presidents. George T. Goodman of Ponchatoula was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Named to the board of directors besides the officers were Marcel Bienvenu, St. Martinville; John B. Gordon, Houma; Orville E. Priestley, Crowley; W. L. Rountree, Tallulah; C. G. Scott, Winnsboro; Estelle Tannehill, Winnfield; Mrs. C. L. Breazeale, Natchitoches; Edwin Roy, Araby; Dolph Frantz, Shreveport.

The resolution backing Jones expressed the association's "confidence in his sincerity, determination and ability to carry out his plans and policies as promised," and pledged their "sincere and active support to him as governor and to his administration."

The legislative program outlined two types of proposals—rigid enforcement of laws now in effect requiring publication of official proceedings and passage of amendments to certain "publication" laws fixing a penalty for non-publication. The association would set the penalty for non-publication at $25 to $500, 10 days to six months, or both. At present no "publication" laws have any penalty for those disobeying them and in many instances they have not been enforced, the committee reported.

"This is a safeguard to the people of the state which they should have," Major Bruce R. McCoy, field manager of the L. P. A., said. "If only one person reads that account of the proceedings, that is enough to keep the officials from any mishandling of funds or misgovernment."

The association urged enforcement of laws calling for publication of budgets and financial statements by legal procedure, invoking of the citizens' rights to refuse to pay taxes until such statements are published.

The press association pointed to the part which Louisiana newspapers have played in clearing up and exposing political scandals and mismanagement of public funds, declaring that they would fight editorially for the enactment of these proposed measures and for the enforcement of existing statutes.

Robert B. Smith, Virginia Press association manager, principal speaker on the morning program, compared the press to a political party and the advertisers and readers to voters.

"The press has a bright outlook. It is still the principal party and I believe will remain so."

In the principal afternoon address Sam Schwieger, manager of the Arkansas Press association, urged newspapermen to advertise themselves.

"Don't apologize for yourself, your paper or your profession. Newspapermen compliment everyone else but never think of patting themselves on the back. Well, you have to sell yourself in no uncertain terms," Schwieger said.

At the final round-table discussion George T. Goodman led a conference on financial accounting in publishing and Major McCoy and W. G. Jones of Denham Springs were speakers.

Selection of the 1941 convention city was left to the board of directors and the incoming president.

Odd Items In The News

(By Associated Press)

GREASE TIGHTS

ROCHESTER, Ind.—Snow fell and the elephants shivered as Cole Brothers circus gave its first 1940 show under canvas.

Acrobats met the situation by coating themselves with thick layers of grease—a la channel swimmer.

SIX-MONTH YEAR

PITTSBURGH—Energetic Charles D. Delphey, Jr., wants credit for the overtime he's put in at the county jail.

Asking a parole after serving six months of a one to three-year sentence for false pretense, Delphey explained he worked 16 hours daily and added:

"Figuring the average working day of a man at eight hours, I have done a year's work in six months."

County court will hear his petition later.

SCOREKEEPER'S DELIGHT?

KETTLE FALLS, Wash.—Northport High school gave all it had but lost its ball game with Kettle Falls 40 to 4.

The Northport coach sent every boy on the bench into the pitcher's box in a futile effort to hold down Kettle Falls. The game was called at the end of the seventh because the last Northport pitcher—a girl—was getting tired.

ALL SET

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—George E. Rieder came from Baltimore just to work 32 hours at the postoffice where he had worked 37 years ago.

It wasn't nostalgia that brought him back—he needed the 32 hours to complete his probationary period as a government employe to qualify for a job at Baltimore.

DISAPPEARING DENTURE

MILWAUKEE—At dinner, Alfred Mitchell, 74, coughed violently, clutched violently, clutched at his mouth and gasped: "My uppers—they're gone."

Alarmed relatives summoned a rescue squad, which worked for 20 minutes over Mitchell as he coughed intermittently.

At a hospital physicians found the missing plate—in Mitchell's coat pocket. His coughing, apparently caused by a food particle, soon subsided.

FALSE ALARM

OMAHA, Neb.—Detectives sped to the office of Dr. Lee Edwards after a man excitedly told police the doctor had abruptly terminated a telephone conversation with the statement, "I'm being held up."

To the detectives Dr. Edwards explained he merely meant he had no time for further conversation.

WAY BACK IN 1865 THINGS WERE . . . BUT

SILVER CITY, Idaho, May 4.—(AP)—Taking the census in the sage and juniper country of Owyhee county is no soft job.

C. M. Brooks, long-time resident of this ghost mining camp, traveled nearly 3,000 miles by automobile, 16 miles by horseback and walked 100 miles to add up the scattered ranchers, prospectors and sheepherders in the isolated, mountainous area.

At one time Silver City had a population of 5,000. It was the county seat. Idaho's first daily newspaper brought in its news by wire.

But that was in 1865.

Do You Want to Become One of the Many Successful Business Men?

Opportunity Knocking at Your Door

Many of our successful business men started their climb up the ladder by acquiring one or more formulas of a product, and started by manufacturing them in a small way, then eventually building up this business and becoming a large manufacturer. YOU TOO HAVE THIS SAME OPPORTUNITY: By purchasing this book of a large list of selected formulas, trade secrets, etc., which I have prepared, selecting one or more to be manufactured in your home at spare moments at a small cost and selling at a large profit, as your business expands eventually you too are to become one of our large manufacturers. Another problem can be solved for those desiring to cut down the high cost of living and save considerable money each year by making many of these home products for your home use at a small cost, thus a big money saving in your home budget. Remember delay may mean lost opportunity. So write now for this valuable book of formulas. This may mean your fortune, for $1.00. Send cash or money order to: J. W. Tieber Co., 147 Highland Ave., Tonawanda, N. Y. (Can use agents.)

DR. KING HOLDS SERVICES HERE

Series Planned For Coming Week At First Presbyterian Church

A series of evangelistic services beginning Monday and continuing through May 12 will be conducted at the First Presbyterian church by Rev. Charles L. King, pastor of the Houston, Tex., First Presbyterian church.

Rev. King will conduct Sunday services at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., and weekday services at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., except Monday morning and Saturday.

Dr. King recently was the guest minister when the Grace Covenant church of Richmond, Va., celebrated its 25th anniversary.

Dr. King chose for his anniversary sermon text the first verse of the 90th Psalm, "Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations." This text was appropriate for the occasion, as the unbroken history of the church extends over a period of 119 years through the Grace Street church. The Grace Street church was organized in 1821 under the leadership of the Rev. John D. Blair, and was first known as the Shockoe church. The Church of the Covenant was organized in 1871, and in 1915 these two churches were merged under the name of Grace Covenant church, with the late Rev. J. Calvin Stewart, D. D., as the pastor.

Dr. Stewart resigned the pastorate because of declining health in 1918. Rev. King, then a student at Union Theological seminary, supplied the pulpit, was called to the pastorate, and was installed in May, 1919. Dr. King served the Grace Covenant church as its pastor for 13 years before accepting the call to the Houston church in 1932. It was under his leadership that the present church buildings were erected.

The large morning congregation for the anniversary celebration taxed the seating capacity of the church, and an overflow congregation worshiped in the chapel, where a loud speaker had previously been installed. Many persons also listened and worshiped over the radio.

A graduate of Davidson college, Davidson, N. C., Rev. King also received the degree of bachelor of divinity from Union Theological seminary at Richmond, Va., where he was a Hogue Fellow, given for scholarship and leadership.

Veteran Agriculture Head Celebrates 71st Birthday

Dean Among State Officials Is One Of Most Colorful Politicians

By Norman Walker

BATON ROUGE, La., May 4—(AP)—That old roll-top desk in Harry Wilson's office has just been through its annual spring cleaning. But it still remains fairly well piled up.

Dean among state officials, the white-haired veteran commissioner of agriculture and immigration is also one of the state's most colorful politicians. Tomorrow he celebrates his 71st birthday.

Wilson's desk long has been a subject for discussion at the capital—where everyone else has expensive walnut, mahogany or steel streamlined furniture, a battery of telephones, a secretary or two, receptionist and so on.

Seeds, yellowed newspaper clippings, sample bills before congress, notebooks, catalogues, railroad timetables and about everything else you might imagine clutter Wilson's desk. In fact, usually it's so crammed the top can't be rolled down all the way. He writes on the desk's sliding panel.

Beside him Wilson keeps a half-dozen different telephone books, hanging from nails driven into the wall. He always answers his 'phone himself and his office door is invariably open to all.

On the telephone table is the overflow from the old-fashioned roll-top: a half-opened crate of strawberries, stacks of newspapers, crimpled wrapping paper, a pint of syrup.

Clearing out his tiny office a few days ago, Wilson laughed that the job grows more and more difficult every year.

On the Louisiana political scene for 40 years, Wilson won't talk politics for quotation these days. He could tell a lot.

But since his incoming boss, Governor-Elect Sam H. Jones, referred to his department during the recent campaign as a "horse and buggy" agency, Wilson is mum. Elected for a seventh consecutive term, the commissioner feels secure.

A great story-teller, Wilson loves to tell about the days when he worked on the railroad and umpired baseball games. One yarn he tells is hard to believe.

"Back in 1881," he relates, "the tracks from Cairo to New Orleans were five inches wider than those from Cairo to Chicago, which were standard size.

"Well, they decided to widen the tracks south from Cairo to standard size. So after all preparations were made, the men were lined up, hundreds and hundreds of men all along the line. The job was finished in one night, between midnight and five o'clock the next morning."

Wilson stands behind his story.

A great baseball fan even now, Wilson recalls that back in 1900, when he came to the legislature as a representative from his native Tangipahoa parish, he umpired ball games on the old State university campus.

A player in many of the games was a boy working his way through school waiting on tables by the name of Pat Harrison, now the senior United States senator from Mississippi and a national political figure. Harrison was an "awfully good first-baseman," Wilson recalls.

The commissioner still is intrigued with railroad trains.

"When I take a trip," he says, "I always travel by train and I do as much of it as I can. I get out at every stop and go up to take a look at the engine and have a word with the fireman."

Wilson served two terms in the legislature, was elected commissioner of agriculture in 1916 and has been serving in that capacity ever since. He's served under 15 governors during his political career.

A farmer himself, he operates a 50-acre plant at Amite, growing strawberries, cotton, corn and vegetables. He has six children, three boys and three girls, and five grandchildren.

"I've seen a lot of birthdays," Wilson said, commenting on his 71st birthday, "but the older you get the more good common sense you develop."

His rules in politics, he said, are never to "butt in" in another man's political scraps and always to render public service.

Talk about civil service! None of Wilson's employes, except for two or three secretarial workers added in the department during the past couple of years, have worked for him less than 14 years.

One assistant, Millard S. Perkins, has been in the state agriculture department for 45 years. He started at the age of 11 as an office boy. Perkins opens the office every morning at 5:30 the year around because farmers around the state have gotten into the habit of calling the office about this and that before daybreak.

"I have a bad habit of coming down to the office soon after that," Wilson said. "I always get up early myself."

DR. KING HOLDS SERVICES HERE

Series Planned For Coming Week At First Presbyterian Church

A series of evangelistic services beginning Monday and continuing through May 12 will be conducted at the First Presbyterian church by Rev. Charles L. King, pastor of the Houston, Tex., First Presbyterian church.

Rev. King will conduct Sunday services at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., and weekday services at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., except Monday morning and Saturday.

Dr. King recently was the guest minister when the Grace Covenant church of Richmond, Va., celebrated its 25th anniversary.

Dr. King chose for his anniversary sermon text the first verse of the 90th Psalm, "Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations." This text was appropriate for the occasion, as the unbroken history of the church extends over a period of 119 years through the Grace Street church. The Grace Street church was organized in 1821 under the leadership of the Rev. John D. Blair, and was first known as the Shockoe church. The Church of the Covenant was organized in 1871, and in 1915 these two churches were merged under the name of Grace Covenant church, with the late Rev. J. Calvin Stewart, D. D., as the pastor.

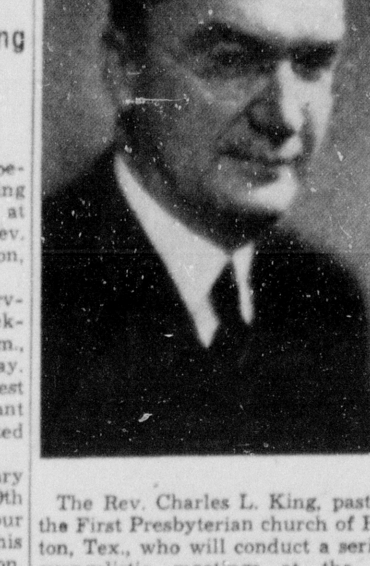
Dr. Stewart resigned the pastorate because of declining health in 1918. Rev. King, then a student at Union Theological seminary, supplied the pulpit, was called to the pastorate, and was installed in May, 1919. Dr. King served the Grace Covenant church as its pastor for 13 years before accepting the call to the Houston church in 1932. It was under his leadership that the present church buildings were erected.

The large morning congregation for the anniversary celebration taxed the seating capacity of the church, and an overflow congregation worshiped in the chapel, where a loud speaker had previously been installed. Many persons also listened and worshiped over the radio.

A graduate of Davidson college, Davidson, N. C., Rev. King also received the degree of bachelor of divinity from Union Theological seminary at Richmond, Va., where he was a Hogue Fellow, given for scholarship and leadership.

Albinism occurs throughout most of the animal kingdom.

EVANGELIST



The Rev. Charles L. King, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Houston, Tex., who will conduct a series of evangelistic meetings at the First Presbyterian church here for one week beginning Monday.

s are, oh sordid thought, only weeks away and all seniors gone into low gear for the home ch. Each of us has a pet ghost ich comes forth from time to time haunt our footsteps, to put a stop fun and make one think of serious things. For seniors that ghost comes in the guise of finals and the ghost is now commencing to walk.

In spite of finals there must be some social life however, so members of the Chacahoula staff of Northeast Junior college met for dinner in the Mirror room of the Frances hotel Wednesday night. The young and lovelies put on summery gowns and the young gallants, looking forward to summer, wore white linens. We glimpsed Barbara McKenzie in a long white taffeta evening coat over a white chiffon gown and a pink rose tucked in her hair. She was lovely to look at.

Sara Frances Hinkle, quite the friendliest person we know and certainly one of the most charming, was trailing a long black chiffon evening gown with a lace scarf worn over her hair in picturesque manner. Mrs. C. C. Colvert, a guest of honor, looked as young and lovely as the co-eds in a pink evening gown with long black velvet coat.

Hot off the griddle this morning is the news of Virginia Faulk's engagement. She is a member of the senior class at the University of Alabama and is torn between conflicting emotions—whether to devote all her time to making plans for her wedding in June or to let the ghost of finals get the upper hand.

The large chichi luncheon of last week was on the roof of the Virginia hotel where Frances Keenan entertained for Mrs. C. G. Hughes of Wichita Falls, Tex., and Mrs. R. H. Frost, a lovely newcomer. It was a delightful affair, quite above the average as Frances trotted out her beautiful possessions—bits of Dresden china to harmonize with the flowers, crystal, hobnailed glasses for the mint juleps and ornate epergnes from which overflowed superb white peonies, pink roses and blue corn flowers.

Billy Wilson's fresh, lovely face, beamed above the lighted candle she carried from table to table on a cigarette tray. She was wearing a white sharkskin model with navy blue accessories including a wide brimmed blue straw, off the face, hat.

Nothing short of broken legs would have kept one way away from the Victory dinner at the Frances hotel Thursday night. Some in festive mood, went just for the love of mingling with their friends. Others went to see what Anna Gray Noe was wearing and others went from a sheer sense of duty to two Louisiana patriots, Sam Jones and James A. Noe. Whatever the motive that prompted them to go, it was a grand and glorious occasion with everyone in excellent spirits and exchanging pleasantries down the full length of the flower banked tables.

If you just prick the surface of things in Monroe up wells the most interesting material. For instance members of Grace church guild conceived the idea of exhibiting old quilts in connection with their silver tea in the home of Cherry Bernstein next Tuesday. Immediately they were besieged with offers from friends to loan them their cherished possession. One quilt made in 1791 by the great-great aunt of Mrs. W. C. Bridges will be viewed with more than passing interest. The history of this quilt dates back to the days of the war between the states. It was wrapped around the family silver, placed in a steel trunk and sunk in the Alabama river for the duration of the war. Thomas Jefferson once slept under this quilt. Another quilt, to be exhibited was in the dower box of the late V. C. Barringer's grandmother. It is more than 100 years old.

Mrs. A. L. Smith spent last week-end in New Orleans dodging rain drops on Royal street. She was looking for an antique dresser to match her handsome four post bed and chest of drawers. She found just what she wanted and it is certainly beautiful with marble top and tall mirror set in a hand carved frame.

Miss Myers Guest Of Honor At Tea

One of the loveliest compliments shown Miss Carolyn Myers before her marriage last week, was the tea in the home of Mrs. P. A. Poag, with Mrs. James Cox and Miss Beverly Russell, hostesses.

The spacious reception suite was adorned with pink roses overflowing from immense urns placed in the background and forming a colorful setting for the beautifully gowned hostesses and their guest of honor.

The dining room was candlelit and fragrant with perfume of myriad roses banking the buffet and mantle. The tea table overlaid with lace had for central decor a handsome epergne arranged in four teirs and overflowing with superb pink roses. Hurricane shades concealed the tall pink tapers at the four corners.

Miss Myers wore on this occasion a smart handsome lace model with blouse, with long black skirt and a girdle of cerise. Miss Russell was wearing flame chiffon and a corsage of Talisman roses and Mrs. Cox was wearing a white taffeta model with hoop skirt and corsage of crimson roses.

Mrs. J. W. Myers, mother of the guest of honor, assisting in receiving, wore a black crepe model with corsage of crimson roses. Mrs. Poag wore a black lace model and Mrs. C. R. Russel wore a black and white marquisette model with corsage of red roses.

A coterie of tea girls, Miss Anna Lee Russell, Miss Kathleen Myers and Miss Sara Talbert, passed the silver trays laden with delicious confections.

Mrs. Aubrey Boyd presided at the punch bowl, concealed in a mound of roses and fern.

More than seventy-five guests called durng the receiving hours.

HOOKED RUG ENTHUSIASTS . . .

Mrs. George Lester, to the right, is displaying her hooked rug collection to an authority on this subject, Miss Kappy Neal of Little Rock, who spent the day recently in the Lester home where she lectured on the subject of hooked rugs and exhibited several handsome museum pieces. Mrs. Lester, who started to hook rugs as a hobby, now finds it a thriving business with classes meeting at her home where she gives instruction in this form of rug making that is now sweeping the country.

Bono Nostrorum Club Has Meeting

Mrs. M. K. McConnell, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Lida Taylor, extended the courtesies of her home to members of the Bono Nostrorum club for their April meeting. Mrs. McConnell, president, presided during the business session.

A communication from the extension department of L. S. U. was read concerning cooperation of club members in the use of cotton goods and the observance of Cotton Week, May 17-25. In response to this the club members agreed to each wearing a new cotton frock to the May meeting.

Mrs. G. W. Humble, committee chairman of safety, gave some splendid ideas in fire prevention and safe driving. Mrs. W. C. Baker, chairman of international relations, reviewed some facts concerning life and works of outstanding artists of Mexico, Argentine and Brazil.

The program subject, "Landscaping 1865-1895," was presented in an interesting manner by Mrs. S. B. Carraway and Miss Ethel Watson. Mrs. Carraway réviewed the life and works of George Inness, declared to be the greatest of American landscape artists. Miss Watson's paper dealt with Homer Dodge Martin, one of the three greatest landscape artists; Winslow Homer, William Gladney Bunce and Charles Harold Davis. Both illustrated their talks with beautiful reproductions of the artists' works.

The meeting was concluded with the reading of the club collect. A social hour followed and Mrs. McConnell and Mrs. Taylor served ice cream and cake to the following club members: Mrs. W. C. Baker, Mrs. E. T. Lee, Mrs. E. C. Harper, Mrs. E. D. Baker, Mrs. W. E. Hixon, Mrs. C. N. Underwood, Mrs. G. W. Humble, Mrs. M. D. McConnell, Mrs. B. N. Hixon, Mrs. E. E. Randall, Mrs. J. W. DeMoss, Mrs. J. H. Brunson, Mrs. S. B. Carraway, Mrs. S. H. Hixon, Misses Kate Talbert, Virgie Evans and Miss Ethel Watson.

Miss Elizabeth Gilfoil Marries George McGuire

Wedding Of Interest Throughout This Section Solemnized At St. Agnes Church At Tallulah

A wedding of interest throughout this section was solemnized at St. Agnes Catholic church, in Tallulah, April 27, when Miss Elizabeth Scott Gilfoil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Riley Gilfoil, and Mr. George Benedict McGuire, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. McGuire, of Union, N. J., were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Father R. H. DeVriendt of Minden and Father Robert M. Maure was celebrant of the mass.

The altar was banked with bridal wreath and white peonies and the side altars banked with pink roses. Mrs. Myles presided at the organ, playing Lohengrin's wedding march for the processional and Mendelssohn's as the recessional. She accompanied Miss Katherine Landry of Baton Rouge, who sang Ave Maria by Schubert, Sanctus by Gounod and two hymns, "O Sacred Heart, O Love Divine" and "O Lord, I Am Not Worthy."

Miss Eula Gilfoil, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a pink net model fashioned with sheered bodice, sweetheart neckline, puffed sleeves and full skirt. Her leghorn picture hat was trimmed with pink and blue ribbon streamers and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of Dutch blue iris and pink sweetpeas. The bridesmaids, Mrs. James H. Gilfoil, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Alicia Armshaw of Baton Rouge, wore dresses of blue net models similar to that of the maid of honor. They wore leghorn hats and carried old-fashioned bouquets of pink sweetpeas. The flower girl, Suzanne Burgoyne, cousin of the bride, wore a ruffled gown of pink net with a wreath of pink flowers on her bead and carried a miniature replica of the maid of honor's bouquet. The ring bearer, little J. Field Montgomery, Jr., the bride's cousin, wore a white satin suit and carried a white satin pillow on which rested the ring in the heart of a rose.

The bride, walking with her father, wore an exquisite gown of white marquisette with close-fitting bodice, a sweetheart neckline, high puffed sleeves ending in points over the hands and caught at the wrist with small buttons. The full skirt, which ended in a long train, was elaborately trimmed with lace. She wore a diamond and pearl lavaliere and gold chain given to her mother by her father shortly after their marriage. Her finger tip veil of illusion was caught to the hair with a wreath of orange blossoms and lilies of the valley. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley from which fell ribbon streamers tied with lilies of the valley.

The bridegroom had as his best man his brother, Edward L. McGuire of Union, N. J. The groomsmen were James H. Gilfoil and George S. Gilfoil, brothers of the bride, and the ushers were John Edward Hugheston and James Henry Gilfoil of Lake Providence, the bride's cousins. The bride's mother wore a smart model of gray crepe and lace with accessories of rose and navy. The bridegroom's mother wore green crepe and lace with black accessories. Each wore an orchid corsage.

Immediately after the ceremony, breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. G. S. Hopkins and Mrs. J. Field Montgomery poured tea and coffee from the handsome silver services gracing the breakfast table. Centering the table was a tiered wedding cake decorated with pink and blue surmounted with a miniature bride and groom. At either end of the table were tall white tapers in silver candelabra.

The bride changed her wedding attire for a smart tailleur of rose color with navy accessories and a coat of light blue, trimmed with gray fox fur. The couple left for a wedding trip to New Jersey, returning later to Baton Rouge, where they will make their home until Mr. McGuire completes his work with the Standard Oil company. They will make their future home in New Jersey.

Little Theater Plans Play Tuesday

The Monroe Little Theater will ring down the curtain on one of the most successful seasons in its history with the presentation of "The Distaff Side," by John Van Druten, on Tuesday night.

The play deals with the women of one family, women so unlike that they set one another off startlingly. There is the tart, querulous old Mrs. Venables; and there are her three daughters: Nellie, who is married and whose life has slipped away from her in the provinces; Liz, who is divorced and whose life has been brilliant and unconventional on the continent; and Evie, who is a widow and whose life has been spent being happy through others—her husband, her children, her friends. Evio's young daughter, Alex, is the fifth woman in the family, and the drama of "The Distaff Side" centers chiefly in her and her two suitors who represent such different things. The family life of these people is extraordinarily human, and it is Evie that it resolves around, Evie who lights it up.

Louis Guerriero, director, is rehearsing an exceptional cast in the play's thirteen roles. Sue Hefley, a longtime favorite with local audiences, plays her grandest role as Evie. Kathleen Miller, who scored a tremendous hit in "Night Must Fall," plays Liz. Lydia Nichols played a small part in that same play and is cast now as Miss Spicer, companion to Mrs. Venables, played by Eleona Brinsmade. Howard Foggin, who made his successful debut in "Outward Bound," plays Toby Chegweddin, one of Alex's suitors. From the cast of "Goodbye Again" come Tommy Hayes to play Gillie, and John Daniel to play Christopher Venables.

Making their initial appearance on the local stage will be Dorothy Duncan as Alex, Jo Coates as Nellie, Zach Daughtry as Roland, Eleanor Tatum as Theresa Venables and Charles Chapman as Charles Hubbard.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Clark have returned from a visit in New Orleans, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McCarty.

Carol Scott Valdes Hostess At Party

The second birthday anniversary of Carol Scott Valdes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Valdes, was a happy day not only for the little celebrant but for her friends who were invited to the Valdes home to share the pleasures.

Carol Scott wore one of her birthday gifts, a party frock of yellow georgette with blue ribbon sash and an old-fashioned nosegay presented to her by a little friend.

Games were introduced for the amusement of the guests and resulted in Richard Ringheim and Billy Young, Terrie Sue Tidwell and Frances Guthrie receiving the prizes.

Boxes of candies containing favors were presented to each guest.

Mrs. Valdes was assisted by Mrs. George Tidwell, Mrs. Harold Breard, Mrs. Baskin Wright and Mrs. Mark Ringheim.

Mrs. Olan Black Entertains Club

An all day outing at camp Ki-Ro-Li was an enjoyable experience for members of the Junior Gavel club who were entertained on this occasion by Mrs. Olan Black.

The program was presented out of doors with Mrs. J. Norman Coon entertaining with dramatic readings. Mrs. John Naylor gave an excellent review of "Portrait of Jennie" by Robert Nathan.

A distinct feature of the days pleasures was the luncheon served picnic fashion under the giant pines.

The following club members and guests were present:

ATTENTION, LADIES!

I'm a Cook

I have a vital message to deliver to you. As you know all of you want to look pretty, and therefore, I have made a study how to help you.

When you go to a drug store to select your cosmetics and when you go to the beauty shop you spend from 45 minutes to 2 hours and 30 minutes in each respectively. But when you go to the restaurant you order a sandwich and a soft drink and before I can say Jack Rabbit you have swallowed it, which takes about 3 minutes. This I view with alarm.

To diagnose your problems eat three meals a day, take 30 minutes at least for each meal and always when you have finished eating, relax at the table for 5 minutes. Substantial food brings you natural health and health is beauty.

I will give you another thought: Everything we plant we use fertilizer to help in this plant's growth. Why not give our bodies the same consideration and see what proper foods will do for us.

We specialize in preparing foods that will tempt as well as nourish. We have delicious meals prepared in our Cafeteria. Give your family a treat—eat with us.

A communication from the extension department of L. S. U. was read concerning cooperation of club members in the use of cotton goods and the observance of Cotton Week, May 17-25. In response to this the club members agreed to each wearing a new cotton frock to the May meeting.

Mrs. G. W. Humble, committee chairman of safety, gave some splendid ideas in fire prevention and safe driving. Mrs. W. C. Baker, chairman of international relations, reviewed some facts concerning life and works of outstanding artists of Mexico, Argentine and Brazil.

The program subject, "Landscaping 1865-1895," was presented in an interesting manner by Mrs. S. B. Carraway and Miss Ethel Watson. Mrs. Carraway reviewed the life and works of George Inness, declared to be the greatest of American landscape artists. Miss Watson's paper dealt with Homer Dodge Martin, one of the three greatest landscape artists; Winslow Homer, William Gladney Bunce and Charles Harold Davis. Both illustrated their talks with beautiful reproductions of the artists' works.

The meeting was concluded with the reading of the club collect. A social hour followed and Mrs. McConnell and Mrs. Taylor served ice cream and cake to the following club members: Mrs. W. C. Baker, Mrs. E. T. Lee, Mrs. E. C. Harper, Mrs. E. D. Baker, Mrs. W. E. Hixon, Mrs. C. N. Underwood, Mrs. G. W. Humble, Mrs. M. D. McConnell, Mrs. B. N. Hixon, Mrs. E. E. Randall, Mrs. J. W. DeMoss, Mrs. J. H. Brunson, Mrs. S. B. Carraway, Mrs. S. H. Hixon, Misses Kate Talbert, Virgie Evans and Miss Ethel Watson.

Miss Elizabeth Gilfoil Marries George McGuire

Wedding Of Interest Throughout This Section Solemnized At St. Agnes Church At Tallulah

A wedding of interest throughout this section was solemnized at St. Agnes Catholic church, in Tallulah, April 27, when Miss Elizabeth Scott Gilfoil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Riley Gilfoil, and Mr. George Benedict McGuire, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. McGuire, of Union, N. J., were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Father R. H. DeVriendt of Minden and Father Robert M. Maure was celebrant of the mass.

The altar was banked with bridal wreath and white peonies and the side altars banked with pink roses. Mrs. Myles presided at the organ, playing Lohengrin's wedding march for the processional and Mendelssohn's as the recessional. She accompanied Miss Katherine Landry of Baton Rouge, who sang Ave Maria by Schubert, Sanctus by Gounod and two hymns, "O Sacred Heart, O Love Divine" and "O Lord, I Am Not Worthy."

Miss Eula Gilfoil, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a pink net model fashioned with sheered bodice, sweetheart neckline, puffed sleeves and full skirt. Her leghorn picture hat was trimmed with pink and blue ribbon streamers and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of Dutch blue iris and pink sweetpeas. The bridesmaids, Mrs. James H. Gilfoil, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Alicia Armshaw of Baton Rouge, wore dresses of blue net models similar to that of the maid of honor. They wore leghorn hats and carried old-fashioned bouquets of pink sweetpeas. The flower girl, Suzanne Burgoyne, cousin of the bride, wore a ruffled gown of pink net with a wreath of pink flowers on her head and carried a miniature replica of the maid of honor's bouquet. The ring bearer, little J. Field Montgomery, Jr., the bride's cousin, wore a white satin suit and carried a white satin pillow on which rested the ring in the heart of a rose.

The bride, walking with her father, wore an exquisite gown of white marquisette with close-fitting bodice, a sweetheart neckline, high puffed sleeves ending in points over the hands and caught at the wrist with small buttons. The full skirt, which ended in a long train, was elaborately trimmed with lace. She wore a diamond and pearl lavaliere and gold chain given to her mother by her father shortly after their marriage. Her finger tip veil of illusion was caught to the hair with a wreath of orange blossoms and lilies of the valley. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley from which fell ribbon streamers tied with lilies of the valley.

The bridegroom had as his best man his brother, Edward L. McGuire of Union, N. J. The groomsmen were James H. Gilfoil and George S. Gilfoil, brothers of the bride, and the ushers were John Edward Hugheston and James Henry Gilfoil of Lake Providence, the bride's cousins. The bride's mother wore a smart model of gray crepe and lace with accessories of rose and navy. The bridegroom's mother wore green crepe and lace with black accessories. Each wore an orchid corsage.

Immediately after the ceremony, breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. G. S. Hopkins and Mrs. J. Field Montgomery poured tea and coffee from the handsome silver services gracing the breakfast table. Centering the table was a tiered wedding cake decorated with pink and blue surmounted with a miniature bride and groom. At either end of the table were tall white tapers in silver candelabra.

The bride changed her wedding attire for a smart tailleur of rose color with navy accessories and a coat of light blue, trimmed with gray fox fur. The couple left for a wedding trip to New Jersey, returning later to Baton Rouge, where they will make their home until Mr. McGuire completes his work with the Standard Oil company. They will make their future home in New Jersey.

Little Theater Plans Play Tuesday

The Monroe Little Theater will ring down the curtain on one of the most successful seasons in its history with the presentation of "The Distaff Side," by John Van Druten, on Tuesday night.

The play deals with the women of one family, women so unlike that they set one another off startlingly. There is the tart, querulous old Mrs. Venables; and there are her three daughters: Nellie, who is married and whose life has slipped away from her in the provinces; Liz, who is divorced and whose life has been brilliant and unconventional on the continent; and Evie, who is a widow and whose life has been spent being happy through others—her husband, her children, her friends. Evio's young daughter, Alex, is the fifth woman in the family, and the drama of "The Distaff Side" centers chiefly in her and her two suitors who represent such different things. The family life of these people is extraordinarily human, and it is Evie that it resolves around, Evie who lights it up.

Louis Guerriero, director, is rehearsing an exceptional cast in the play's thirteen roles. Sue Hefley, a longtime favorite with local audiences, plays her grandest role as Evie. Kathleen Miller, who scored a tremendous hit in "Night Must Fall," plays Liz. Lydia Nichols played a small part in that same play and is cast now as Miss Spicer, companion to Mrs. Venables, played by Eleona Brinsmade. Howard Foggin, who made his successful debut in "Outward Bound," plays Toby Chegweddin, one of Alex's suitors. From the cast of "Goodbye Again" come Tommy Hayes to play Gillie, and John Daniel to play Christopher Venables.

Making their initial appearance on the local stage will be Dorothy Duncan as Alex, Jo Coates as Nellie, Zach Daughtry as Roland, Eleanor Tatum as Theresa Venables and Charles Chapman as Charles Hubbard.

Carol Scott Valdes Hostess At Party

The second birthday anniversary of Carol Scott Valdes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Valdes, was a happy day not only for the little celebrant but for her friends who were invited to the Valdes home to share the pleasures.

Carol Scott wore one of her birthday gifts, a party frock of yellow georgette with blue ribbon sash and an old-fashioned nosegay presented to her by a little friend.

Games were introduced for the amusement of the guests and resulted in Richard Ringheim and Billy Young, Terrie Sue Tidwell and Frances Guthrie receiving the prizes.

Boxes of candies containing favors were presented to each guest.

Mrs. Valdes was assisted by Mrs. George Tidwell, Mrs. Harold Breard, Mrs. Baskin Wright and Mrs. Mark Ringheim.

Mrs. Olan Black Entertains Club

An all day outing at camp Ki-Ro-Li was an enjoyable experience for members of the Junior Gavel club who were entertained on this occasion by Mrs. Olan Black.

The program was presented out of doors with Mrs. J. Norman Coon entertaining with dramatic readings. Mrs. John Naylor gave an excellent review of "Portrait of Jennie" by Robert Nathan.

A distinct feature of the days pleasures was the luncheon served picnic fashion under the giant pines.

The following club members and guests were present:

ATTENTION, LADIES!

I'm a Cook

I have a vital message to deliver to you. As you know all of you want to look pretty, and therefore, I have made a study how to help you.
When you go to a drug store to select your cosmetics and when you go to the beauty shop you spend from 45 minutes to 2 hours and 30 minutes in each respectively. But when you go to the restaurant you order a sandwich and a soft drink and before I can say Jack Rabbit you have swallowed it, which takes about 3 minutes. This I view with alarm.
To diagnose your problems eat three meals a day, take 30 minutes at least for each meal and always when you have finished eating, relax at the table for 5 minutes. Substantial food brings you natural health and health is beauty.
I will give you another thought: Everything we plant we use fertilizer to help in this plant's growth. Why not give our bodies the same consideration and see what proper foods will do for us.
We specialize in preparing foods that will tempt as well as nourish. We have delicious meals prepared in our Cafeteria. Give your family a treat—eat with us.

Literary Club Hears Timely Talk

Members of the Monroe Literary club enjoyed the hospitality extended by Mrs. J. R. Roark in her home on the west side.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. R. L. Ross. The roll was answered by each member who responded with "Why I'm Thankful I Live in America."

Miss Beulah Doerr delivered a constructive discourse on the current problem confronting congress today—the arms embargo. In view of the stand for peace which women's clubs all over the nation are talking today, the talk was particularly timely.

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, guest of the club, spoke on "Club Ethics."

A social hour was enjoyed and delicious refreshments were served to the following:

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Mrs. A. B. Colmer, Mrs. Sybil Lee, Mrs. Floyd Matthews, Mrs. S. E. Morris, Mrs. H. A. Scott, Mrs. Roark, Mrs. D. N. Barron, Miss Beulah Doerr, Mrs. R. P. McKay, Mrs. P. E. Massey, Mrs. R. L. Ross, Mrs. R. E. Wilson.

Piano Students To Compete Here

Piano pupils of Monroe and vicinity will play here for honors in the seventh national piano playing auditions, sponsored by the Monroe chapter of the National Guild of Piano Teachers in a three day meet beginning May 23, it was announced by Mrs. Rowena Goss, general chairman.

Miss Elizabeth Gest, of Philadelphia, Pa., who is a pianist-teacher of wide reputation, will come here in the capacity of judge. Several hundred student pianists from this city and a score of surrounding towns have enrolled for the event.

The local affair will be a part of the countrywide movement sponsored annually by the Guild to set up definite goals with definite rewards for the piano students from coast to coast as inducement toward deeper study of artistic piano playing. More than 10,000 in 90 music centers from Boston to Los Angeles will participate.

In the national piano tourney the goals which entrants strive to attain are placed upon the district, state, or the national honor rolls for 1940. The names of all winners will be published in the Guild yearbook and each will be issued by the Guild a certificate of honor showing his individual achievement.

Mrs. Pedigo Hostess To Welcome Branch

Antiques, fine embroidery work, hooked rugs and odd collections were on display Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Clyde R. Pedigo, 117 Pargoud drive, where members of the Welcome Branch Book club met for their hobby exhibit. Miss Ivo Wilson and Mrs. Joseph Winkler, Jr., served as co-hostesses.

"A hobby is something to which we flee when we are tired of everything and everyone and everyone is tired of us," said Mrs. V. S. Garnett, director of the hobby exhibit. Mrs. Garnett called attention to a few striking hobbies: handmade silverware exhibited by Mrs. Harry Moore; a collection of pitchers collection by Mrs. Zell Smith; a collection of antiques by Mrs. E. C. Gibson, in which was a prized copper luster pitcher; and a collection of antique oddities by Mrs. M. O. Young, including an old music box from Switzerland. Mrs. Garnett called on Mrs. J. R. White, who collects and writes poems for a hobby, to read one of her poems, "Sacred Spring," a beautiful tribute to her deceased mother.

Mrs. M. R. Hausherr added to the interest shown in the exhibition with a short discussion of hobbies, during which she passed around pictures of unique collections. Mrs. Hausherr read entertaining excerpts from "Health From My Hobby," an article by Peg Bemiss, and from "Hobbies for Everybody," edited by Ruth Lampland.

Mrs. Zell Smith, president, conducted the business meeting during which three new members were elected: Mrs. T. E. Hampton, Mrs. A. E. Loyd, and Mrs. Adair Smith. Dr. Frost, who is connected with the Cooley sanatorium, made a brief talk on the prevention and cure of tuberculosis. Reports from the following committee and department chairmen were heard: Mrs. J. R. White, library commission, who announced that twenty-five new books were being added to the library sponsored by the club at the Cooley sanatorium; Mrs. Fink, department of legislation; Mrs. J. Norman Coon, program committee; and Miss Ivo Wilson, department of fine arts. Miss Wilson and Mrs. Clyde R. Pedigo sang several folk songs and the club joined them in singing the tone-poem, "Finlandia," by Jean Sibelius.

At the suggestion of Mrs. Charles Swain, the club voted to sponsor a new garden club, to be organized by the following committee: Mrs. Charles Swain, chairman; Mrs. Henson Coon; Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. A. S. Gunter and Mrs. V. S. Garnett.

Refreshments were served to 43 members and five visitors, as follows: Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. Harvey Callender, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. D. H. Duncan, Mrs. W. C. Ekholm, Mrs. J. T. Eubank, Mrs. W. C. Faulk, Mrs. George Fink, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. Ralph Gibson, Mrs. J. H. Gorman, Mrs. A. S. Gunter, Mrs. M. R. Hausherr, Mrs. J. S. Henderson, Mrs. J. G. Hicks, Mrs. G. D. Holland, Mrs. J. E. Kersh, Mrs. C. M. Koontz, Mrs. E. E. Lawson, Mrs. L. R. Ledbetter, Mrs. A. E. Loyd, Mrs. Harry Moore, Mrs. B. M. Murphy, Mrs. Clyde R. Pedigo, Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. W. E. Sandel, Mrs. T. H. Scott, Mrs. Dean Selig, Mrs. Zell Smith, Mrs. Albert Speer, Mrs. Charles Swain, Mrs. J. R. White, Mrs. John L. Whitfield, Mrs. Joseph Winkler, Jr., Miss Ivo Wilson, Mrs. Paul Wright, Mrs. C. A. Young, and Mrs. M. O. Young. Visitors were: Mrs. Louis Hullum, president of the Twentieth Century Book club; Miss Gertrude Feagan of Philadelphia; Miss Charles Morris; Mrs. R. O. Ware, and Mrs. H. H. Gudger.

Chacahoula Staff Has Dinner Party

Members of the Chacahoula staff considered the completion of the year book of sufficient importance to rate a dinner party so they gathered around the festive board in the Mirror room of the Frances hotel, Wednesday night, with Charles Regan, editor of the year book, presiding.

Flowers and candlelight created a decorative setting for the young ladies in their evening gowns and their escorts in white linens.

The place cards, reminiscent of the hard work of the past few months in editing the year books, were quills and paste board ink wells. The menu was printed on scrolls placed at each cover.

The long dinner table was adorned with a low plaque of Shasta daisies with tall candles burning in their midst.

Each course of the delicious four course dinner was interspersed with musical numbers. Miss Jane Humphries entertained with several marimba numbers and Miss Frances Smith sang several popular song numbers.

An interesting feature of the evening was the reading of bits of gossip concerning everyone present, from a book delivered to Miss Gloria Hodge by special messenger.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the handsome white leather bound year books presented to each member of the staff as follows: Charles Reagan, Virginia Brown, Ray Maynor, Jane Shear, Sara Frances Hinkle, Barbara McKenzie, Lucille Pugh, Gloria Hodge, Lem McCoy, Dorothy Horton, Henry Hoester, Sara Frances Strong, Fred Hudson, Louise Sanderson, Patsy Slack, Frances Smith, Jane Humphries, Hubert Newport, Byron Grigsby, and Mrs. Younse, the sponsor.

Guests were: James Russell, editor of the Pow Wow, Roger Larsen, business manager, Dean and Mrs. C. C. Colvert, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Hamner, Mr. and Mrs. James Malone, Miss Louise Grey, Mr. A. B. Pitts and Mr. Durwood Griffin.

Piano Students To Compete Here

Piano pupils of Monroe and vicinity will play here for honors in the seventh national piano playing auditions, sponsored by the Monroe chapter of the National Guild of Piano Teachers in a three day meet beginning May 23, it was announced by Mrs. Rowena Goss, general chairman.

Miss Elizabeth Gest, of Philadelphia, Pa., who is a pianist-teacher of wide reputation, will come here in the capacity of judge. Several hundred student pianists from this city and a score of surrounding towns have enrolled for the event.

The local affair will be a part of the countrywide movement sponsored annually by the Guild to set up definite goals with definite rewards for the piano students from coast to coast as inducement toward deeper study of artistic piano playing. More than 10,000 in 90 music centers from Boston to Los Angeles will participate.

In the national piano tourney the goals which entrants strive to attain are placed upon the district, state, or the national honor rolls for 1940. The names of all winners will be published in the Guild yearbook and each will be issued by the Guild a certificate of honor showing his individual achievement.

Mrs. Pedigo Hostess To Welcome Branch

Antiques, fine embroidery work, hooked rugs and odd collections were on display Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Clyde R. Pedigo, 117 Pargoud drive, where members of the Welcome Branch Book club met for their hobby exhibit. Miss Ivo Wilson and Mrs. Joseph Winkler, Jr., served as co-hostesses.

"A hobby is something to which we flee when we are tired of everything and everyone and everyone is tired of us," said Mrs. V. S. Garnett, director of the hobby exhibit. Mrs. Garnett called attention to a few striking hobbies: handmade silverware exhibited by Mrs. Harry Moore; a collection of pitchers collection by Mrs. Zell Smith; a collection of antiques by Mrs. E. C. Gibson, in which was a prized copper luster pitcher; and a collection of antique oddities by Mrs. M. O. Young, including an old music box from Switzerland. Mrs. Garnett called on Mrs. J. R. White, who collects and writes poems for a hobby, to read one of her poems, "Sacred Spring," a beautiful tribute to her deceased mother.

Mrs. M. R. Hausherr added to the interest shown in the exhibition with a short discussion of hobbies, during which she passed around pictures of unique collections. Mrs. Hausherr read entertaining excerpts from "Health From My Hobby," an article by Peg Bemiss, and from "Hobbies for Everybody," edited by Ruth Lampland.

Mrs. Zell Smith, president, conducted the business meeting during which three new members were elected: Mrs. T. E. Hampton, Mrs. A. E. Loyd, and Mrs. Adair Smith. Dr. Frost, who is connected with the Cooley sanatorium, made a brief talk on the prevention and cure of tuberculosis. Reports from the following committee and department chairmen were heard: Mrs. J. R. White, library commission, who announced that twenty-five new books were being added to the library sponsored by the club at the Cooley sanatorium; Mrs. Fink, department of legislation; Mrs. J. Norman Coon, program committee; and Miss Ivo Wilson, department of fine arts. Miss Wilson and Mrs. Clyde R. Pedigo sang several folk songs and the club joined them in singing the tone-poem, "Finlandia," by Jean Sibelius.

At the suggestion of Mrs. Charles Swain, the club voted to sponsor a new garden club, to be organized by the following committee: Mrs. Charles Swain, chairman; Mrs. Henson Coon; Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. A. S. Gunter and Mrs. V. S. Garnett.

Refreshments were served to 43 members and five visitors, as follows: Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. Harvey Callender, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. D. H. Duncan, Mrs. W. C. Ekholm, Mrs. J. T. Eubank, Mrs. W. C. Faulk, Mrs. George Fink, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. Ralph Gibson, Mrs. J. H. Gorman, Mrs. A. S. Gunter, Mrs. M. R. Hausherr, Mrs. J. S. Henderson, Mrs. J. G. Hicks, Mrs. G. D. Holland, Mrs. J. E. Kersh, Mrs. C. M. Koontz, Mrs. E. E. Lawson, Mrs. L. R. Ledbetter, Mrs. A. E. Loyd, Mrs. Harry Moore, Mrs. B. M. Murphy, Mrs. Clyde R. Pedigo, Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. W. E. Sandel, Mrs. T. H. Scott, Mrs. Dean Selig, Mrs. Zell Smith, Mrs. Albert Speer, Mrs. Charles Swain, Mrs. J. R. White, Mrs. John L. Whitfield, Mrs. Joseph Winkler, Jr., Miss Ivo Wilson, Mrs. Paul Wright, Mrs. C. A. Young, and Mrs. M. O. Young. Visitors were: Mrs. Louis Hullum, president of the Twentieth Century Book club; Miss Gertrude Feagan of Philadelphia; Miss Charles Morris; Mrs. R. O. Ware, and Mrs. H. H. Gudger.

Chacahoula Staff Has Dinner Party

Members of the Chacahoula staff considered the completion of the year book of sufficient importance to rate a dinner party so they gathered around the festive board in the Mirror room of the Frances hotel, Wednesday night, with Charles Regan, editor of the year book, presiding.

Flowers and candlelight created a decorative setting for the young ladies in their evening gowns and their escorts in white linens.

The place cards, reminiscent of the hard work of the past few months in editing the year books, were quills and paste board ink wells. The menu was printed on scrolls placed at each cover.

The long dinner table was adorned with a low plaque of Shasta daisies with tall candles burning in their midst.

Each course of the delicious four course dinner was interspersed with musical numbers. Miss Jane Humphries entertained with several marimba numbers and Miss Frances Smith sang several popular song numbers.

An interesting feature of the evening was the reading of bits of gossip concerning everyone present, from a book delivered to Miss Gloria Hodge by special messenger.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the handsome white leather bound year books presented to each member of the staff as follows: Charles Reagan, Virginia Brown, Ray Maynor, Jane Shear, Sara Frances Hinkle, Barbara McKenzie, Lucille Pugh, Gloria Hodge, Lem McCoy, Dorothy Horton, Henry Hoester, Sara Frances Strong, Fred Hudson, Louise Sanderson, Patsy Slack, Frances Smith, Jane Humphries, Hubert Newport, Byron Grigsby, and Mrs. Younse, the sponsor.

Guests were: James Russell, editor of the Pow Wow, Roger Larsen, business manager, Dean and Mrs. C. C. Colvert, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Hamner, Mr. and Mrs. James Malone, Miss Louise Grey, Mr. A. B. Pitts and Mr. Durwood Griffin.

for use in child welfare work.

The book reviews sponsored by the council were most successful, it was reported by Mrs. Elmer Richards, chairman, and Mrs. A. E. Montgomery, state goals chairman. A total of 225 persons were in attendance for the seven reviews which were conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth McCranie. Schools completing the reviews were Georgia Tucker, Neville High school, Ouachita Parish High school and St. Matthew's Parochial school.

Mrs. Keller announced that schools desiring the T. B. film should notify Miss Bernice Wright.

Mrs. M. P. Kutz, chairman, reported that the summer roundup program has been under way since April 23. Summer roundup chairmen are asked to register with Mrs. J. B. Best, state chairman, at Shreveport, before May 15. Throughout the summer the P.-T. A. will endeavor to correct children's defects with the aid of the following: Junior Charity league, Ouachita Parish Health board, Ouachita Parish Medical society, St. Frances sanitarium, Ouachita Parish Public Welfare department, dentists of Monroe and the Twin City Community Chest.

Mrs. Keller expressed her appreciation to the officers, chairmen and committees of the council, all of whom contributed to the success of last year's program. She expressed confidence that the council would continue to receive such splendid co-operation.

Mrs. Mary Mullis addressed the council meeting, stating in part:

"You are so fortunate to have a splendid leader, Mrs. Keller, and she has worked so hard, you all have worked and done a splendid job. I feel that, the most hopeful work in the world, is that which is done with and for children.

"I want to tell you something about your Community Chest, which I hope you already know—but, it is something I hope you will remember to pass on to your friends. Your Twin City Community Chest office is located in the Virginia hotel.

"The agencies affiliated with the chest are as follows: Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Colored Community Welfare, Crippled Children association, Home of the Good Samaritan, Monroe Maternity Clinic, Salvation Army, Y. W. C. A., West Monroe Welfare and your Twin Cities P.-T. A. council and Child's Welfare clinic.

"I wish to talk to you on a Community Chest, the advantages of a Community Chest, the way the subscriber or the person who makes a pledge, benefits by a chest, how the agencies benefit by being in a Community Chest and how the entire community is benefited by a Community Chest.

"Under the Community Chest plan, 11 financial campaigns are combined in one annual appeal. Such joint financing, tested for many years in some 400 other American cities, applies sound business methods to good social work, which is supervised and approved by the leading business men.

"Subscribers, agencies and the entire community benefit by having a Community.

"The chest is the backbone for unity planning.

"Your community is assured that the funds raised go to support a wisely planned program of community service, and that these funds will be intelligently apportioned, so that the community services will be performed with economy and efficiency. A budget committee, composed of business people, study the needs of the agencies, make their recommendations to the board of directors, who in turn decide on these recommendations. The total funds needed are set as the goal, and it is the business men who head the teams and go out and raise this money.

"The Community Chest makes a more united community, with unity planning for the interest in the Community Chest and the good work it supports unites all citizens on a common ground of human service.

It becomes and will become, a better community, for the increased support of Community Chest agencies enables them to safe guard still more effectively the health and prosperity and general welfare of the whole of our Twin Cities.

"It becomes, and will become, a better community, for the responsibility which its citizens accept for the support of community social service promotes in them a greater civic responsibility for all phases of community welfare.

"I want to leave this thought of co-operation in unity planning with you.

"'It is not the guns or armament, or
the money they can pay,
It's the close cooperation that makes them win the day.
It's not the individual, or the army
as a whole,
But the everlasting teamwork of
every "bloomin" soul.'"

St. Matthew's P.-T. A. To Present Frolic

A carnival of fun and frolic, planned by the St. Matthew's P.-T. A., will be held at the St. Matthew's school on the night of Wednesday, May 8, beginning at 6 p. m.

All assembly halls of the school will be thrown open to the public. On the lower floor, booths will be constructed for the sale of candies, ice cream, cold drinks, and hamburgers. The high school students will sponsor side shows, each grade having its own booth. Much interest is being manifested in the appearance of Madame Mystery, who will tell your past, present, and future for a small fee. A cake walk will be a main feature.

Beginning shortly after 8 p. m., an amateur hour will be conducted in the main auditorium of the school, with prizes to be given for first, second and third best amateur acts. All participants are students of St. Matthew's. The amateur hour is under the direction of Mrs. Stanley Hodges, Miss Frances Spohrer, and Mrs. J. Young. A special group composed of Mrs. Lizzie Morris, Mrs. W. J. Rimes, Mrs. Mike Nastasi, Mrs. Jerome Danna, Mrs. E. J. BeDoit, Mrs. P. B. Collier, Mss Grace Aaron, and Mrs. John Spatafora will act as hostesses.

Other committees are:

Hamburgers—Mrs. W. M. Zinsmeister, Mrs. John Collier, Mrs. F. A. Reynolds, Mrs. E. L. Ritter, Mrs. C. C. Burkett and Mrs. R. Domingues.

Ice cream—Mrs. L. A. Breard, Mrs. Frank O'Brien and Mrs. J. Cunningham.

Cold drinks—Mrs. S. Daigle, Mrs. J. F. Brown and Mrs. Joe Marsala.

Candy—Mrs. Charles Reid, Mrs. L. Rolleigh, Mrs. M. E. Bell and Mrs. Tony Zurga.

Cake walk—Mrs. Allen Ritter, Mrs. V. C. Spatafora and Mrs. W. A. Massett.

Mrs. McQuiller Honors Miss Smith

Reminiscent of the days before the Civil war was the linen cloth encircled with an embroidered ruffle that covered the buffet supper table in the home of Mrs. Jewel McQuiller when she entertained complimentary to Miss Cecile Smith whose engagement to Wayne Wamsley, Jr., was recently announced.

Sentiment entered into this charming affair honoring Miss Smith whose great grandparents were near neighbors of Mrs. McQuiller's grandparents, in West Carroll parish, before the War Between the States. The wedding cake, served with the demi tasse, was baked by Mrs. McQuiller from a recipe used by the family for generations.

The crystal candlesticks flanking the plateau of pink Radiance roses and white frezia forming the central decor, have been in the McQuiller family for generations.

The supper, served buffet fashion, featured several specialties, recipes which are Mrs. McQuiller's prized possessions. The individual salads and ices were molded in unique shapes and tinted pink to harmonize with the color theme.

Miss Smith wore on this occasion a beautiful blouse of Alencon lace with black crepe skirt and a corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. McQuiller's gift to her guest of honor was a set of crystal goblets. Mrs. Wayne Wamsley, Sr., availed herself of this opportunity to present her future daughter-in-law with a set of Haviland china.

Mrs. McQuiller's guests, in addition to Miss Smith, were: Mrs. J. E. Higginbotham, Mrs. E. E. White, Mrs. W. B. Moore, Mrs. Jesse Gilstrap, Mrs. Lola Lanius, Mrs. W. E. Fritz, Mrs. M. L. DeFreese, Mrs. Marie Wamsley, Mrs. D. F. Dennis, Mrs. Mae Modes, Mrs. H. P. Smith, Mrs. Cliff Mize, Miss Johnette Register and Miss Mary Helen Weaver.

MONROE GIRL AT L. S. U.

If this looks kind of irregular to you, maybe it's because it is done to the tune of Gertrude Stein's poetry. The dance recital from which this selection is taken was presented recently by the school of dance at Louisiana State university. In the picture above is Miss Sibyl Renaud standing (right), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Renaud, 108 Filer street, Monroe, and senior in the school of education at Louisiana State university. Standing with Miss Renaud is Ethel Tison, the other two are Alma Chauvin and Elizabeth Green. Miss Renaud is a member of Alpha Chi Omega, social sorority; the Y. W. C. A.; the Women's Athletic association; the Physical Education club, and the Wesley Foundation.

Mrs. Williams, Jr., Is Complimented

Friends from this city motored to the country home of Mrs. J. H. Edwards of Mer Rouge where courtesies were extended complimentary to a bride of recent date, Mrs. A. D. Williams, Jr., of Monroe.

Co-hostesses assisting Mrs. Edwards were Mrs. C. B. Flinn, Mrs. Lloyd Barham, Mrs. Fred Floyd, Mrs. Jack Yeldell and Miss Ella Higginbotham.

Following greetings, extended by the hostesses, the guests were invited to the dining room where the tea table replendant with silver and graced with handsome silver coffee and tea urns at either end, was presided over by Mrs. T. G. Gallagher in a blue marquisette model and Mrs. T. V. McCorvey, wearing a camellia pink net model.

A plaque of Wedgwood blue iris and pink Columbia roses formed the central floral decor. Silver trays laden with petits fours and individual wedding cakes embossed in the names Lois and A. D. were passed among the guests by Mrs. W. T. Blackwell and Miss Martha Ann Jones.

Trays of delicious sandwiches and wedding ring mints were placed on the refreshment table.

Mrs. Hudson And Mrs. Haile Honored

A miscellaneous shower was given in the home of Mrs. Elmer Antley Wednesday afternoon, honoring Mrs. Murray Hudson, formerly Miss Mary V. Haile, and Mrs. W. B. Haile, Jr., formerly Miss Faye Parker.

Guests were received in the sun parlor by the hostess and requested to register in the "Brides' Books," presided over by Marie Wilson and Bwenneth Snell. The reception suite was beautifully decorated with bridal wreath and pink roses sustaining the color scheme. The lace-covered dining table was centered with a crystal bowl encircled with fern and pink carnations. Antique crystal candlebra held slender topers. Delicious punch and individual cakes were served by Olga Lee Wilson and Francis Lee Jordan, assisted by Mrs. Melba McDonald.

The many beautiful gifts presented in a flower wreathed basket, included complete sets of Fostoria, china, silver and linen in the brides' chosen patterns.

Enjoying the occasion with the honor guests were: Mrs. Elmer Antley, Mrs. Percy Turner, Jr., and Miss Novia Brown of Linville; Mrs. P. K. Hudson, Sadie; Mrs. D. C. Smith, Monroe; Mrs. H. G. The Monroe Public library has recently received a collection of books from the Louisiana library commission on "Home Decoration." These books will remain in the library until May 15 and are available to patrons seeking information on home decoration and building. A few of the titles are: Your Home and You, by J. C. Bossard; Successful Home Furnishings, by T. M. Burrows; Practical Book of Interior Decorating, by H. D. Eberlein; Colour in Everyday Rooms, by Basil Ionides; Decoration For the Small Home, by Derek Patmore; 101 Ideas For Successful Interiors, by Mrs. M. F. Roberts; Period Influences, by W. R. Storey.

Children's new books have been added and more have been ordered. New volumes in the children's department are: A Trip on Many Waters, by Bartman; Looking at the Moon, by Bartman; Rookie by Flagg, and Tony and Toinette in the Tropics, by Lina Harris.

The supply of books in the children's department is increasing and young patrons are invited to avail themselves of the privilege afforded during the summer months. At the regular meeting of the library board, last Wednesday, the librarians reported the largest circulation since organization in 1916. The exact number of books loaned was 7,086.

Monroe students at Randolph-Macon Woman's college are taking part in the extra curricular activities that will fill the remaining weeks in the academic year. Elections for the next session have been completed, and attention is now centered on the coming of May day, the week-end of May 4, and on the production of the 26th annual Greek play, on May 11.

In the student elections this spring, Miss Barbara Woolman was chosen as recording secretary for the Gamma Phi Beta sorority for next year, and Miss Mary Lavinia Inabnet, treasurer of the sophomore class for next year.

The Camp Fire Girls are celebrating their 28th birthday anniversary this month at headquarters on St. John street.

This year the girls have been working on a national project called "Skillful Living." They are striving to learn the art of home making and are devoting their time to the planning of menus, arranging dinner tables, the proper way to serve a meal, and other necessary details.

All this is made possible through the Community Chest of the Twin Cities.

Members of Wacherlovan group number 1 enjoyed their birthday dinner last week, and the Crosley, Mitchell, and Sherrouse groups will enjoy their anniversary dinner next week.

The young people of Drew community met for a social hour Saturday night, games were led by Helen F. Joiner, W. P. A. recreational leader.

A picnic supper was enjoyed by the following:

Rosie Fay Joiner, Helen Spillers, Edna Tidwell, Marcia Joiner, Pauline Zager, Hilda Spillers, Geneva Joiner, Lillia Mae Gray, James Lynn, T. W. Powell, Jr., Reece Moore, Virgil Joiner, Bernon Butler, Dillard Byrd, Louis Landreaux, Agie Butler, C. D. Maldon, Edgar Broomfield, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Neal.

The book reviews sponsored by the council were most successful, it was reported by Mrs. Elmer Richards, chairman, and Mrs. A. E. Montgomery, state goals chairman. A total of 225 persons were in attendance for the seven reviews which were conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth McCranie. Schools completing the reviews were Georgia Tucker, Neville High school, Ouachita Parish High school and St. Matthew's Parochial school.

Mrs. Keller announced that schools desiring the T. B. film should notify Miss Bernice Wright.

Mrs. M. P. Kutz, chairman, reported that the summer roundup program has been under way since April 23. Summer roundup chairmen are asked to register with Mrs. J. B. Best, state chairman, at Shreveport, before May 15. Throughout the summer the P.-T. A. will endeavor to correct children's defects with the aid of the following: Junior Charity league, Ouachita Parish Health board, Ouachita Parish Medical society, St. Frances sanitarium, Ouachita Parish Public Welfare department, dentists of Monroe and the Twin City Community Chest.

Mrs. Keller expressed her appreciation to the officers, chairmen and committees of the council, all of whom contributed to the success of last year's program. She expressed confidence that the council would continue to receive such splendid cooperation.

Mrs. Mary Mullis addressed the council meeting, stating in part:

"You are so fortunate to have a splendid leader, Mrs. Keller, and she has worked so hard, you all have worked and done a splendid job, I feel that, the most hopeful work in the world, is that which is done with and for children.

"I want to tell you something about your Community Chest, which I hope you already know—but, it is something I hope you will remember to pass on to your friends. Your Twin City Community Chest office is located in the Virginia hotel.

"The agencies affiliated with the chest are as follows: Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Colored Community Welfare, Crippled Children association, Home of the Good Samaritan, Monroe Maternity Clinic, Salvation Army, Y. W. C. A., West Monroe Welfare and your Twin Cities P.-T. A. council and Child's Welfare clinic.

"I wish to talk to you on a Community Chest, the advantages of a Community Chest, the way the subscriber or the person who makes a pledge, benefits by a chest, how the agencies benefit by being in a Community Chest and how the entire community is benefited by a Community Chest.

"Under the Community Chest plan, 11 financial campaigns are combined in one annual appeal. Such joint financing, tested for many years in some 400 other American cities, applies sound business methods to good social work, which is supervised and approved by the leading business men.

"Subscribers, agencies and the entire community benefit by having a Community.

"The chest is the backbone for unity planning.

"Your community is assured that the funds raised go to support a wisely planned program of community service, and that these funds will be intelligently apportioned, so that the community services will be performed with economy and efficiency. A budget committee, composed of business people, study the needs of the agencies, make their recommendations to the board of directors, who in turn decide on these recommendations. The total funds needed are set as the goal, and it is the business men who head the teams and go out and raise this money.

"The Community Chest makes a more united community, with unity planning, for the interest in the Community Chest, and the good work it supports unites all citizens on a common ground of human service.

"It becomes, and will become, a better community, for the increased support of Community Chest agencies enables them to safe guard still more effectively the health and prosperity and general welfare of the whole of our Twin Cities.

"It becomes, and will become, a better community, for the responsibility which its citizens accept for the support of community social service promotes in them a greater civic responsibility for all phases of community welfare.

"I want to leave this thought of cooperation in unity planning with you.

"'It is not the guns or armament, or
the money they can pay,
It's the close cooperation that makes them win the day.
It's not the individual, or the army
as a whole,
But the everlasting teamwork of
every "bloomin" soul.'"

St. Matthew's P.-T. A. To Present Frolic

A carnival of fun and frolic, planned by the St. Matthew's P.-T. A., will be held at the St. Matthew's school on the night of Wednesday, May 8, beginning at 6 p. m.

All assembly halls of the school will be thrown open to the public. On the lower floor, booths will be constructed for the sale of candies, ice cream, cold drinks, and hamburgers. The high school students will sponsor side shows, each grade having its own booth. Much interest is being manifested in the appearance of Madame Mystery, who will tell your past, present, and future for a small fee. A cake walk will be a main feature.

Beginning shortly after 8 p. m., an amateur hour will be conducted in the main auditorium of the school, with prizes to be given for first, second and third best amateur acts. All participants are students of St. Matthew's. The amateur hour is under the direction of Mrs. Stanley Hodges, Miss Frances Spohrer, and Mrs. J. Young. A special group composed of Mrs. Lizzie Morris, Mrs. W. J. Rimes, Mrs. Mike Nastasi, Mrs. Jerome Danna, Mrs. E. J. BeDoit, Mrs. P. B. Collier, Mss Grace Aaron, and Mrs. John Spatafora will act as hostesses.

Other committees are:

Ice cream—Mrs. L. A. Breard, Mrs. Frank O'Brien and Mrs. J. Cunningham.

Mrs. McQuiller Honors Miss Smith

Reminiscent of the days before the Civil war was the linen cloth encircled with an embroidered ruffle that covered the buffet supper table in the home of Mrs. Jewel McQuiller when she entertained complimentary to Miss Cecile Smith whose engagement to Wayne Wamsley, Jr., was recently announced.

Sentiment entered into this charming affair honoring Miss Smith whose great grandparents were near neighbors of Mrs. McQuiller's grandparents, in West Carroll parish, before the War Between the States. The wedding cake, served with the demi tasse, was baked by Mrs. McQuiller from a recipe used by the family for generations.

The crystal candlesticks flanking the plateau of pink Radiance roses and white frezia forming the central decor, have been in the McQuiller family for generations.

The supper, served buffet fashion, featured several specialties, recipes which are Mrs. McQuiller's prized possessions. The individual salads and ices were molded in unique shapes and tinted pink to harmonize with the color theme.

Miss Smith wore on this occasion a beautiful blouse of Alencon lace with black crepe skirt and a corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. McQuiller's gift to her guest of honor was a set of crystal goblets. Mrs. Wayne Wamsley, Sr., availed herself of this opportunity to present her future daughter-in-law with a set of Haviland china.

Mrs. McQuiller's guests, in addition to Miss Smith, were: Mrs. J. E. Higginbotham, Mrs. E. E. White, Mrs. W. B. Moore, Mrs. Jesse Gilstrap, Mrs. Lola Lanius, Mrs. W. E. Fritz, Mrs. M. L. DeFreese, Mrs. Marie Wamsley, Mrs. D. F. Dennis, Mrs. Mae Modes, Mrs. H. P. Smith, Mrs. Cliff Mize, Miss Johnette Register and Miss Mary Helen Weaver.

MONROE GIRL AT L. S. U.

If this looks kind of irregular to you, maybe it's because it is done to the tune of Gertrude Stein's poetry. The dance recital from which this selection is taken was presented recently by the school of dance at Louisiana State university. In the picture above is Miss Sibyl Renaud standing (right), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Renaud, 108 Filer street, Monroe, and senior in the school of education at Louisiana State university. Standing with Miss Renaud is Ethel Tison, the other two are Alma Chauvin and Elizabeth Green. Miss Renaud is a member of Alpha Chi Omega, social sorority; the Y. W. C. A.; the Women's Athletic association; the Physical Education club, and the Wesley Foundation.

The Monroe Public library has recently received a collection of books from the Louisiana library commission on "Home Decoration." These books will remain in the library until May 15 and are available to patrons seeking information on home decoration and building. A few of the titles are:

Your Home and You, by J. C. Bossard; Successful Home Furnishings, by T. M. Burrows; Practical Book of Interior Decorating, by H. D. Eberlein; Colour in Everyday Rooms, by Basil Ionides; Decoration For the Small Home, by Derek Patmore; 101 Ideas For Successful Interiors, by Mrs. M. F. Roberts; Period Influences, by W. R. Storey.

Children's new books have been added and more have been ordered. New volumes in the children's department are: A Trip on Many Waters, by Bartman; Looking at the Moon, by Bartman; Rookie by Flagg, and Tony and Toinette in the Tropics, by Lina Harris.

The supply of books in the children's department is increasing and young patrons are invited to avail themselves of the privilege afforded during the summer months. At the regular meeting of the library board, last Wednesday, the librarians reported the largest circulation since organization in 1916. The exact number of books loaned was 7,086.

Monroe students at Randolph-Macon Woman's college are taking part in the extra curricular activities that will fill the remaining weeks in the academic year. Elections for the next session have been completed, and attention is now centered on the coming of May day, the week-end of May 4, and on the production of the 26th annual Greek play, on May 11.

In the student elections this spring, Miss Barbara Woolman was chosen as recording secretary for the Gamma Phi Beta sorority for next year, and Miss Mary Lavinia Inabnet, treasurer of the sophomore class for next year.

The Camp Fire Girls are celebrating their 28th birthday anniversary this month at headquarters on St. John street.

This year the girls have been working on a national project called "Skillful Living." They are striving to learn the art of home making and are devoting their time to the planning of menus, arranging dinner tables, the proper way to serve a meal, and other necessary details.

All this is made possible through the Community Chest of the Twin Cities.

Members of Wacherlovan group number 1 enjoyed their birthday dinner last week, and the Crosley, Mitchell, and Sherrouse groups will enjoy their anniversary dinner next week.

The young people of Drew community met for a social hour Saturday night, games were led by Helen F. Joiner, W. P. A. recreational leader.

Beautifully Appointed Tea At McGuire Park Golf Club Arranged To Commemorate Event

In harmony with the flowery month of May was the beautifully appointed tea arranged by members of the Bobashelas Book club at the McGuire Golf club in celebration of their first anniversary.

The lounge of the club was converted into a May day garden with baskets overflowing with Dutch blue iris, pink Radiance roses and Shasta daisies grouped in the background.

Greetings were extended by the officers of the club, Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, Mrs. D. C. Metcalf, Mrs. Malcolm LeFevre and Miss Lallage Feazel, assisted by Mrs. Charles Eby, Mrs. L. B. Owen, Mrs. Charles Chisholm, Mrs. R. G. Taylor, Mrs. J. O. Miller, Mrs. Herbert Rhinehart, Mrs. Roy Lee, Mrs. Amos Hood and Mrs. W. D. Clark.

Each member of the receiving party wore a summery gown in the pastel shade.

Considerable artistry was reflected in the candlelit tea table where dolls, resembling fairies, danced among the flowers strewn down the full length of the board. Rainbow colored ribbons linked together two reflectors in which the candlelight and the flowers were mirrored.

Silver coffee and tea services at either end of the table were presided over by Mrs. Delma Carter and Mrs. Lester Waddell. Trays of beautifully decorated confections were passed among the guests by Mrs. D. C. Harper, Mrs. J. Y. Pipes, Mrs. K. D. Hayes, Mrs. Delma Carter and Mrs. H. Gentry.

Two hundred and fifty guests called during the receiving hours to pay their respects to a group of gracious hostesses.

First Anniversary Of Book Club Observed

Beautifully Appointed Tea At McGuire Park Golf Club Arranged To Commemorate Event

In harmony with the flowery month of May was the beautifully appointed tea arranged by members of the Bobashelas Book club at the McGuire Golf club in celebration of their first anniversary.

The lounge of the club was converted into a May day garden with baskets overflowing with Dutch blue iris, pink Radiance roses and Shasta daisies grouped in the background.

Greetings were extended by the officers of the club, Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, Mrs. D. C. Metcalf, Mrs. Malcolm LeFevre and Miss Lallage Feazel, assisted by Mrs. Charles Eby, Mrs. L. B. Owen, Mrs. Charles Chisholm, Mrs. R. G. Taylor, Mrs. J. O. Miller, Mrs. Herbert Rhinehart, Mrs. Roy Lee, Mrs. Amos Hood and Mrs. W. D. Clark.

Each member of the receiving party wore a summery gown in the pastel shade.

Considerable artistry was reflected in the candlelit tea table where dolls, resembling fairies, danced among the flowers strewn down the full length of the board. Rainbow colored ribbons linked together two reflectors in which the candlelight and the flowers were mirrored.

Silver coffee and tea services at either end of the table were presided over by Mrs. Delma Carter and Mrs. Lester Waddell. Trays of beautifully decorated confections were passed among the guests by Mrs. D. C. Harper, Mrs. J. Y. Pipes, Mrs. K. D. Hayes, Mrs. Delma Carter and Mrs. H. Gentry.

Two hundred and fifty guests called during the receiving hours to pay their respects to a group of gracious hostesses.

"Are the European Dictators the Stage Hands Setting the Stage for the Coming Anti-Christ?" will be discussed by the pastor tonight at 7:45 at the First Baptist church in a sermon on "Prophecy," a series of Sunday night messages.

If you do not worship elsewhere you are invited and urged to hear this timely message. The sure word of prophecy is the only light that shines in this dark world. The storms and passions of men cannot blow out that light which, like the morning star after a stormy night, announces the rising of the "Sun of Righteousness."

At the morning hour the subject will be "The Question of All Questions—What Is the Answer?"

The Sunday school, the Baptist Training union and the Brotherhoods meet at the usual hour. If you are a member you are expected to attend, if not, you are cordially invited.

Sunday school begins promptly at 9:45. Superintendent I. M. Corbin asks all teachers to be on time to take charge of their classes. B. T. U. begins at 6:45 p.m. and the evening worship at 7:45. Sixteen men of the Brotherhood attended the district meeting at Delhi last Tuesday night.

The pastor's subjects "Pray For the Kingdom" (Matt. 6:10), and "A Wise Investment" (Matt. 6, 19, 20).

We invite you to the services of this church. You are always welcome.

We quote a few epigrams that are really good sermons:

"None are so blind as those who will not see."

"The things we do are our loud speakers."

"The wages of sin have never been reduced."

"Many a man is careful to see that everything is saved but his soul."

All departments of the Sunday School will begin at 9:30 a.m. and close 10:40 a.m. Miss Emma Bains, instructor in this work, will have charge of the opening exercises of the Adult and Young People's departments. Splended programs are planned for all departments and we urge you to be on time and share the blessing. The Training union will meet 6:45 p.m. Let us hold the attendance record high as usual.

The pastor's sermon subjects for the day are as follows: the morning worship, "God's Estimate of Man" and "The World's Most Popular Hero." The people should give a more permanent and sacred place in their lives for the church now that they have come to see that might does not make right. One has said "What Christ needs most now in the churches is to have a chance." What christians need most is expressed by the poet who said:

"Set us afire, Lord.
Stir us, We pray.
While the world perishes,
We go our way."

The W. M. S. will hold the business meeting at the church Monday at 2:00 p.m. All the ladies of the church are expected to be present. All other services and meetings will be held at the usual time.

Sincerely we cordially invite all our friends to worship with us in all these services. If you live in this community, this church should be of great importance to your religious life and to your family and friends. The church is but what the community wants it to be, and the community is what the church makes it be.

The Sunday school is steadily growing. There were 23 new pupils last Sunday. The enrollment has passed the thousand mark. A warm invitation is extended to those not in church elsewhere to attend the church services and the Sunday school.

A missionary from South America will speak at both services, Sunday. Dr. J. J. Cowsert, who is now in the states on furlough, will speak not only at both services Sunday but each evening through the coming week. Dr. Cowsert will direct the school of missions this week. There will be six classes offered. The classes will meet at 7:30 each evening for a forty-five minute period. This will be followed by an inspirational address by the missionary. You are invited to attend this school of missions.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, May 5. The golden text is: "The way of the Lord is strength to the upright; but destruction shall be to the workers of iniquity." (Prov 10). Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." (Gal. 6:7). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "'Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.' Error excludes itself from harmony. Sin is its own punishment." (p. 537).

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH
C. Karlos Smith, Pastor-Evangelist
West Monroe, Louisiana
R. M. McClindon General Superintendent
G. C. Williams, Director Of Music

Very special services will be held today in honor of all the board of stewards and their wives. Special reserved seats will be occupied by all members of the board of stewards and trustees. Holy Communion will be administered at both the morning and evening services. Let all members and friends make this the greatest day of the year in Sunday School and church attendance. The subject for the morning worship will be "In this present age does God actually speak to Man?" At the evening services the subject will be "Human Suffering and Why."

The public is invited to every service and also invited to take part in every phase of the worship of our Lord. We believe that in this strange age in the world's history the church has its greatest and most fruitful opportunity. You are urged to become a part of the most progressive church in Ouachita parish. The growing church, in a growing city. We believe in the old fashioned Gospel preaching of the message of Christ in the condemnation of all evil. A fine musical program at every service.

Sunday School meets at 9:45 a.m. with a class for every age and a teacher for every class. Come and bring the whole family to Sunday School and church.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
Jackson At Wood
Dr. A. M. Freeman, Pastor

The pastor's theme for the 11 o'clock hour today is "Sharing Grace." At 7:45 his topic will be "Life by Truth." The Epworth league meets at 6:45. The Society of Christian Service will meet at the church Tuesday for their regular monthly business meeting. The Mother's club will meet Wednesday morning at 9:30. Wednesday evening the board of Christian education will meet at the church.

On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the senior department of the church school will sponsor an entertainment, presenting three one-act plays and several special numbers. This will be given at the Ouachita High school auditorium. The admission is 10 and 15 cents. The proceeds will be given to the building fund.

STONE AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

A happy Christian one day met an Irish peddler, and exclaimed: "It's a grand thing to be saved." "Eh?" said the peddler, "it is, but I know something better than that." "Better than being saved?" said he. "What can you possibly know better than that?" "The companionship of the Man who saved me!" was the unexpected reply.

Christ Jesus is the only Saviour, and to have His companionship, we must walk with Him. Must walk in the path of right doing. "If we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another."—1 John 1:7.

Public worship begins with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Message delivered at 11 a.m. "A Gospel Sermon From Beginning to End," will be the subject. Christian Endeavor at 6:45. Mrs. Josephine Byrd was appointed as leader. Evening service at 7:30. "Excuses" will be the subject discussed. Are all excuses falsehoods and are all excuse-makers liars? Hear these questions answered.

Come early and enjoy singing the songs you like. Circle meetings Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, with circle No. 1 meeting with Mrs. G. B. Haynes, and circle No. 2 meeting with Mrs. C. M. Martin. Prayer service Wednesday evening at 7:30. Mrs. Annie Truett was appointed to conduct the service.

To all who are not attending services regularly, we invite you to worship with us at "The Church You Can't Forget."

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

After the Sunday school exercises, which meets at 9:45, we have our 11 o'clock services, at which time the Communion of the Lord's Supper will be administered. Let every member be present to participate in this most important service. The subject at this hour will be "The Tears of Jesus" or "The Weeping Saviour." The two Epworth leagues will meet at the usual time, 6:30 p.m., and the evening worship service will begin at 7:30 o'clock, the pastor using as his theme "The Final Call" or "The Last Chance."

The Missionary society will meet next Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. for their regular business session. The last chapter of our study-book, "Methodists United for Action" will be given at the Wednesday evening prayer meeting. The regular monthly meeting of the board of stewards met last Thursday evening and transacted important business.

We urge all our members, and cordially invite all our friends, to come and worship with us. Let's be diligent and prayerful and all work together for a great day on this, the first Sunday of the new month.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE
Thomas Avenue At Richmond Street
G. M. And Ina Lee Akin, Pastors

Jeremy Taylor said: "It is usually not so much the greatness of our trouble, but the littleness of our spirit which makes us complain." We may ask ourselves this question: Are there any great troubles where there is a great spirit? The greatness of our difficulties is measured largely by our attitudes toward them. Do we have a "victorious attitude," or is our attitude one of defeat? Paul said: "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." We shall likely find Christ at the "temple" on the Lord's day. We invite you to worship with us this Sabbath.

The order of service is as follows: Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Mrs. S. P. Quigley, superintendent. Preaching at 11 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. Young people's meetings at 6:30 p.m. Mr. O. L. Hoskins, Mrs. Alameda Brown, Mrs. Lynn Boyd and Mrs. T. J. Gardiner, leaders. Mid-week services: The W. F. M. S. will meet with Mrs. Roy Millis, 2019 Dick Taylor, Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Ina Lee Akin, president. Prayer meeting, Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The pastor will give a brief talk on the fourth chapter of John's epistle. "What Is the Difference Between Human Love and Divine Love" is to be the theme under consideration. Think this scripture over: "He came not to be ministered unto, but to minister."

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

Our annual revival begins Monday evening, May 6, 7:30 o'clock. The visiting pastor is Rev. C. L. King, D. D., minister of the First Presbyterian church, Houston, Tex. He is able, fine spirited, gracious, and godly. He comes in the name of the Lord, and with one purpose, and that is the enrichment of the church people, and the ingathering of the lost. A most hearty invitation is extended to you to hear Dr. King.

"That Which Concerns Christ" and "If We Know Him" are the subjects of our messages. Your presence will cheer us, and the Lord will be pleased. "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." "And forget not the assembling of yourselves together." "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord."

The Sabbath school has been established for religious instruction. Are you a member of a class? If not, you are the loser. Will you attend this Lord's day?

A hearty welcome awaits you at any and all worship periods.

Local Boy Makes Outstanding Mark In Aerial Service

James Scruggs, a former carrier salesman for the News-Star—World, returned here last week following the accident to his brother, a messenger boy who was injured when his motorbike struck a truck, and friends learned of his advancement since he left Monroe.

After carrying newspapers here since 1933, young Scruggs enlisted in the aviation corps at Barksdale field, Shreveport, on November 6, 1936. He immediately showed an aptitude for the technical side of the service and in May, 1938, he was sent to Chanute field for instruction in airplane mechanics. He passed with high grades and received his diploma on November 18, 1938.

He was sent back to Barksdale, but again returned to Chanute field for instruction in airplane mechanics. He passed with high grades and received his diploma on November 18, 1938.

He was sent back to Barksdale, but again returned to Chanute field for instruction leading to a diploma as an instrument specialist. This branch is the inspecting and servicing of those intricate and invluable aids for night, poor weather and blind flying. He received his diploma in this department on February 9, 1940.

Having been transferred from the attack group to the 16th bomb squadron before taking his instrument work, he was promoted to corporal on February 3. Upon his return to Barksdale field after only two months, he was again promoted, this time to sergeant.

Young Scruggs is the youngest sergeant in the 16th squadron, and his Monroe friends are proud of his achievements.

Get Your Radio In Top Shape For City Election

Just in case you haven't already had enough political palaver to last a generation or two, it would be wise for you to have your radio put in shape for the city election.

If your receiving set isn't functioning up to standard, or if it is entirely out of order, let Nettles-Bernelle Radio and Electric Service, 311 Ouachita avenue put it in tip-top shape for you at once.

The firm guarantees its work.

While engaging in motor and armature rewinding in addition to servicing radios, Nettles-Bernelle Radio and Electric Service specializes in automobile electrical work, including the entire electrical system of cars.

Moreover, it repairs electric motors of every kind, from refrigerator and washing machine motors to large electric power units, and designs, builds and installs residential and commercial units for generating electric power.

In connection with this last activity, Carey Nettles, co-proprietor of the service and a member of the American Institute of Electrical engineers, makes power surveys free of charge. These surveys reveal whether or not it is more economical to buy power or to install a unit for generating power.

When in need of the specialized electrical service of Nettles-Bernelle Radio and Electric Service, call telephone number 2044.

Orkin Helps Give Better Conditions

"One of the most important contributions of science, and other groups concerned with public health is the development of a program to control insect and rodent pests," said Mr. L. C. Sheffield, manager of the Orkin Exterminating company with offices in the Bernhardt Building.

The annual economic toll is estimated in the billions of dollars, and really no one definitely knows how serious a loss pests cause," continued Mr. Sheffield. "So serious a menace were pests in one of Louisiana's largest cities that special plans were laid to rid the city of the growing and serious effects as far back as 1872 when yellow fever was rampant, due, it is now thought in great measure to rats and similar pests.

"Not only are rats a serious menace, but there are approximately 10,000 species of insects injurious to man and man's products. For many years I have made an intensive study of conditions caused by pests of every description, and I can report that the modern facilities of the Orkin Exterminating company have proven effective in Monroe and other sections in pest control service."

Mr. Sheffield said that the services of the Orkin Exterminating company is at the service of the general public at all times, just call 5252 and we will gladly submit to you "without obligation or cost" quotations for such service as is required.

Ventilated Awning Air Conditions At Very Slight Cost

Did you know that you can air condition a bedroom in your home for as little as $11? Well, you can—with an Underwood Ventilated Awning.

Underwood Ventilated Awnings are manufactured and sold by Monroe Tent & Awning company, corner of Wood and South Grand streets, telephone number 2325.

The $11 mentioned in the first paragraph covers the cost of an Underwood Ventilated Awning made of mildew resistant material and of a size to fit a double window.

This awning will last seven years. Hence you get effective air conditioning for slightly more than $1.50 a year.

Now here's where the air conditioning comes in: Remember your high school physics? Warm air is lighter than cold air, consequently, the warm air rises to the top of the room.

With the low ceilings in modern homes, that means that the warm air blanket reaches down to shoulder level. Well, what about it? Simply this: Have an Underwood Ventilated Awning installed on the sunny side windows of the aforementioned bedroom.

Air conditioning statistics compiled by a large company, show that four times as much heat enters through windows as through walls and that ordinary awnings over windows reduces the hear radiation of the windows threefourths.

What is the difference between an Underwood Ventilated Awning and an ordinary awning? Why the Underwood Ventilated Awning has ventilators at the top and that's where the air conditioning comes in.

Remember the rule of ventilation taught in your high school hygiene course: lower the top sash and raise the lower sash of your window?

After you've had an Underwood Ventilated Awning installed, that's what you do. The hot air rises and flows out of the bedroom over the lower top sash and cool, fresh air from the outside flows in below the raised lower sash to take its place. Thus you get natural ventilation air conditioning without drafts.

The ventilators in the awnings enables the free flow of the warm air out of the room. Ordinary awnings reduce the temperature 10 degrees below that prevailing on the outside and Underwood Ventilated Awnings do far better than that. And don't forget that, while permitting unimpeded natural ventilation, the Underwood Ventilated Awnings protect the room against sudden rain and rugs, drapes and wallpaper against fading caused by sun rays.

D. C. Black, Pastor's Associate

"Are the European Dictators the Stage Hands Setting the Stage for the Coming Anti-Christ?" will be discussed by the pastor tonight at 7:45 at the First Baptist church in a sermon on "Prophecy," a series of Sunday night messages.

If you do not worship elsewhere you are invited and urged to hear this timely message. The sure word of prophecy is the only light that shines in this dark world. The storms and passions of men cannot blow out that light which, like the morning star after a stormy night, announces the rising of the "Sun of Righteousness."

At the morning hour the subject will be "The Question of All Question—What Is the Answer?"

The Sunday school, the Baptist Training union and the Brotherhoods meet at the usual hour. If you are a member you are expected to attend; if not, you are cordially invited .

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH

I. J. Brooks, Pastor
Max Braswell, Choir Director

Sunday school begins promptly at 9:45. Superintendent I. M. Corbin asks all teachers to be on time to take charge of their classes. B. T. U. begins at 6:45 p. m. and the evening worship at 7:45. Sixteen men of the Brotherhood attended the district meeting at Delhi last Tuesday night.

The pastor's subjects "Pray For the Kingdom" (Matt. 6:10), and "A Wise Investment" (Matt. 6: 19, 20).

We invite you to the services of this church. You are always welcome.

We quote a few epigrams that are really good sermons:

"None are so blind as those who will not see."

"The things we do are our loud speakers."

"The wages of sin have never been reduced."

"Many a man is careful to see that everything is saved but his soul."

All departments of the Sunday School will begin at 9:30 a.m. and close 10:40 a.m. Miss Emma Bains, instructor in this work, will have charge of the opening exercises of the Adult and Young People's departments. Splended programs are planned for all departments and we urge you to be on time and share the blessing. The Training union will meet 6:45 p.m. Let us hold the attendance record high as usual.

The pastor's sermon subjects for the day are as follows: the morning worship, "God's Estimate of Man" and "The World's Most Popular Hero." The people should give a more pernanent and sacred place in their lives for the church now that they have come to see that might does not make right. One has said "What Christ needs most now in the churches is to have a chance." What christians need most is expressed be the poet who said.

'Set us afire, Lord,
Stir us, We pray.
While the world perishes,
We go our way."

The W. M. S. will hold the business meeting at the church Monday at 2:00 p.m. All the ladies of the church are expected to be present. All other services and meetings will be held at the usual time.

Sincerely we cordially invite all our friends to worship with us in all these services. If you live in this community, this church should be of great importance to your religious life and to your family and friends. The church is but what the community wants it to be, and the community is what the church makes it be.

The Sunday school is steadily growing. There were 23 new pupils last Sunday. The enrollment has passed the thousand mark. A warm invitation is extended to those not in church elsewhere to attend the church services and the Sunday school.

A missionary from South America will speak at both services, Sunday. Dr. J. J. Cowsert, who is now in the states on furlough, will speak not only at both services Sunday but each evening through the coming week. Dr. Cowsert will direct the school of missions this week. There will be six classes offered. The classes will meet at 7:30 each evening for a forty-five minute period. This will be followed by an inspirational address by the missionary. You are invited to attend this school of missions.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, May 5. The golden text is: "The way of the Lord is strength to the upright; but destruction shall be to the workers of inquity." (Prov 10). Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." (Gal. 6:7). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "'Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.' Error excludes itself from harmony. Sin is its own punishment." (p. 537).

STONE AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

A happy Christian one day met an Irish peddler, and exclaimed: "It's a grand thing to be saved." "Eh?" said the peddler, "it is, but I know something better than that." "Better than being saved?" said he. "What can you possibly know better than that?" "The companionship of the Man who saved me!" was the unexpected reply.

Christ Jesus is the only Saviour, and to have His companionship, we must walk with Him. Must walk in the path of right doing. "If we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another."—1 John 1:7.

Public worship begins with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Message delivered at 11 a.m. "A Gospel Sermon From Beginning to End," will be the subject. Christian Endeavor at 6:45. Mrs. Josephine Byrd was appointed as leader. Evening service at 7:30. "Excuses" will be the subject discussed. Are all excuses falsehoods and are all excuse-makers liars? Hear these questions answered.

Come early and enjoy singing the songs you like. Circle meetings Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, with circle No. 1 meeting with Mrs. G. B. Haynes, and circle No. 2 meeting with Mrs. C. M. Martin. Prayer service Wednesday evening at 7:30. Mrs. Annie Truett was appointed to conduct the service.

To all who are not attending services regularly, we invite you to worship with us, at "The Church You Can't Forget."

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

After the Sunday school exercises, which meets at 9:45, we have our 11 o'clock services, at which time the Communion of the Lord's Supper will be administered. Let every member be present to participate in this most important service. The subject at this hour will be "The Tears of Jesus" or "The Weeping Saviour." The two Epworth leagues will meet at the usual time, 6:30 p.m., and the evening worship service will begin at 7:30 o'clock, the pastor using as his theme "The Final Call" or "The Last Chance."

The Missionary society will meet next Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. for their regular business session. The last chapter of our study-book, "Methodists United for Action" will be given at the Wednesday evening prayer meeting. The regular monthly meeting of the board of stewards met last Thursday evening and transacted important business.

We urge all our members, and cordially invite all our friends, to come and worship with us. Let's be diligent and prayerful and all work together for a great day on this, the first Sunday of the new month.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE
Thomas Avenue At Richmond Street
G. M. And Ina Lee Akin, Pastors

Jeremy Taylor said: "It is usually not so much the greatness of our trouble, but the littleness of our spirit which makes us complain." We may ask ourselves this question: Are there any great troubles where there is a great spirit? The greatness of our difficulties is measured largely by our attitudes toward them. Do we have a "victorious attitude," or is our attitude one of defeat? Paul said: "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." We shall likely find Christ at the "temple" on the Lord's day. We invite you to worship with us this Sabbath.

The order of service is as follows: Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Mrs. S. P. Quigley, superintendent. Preaching at 11 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. Young people's meetings at 6:30 p.m. Mr. O. L. Hoskins, Mrs. Alameda Brown, Mrs. Lynn Boyd and Mrs. T. J. Gardner, leaders. Mid-week services: The W. F. M. S. will meet with Mrs. Roy Millis, 3019 Dick Taylor, Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Ina Lee Akin, president. Prayer meeting, Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The pastor will give a brief talk on the fourth chapter of John's epistle. "What Is the Difference Between Human Love and Divine Love" is to be the theme under consideration. Think this scripture over: "He came not to be ministered unto, but to minister."

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

Our annual revival begins Monday evening, May 6, 7:30 o'clock. The visiting pastor is Rev. C. L. King, D. D., minister of the First Presbyterian church, Houston, Tex. He is able, fine spirited, gracious, and godly. He comes in the name of the Lord, and with one purpose, and that is the enrichment of the church people, and the ingathering of the lost. A most hearty invitation is extended to you to hear Dr. King.

"That Which Concerns Christ" and "If We Know Him" are the subjects of our messages. Your presence will cheer us, and the Lord will be pleased. "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." "And forget not the assemblying of yourselves together." "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord."

The Sabbath school has been established for religious instruction. Are you a member of a class? If not, you are the loser. Will you attend this Lord's day?

A hearty welcome awaits you at any and all worship periods.

Local Boy Makes Outstanding Mark In Aerial Service

James Scruggs, a former carrier salesman for the News-Star—World, returned here last week following the accident to his brother, a messenger boy who was injured when his motorbike struck a truck, and friends learned of his advancement since he left Monroe.

After carrying newspapers here since 1933, young Scruggs enlisted in the aviation corps at Barksdale field, Shreveport, on November 6, 1936. He immediately showed an aptitude for the technical side of the service and in May, 1938, he was sent to Chanute field for instruction in airplane mechanics. He passed with high grades and received his diploma on November 18, 1938.

He was sent back to Barksdale, but again returned to Chanute field for instruction in airplane mechanics. He passed with high grades and received his diplema on November 18, 1938.

He was sent back to Barksdale, but again returned to Chanute field for instruction leading to a diploma as an instrument specialist. This branch is the inspecting and servicing of those intricate and invluable aids for night, poor weather and blind flying. He received his diploma in this department on February 9, 1940.

Having been transferred from the attack group to the 16th bomb squadron before taking his instrument work, he was promoted to corporal on February 3. Upon his return to Barksdale field after only two months, he was again promoted, this time to sergeant.

Young Scruggs is the youngest sergeant in the 16th squadron, and his Monroe friends are proud of his achievements.

Get Your Radio In Top Shape For City Election

Just in case you haven't already had enough political palaver to last a generation or two, it would be wise for you to have your radio put in shape for the city election.

If your receiving set isn't functioning up to standard, or if it is entirely out of order, let Nettles-Bernelle Radio and Electric Service, 311 Ouachita avenue put it in tip-top shape for you at once.

The firm guarantees its work.

While engaging in motor and armature rewinding in addition to servicing radios, Nettles-Bernelle Radio and Electric Service specializes in automobile electrical work, including the entire electrical system of cars.

Moreover, it repairs electric motors of every kind, from refrigerator and washing machine motors to large electric power units, and designs, builds and installs residential and commercial units for generating electric power.

In connection with this last activity, Carey Nettles, co-proprietor of the service and a member of the American Institute of Electrical engineers, makes power surveys free of charge.

These surveys reveal whether or not it is more economical to buy power or to install a unit for generating power.

When in need of the specialized electrical service of Nettles-Bernelle Radio and Electric Service, call telephone number 2044.

Orkin Helps Give Better Conditions

"One of the most important contributions of science, and other groups concerned with public health is the development of a program to control insect and rodent pests," said Mr. L. C. Sheffield, manager of the Orkin Exterminating company with offices in the Bernhardt Building.

The annual economic toll is estimated in the billions of dollars, and really no one definitely knows how serious a loss pests cause," continued Mr. Sheffield. "So serious a menace were pests in one of Louisiana's largest cities that special plans were laid to rid the city of the growing and serious effects as far back as 1872 when yellow fever was rampant, due, it is now thought in great measure to rats and similar pests.

"Not only are rats a serious menace, but there are approximately 10,000 species of insects injurious to man and man's products. For many years I have made an intensive study of conditions caused by pests of every description, and I can report that the modern facilities of the Orkin Exterminating company have proven effective in Monroe and other sections in pest control service."

Mr. Sheffield said that the services of the Orkin Exterminating company is at the service of the general public at all times, just call 5252 and we will gladly submit to you "without obligation or cost" quotations for such service as is required.

Ventilated Awning Air Conditions At Very Slight Cost

Did you know that you can air condition a bedroom in your home for as little as $11? Well, you can—with an Underwood Ventilated Awning.

Underwood Ventilated Awnings are manufactured and sold by Monroe Tent & Awning company, corner of Wood and South Grand streets, telephone number 2325.

The $11 mentioned in the first paragraph covers the cost of an Underwood Ventilated Awning made of mildew resistant material and of a size to fit a double window.

This awning will last seven years. Hence you get effective air conditioning for slightly more than $1.50 a year.

Now here's where the air conditioning comes in: Remember your high school physics? Warm air is lighter than cold air, consequently, the warm air rises to the top of the room.

With the low ceilings in modern homes, that means that the warm air blanket reaches down to shoulder level. Well, what about it? Simply this: Have an Underwood Ventilated Awning installed on the sunny side windows of the aforementioned bedroom.

Air conditioning statistics compiled by a large company, show that four times as much heat enters through windows as through walls and that ordinary awnings over windows reduces the hear radiation of the windows threefourths.

What is the difference between an Underwood Ventilated Awning and an ordinary awning? Why the Underwood Ventilated Awning has ventilators at the top and that's where the air conditioning comes in.

Remember the rule of ventilation taught in your high school hygiene course: lower the top sash and raise the lower sash of your window?

After you've had an Underwood Ventilated Awning installed, that's what you do. The hot air rises and flows out of the bedroom over the lower top sash and cool, fresh air from the outside flows in below the raised lower sash to take its place. Thus you get natural ventilation air conditioning without drafts.

The ventilators in the awnings enables the free flow of the warm air out of the room. Ordinary awnings reduce the temperature 10 degrees below that prevailing on the outside and Underwood Ventilated Awnings do far better than that. And don't forget that, while permitting unimpeded natural ventilation, the Underwood Ventilated Awnings protect the room against sudden rain and rugs, drapes and wallpaper against fading caused by sun rays.

WHITE ROAD STRIP NOT NEW

The white strip down the center of a road is not a modern development, according to a section of old highway between Mexico City and Cuernavaca, Mexico. Built by the Spaniards 350 to 400 years ago, the road contains a center strip made of white stones.

'Road To Singapore' Opens Engagement At Para

Crosby And Lamour Top Great Cast

Bob Hope Adds To Merriment In Latest Musical Picture

A COUPLE of embryonic Gauguins daub themselves with paint so that they can get something to eat at a native feast in the South seas town of Kaigoon and matters are just about as they are throughout "Road to Singapore," the new Paramount comedy musical opening today at the Paramount theater with Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour and Bob Hope in the starring roles, and a supporting cast headed by Charles Coburn, Judith Barrett, Anothony Quinn and Jerry Colonna.

The lads who don the paint are, of course, Bing Crosby and Bob Hope, those distinguished fugitives from the Kraft Music Hall and the Pepsodent radio show, who spend their time in this picture basking in the tropics where they hope—yes, they really do! —to avoid matrimony. But, of course, when Bing gets a chance to croon to Miss Lamour and Bob can keep her amused, the boys are soon off on the wrong track again.

All this trekking down to the land of Goona-Goona comes about when Bing and Bob get back in port after a voyage on one of Bing's dad's boats. First, they have to dispose of a couple of guys sent around by one of Bob's old girl friends. They give him the "Patty-cake," clap hands, then sock. Then there is the trouble with Bing's father—Charles Coburn, and his fiancee, Miss Barrett, who both seem to think that he should settle down. The lads dispose of that problem by fleeing to Kaigoon.

Existence in Kaigoon is idyllic until they run into Dorothy Lamour being abused by her dancing partner, Anthony Quinn. The boys take care of him with a fine little game of "Patty-cake," and she decides to take care of them as far as the housekeeping goes. Although they resent it at first, they decide they like having her around, and both of them fall in love with her.

Meanwhile, however, Professor Colonna, representing the rival steamship line, has been accosted by the boys in one of their efforts to get money. He tells Pop where Bing is, and on come Coburn and Miss Barrett by Clipper.

When they arrive, the lads and Dotty are at the feast, and Bing is being pursued by a marriage-bent native lass. Finally, he has to decide to leave, but his heart belongs to Dotty and vice versa and it takes a lot of horsing around to get them back together again.

Easy to take are the five hit songs woven into the pitcure by Victor Schertzinger, the director. Among them are "Too Romantic," "The Moon and the Willow Tree" and "Kaigoon." Bing and Miss Lamour sing them and of course there is much dancing by native girls.

Lucille Ball in "The Marines Fly High," exciting aerial thriller, starring Richard Dix and Chester Morris showing today only at the Capital theater.

MAYOR REIGNS AS KING AT HOMER MAY FESTIVAL

HOMER, May 4.—(Special)—Mayor Fred Jackson reigned as king and Mrs. James Knighton as queen at a May fete staged at the high school athletic field Thursday night. The court consisted of Mrs. Gaynor Dawson, maid of honor, Mrs. Joe Robertson, Mrs. Aubin Fincher, Mrs. Bobbie Moreland, Mrs. Harry Lindsey.

Features included band selections, the singing of folk songs by students of grammar school, and the May pole dance by students of Mrs. Bagwell's dance class. The occasion was sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary, and attended by a large crowd.

'Marines Fly High' Shows At Capitol

Richard Dix, Chester Morris And Lucille Ball Head Cast

TELLING the story of a Central American insurrection led by a daring bandit, and how the United States Marines help to put a halt to his bloody regin of terror, "The Marines Fly High" is said to contain every entertainment ingredient for a high-speed action show at the Capitol today.

Topping the cast are Richard Dix and Chester Morris as two flying lieutenants assigned to help train native volunteers in a Nationalista army, and Lucille Ball as a courageous American girl and operator of an extensive cocoa plantation. The rivalry of the two "leathernecks" over the young lady is as determined as their relentless efforts to apprehend the ruthless guerilla who is ravaging the section.

Spectacular aerial thrills mark an exciting reconnaissance flight of Dix and Morris, who unsuspectingly fly into a trap laid by Vengador, the bandit chieftain, and barely escape with their lives. Before reprisals can be taken by the Marines, however, Vengador is revealed as a renegade American and trusted foreman on Miss Ball's plantation. As the first step in a cleverly contrived scheme, the outlaw captures the girl, takes her to a border town and then releases her after giving the false information that his men plan to flee the city.

Lucille intercepts Morris and a column of soldiers who are coming to her rescue. Believing the girl's information that Vengador has left the border town, they unwittingly walk into a cleverly laid ambush, for the bandits, armed with machine guns, are hidden strategically on house tops.

Described as one of the most spine-tingling gun battles ever witnessed on the screen, the terrific conflict is climaxed with the arrival of Dix in a plane. His daring feat to land the ship in a narrow street, rescue the girl and his rival, and pick up some of the wounded, is exceeded in thrills only by his sensational pursuit of Vengador, whose car is overtaken by the plane before it reaches the border. Dix's aerial gun combat with the ruthless renegade, and the solution to the romantic problems of the two marines and the American girl, make for the thrilling story's conclusion.

Directed for RKO Radio Pictures by George Nicholls, Jr. and Ben Stoloff, "The Marines Fly High" features in the supporting cast such fine players as Steffi Duna as an amorous dancing pursuit of Vengador whose car Eldredge as Vengador; Paul Harvey as a Marine officer; and Horace MacMahon and Dick Hogan as two fun-loving "leathernecks." A production by Robert Sisk, "The Marines Fly High" is an original story by A. C. Edington, scenarized by Jerry Cady and Lt. Commander A. J. Bolton.

'Road To Singapore' Opens Engagement At Paran

Bob Hope Adds To Merriment In Latest Musical Picture

A COUPLE of embryonic Gauguins daub themselves with paint so that they can get something to eat at a native feast in the South seas town of Kaigoon and matters are just about as they are throughout "Road to Singapore," the new Paramount comedy musical opening today at the Paramount theater with Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour and Bob Hope in the starring roles, and a supporting cast headed by Charles Coburn, Judith Barrett, Anothony Quinn and Jerry Colonna.

The lads who don the paint are, of course, Bing Crosby and Bob Hope, those distinguished fugitives from the Kraft Music Hall and the Pepsodent radio show, who spend their time in this picture basking in the tropics where they hope—yes, they really do! —to avoid matrimony. But, of course, when Bing gets a chance to croon to Miss Lamour and Bob can keep her amused, the boys are soon off on the wrong track again.

All this trekking down to the land of Goona-Goona comes about when Bing and Bob get back in port after a voyage on one of Bing's dad's boats. First, they have to dispose of a couple of guys sent around by one of Bob's old girl friends. They give him the "Patty-cake," clap hands, then sock. Then there is the trouble with Bing's father—Charles Coburn, and his fiancee, Miss Barrett, who both seem to think that he should settle down. The lads dispose of that problem by fleeing to Kaigoon.

Existence in Kaigoon is idyllic until they run into Dorothy Lamour being abused by her dancing partner, Anthony Quinn. The boys take care of him with a fine little game of "Patty-cake," and she decides to take care of them as far as the housekeeping goes. Although they resent it at first, they decide they like having her around, and both of them fall in love with her.

Meanwhile, however, Professor Colonna, representing the rival steamship line, has been accosted by the boys in one of their efforts to get money. He tells Pop where Bing is, and on come Coburn and Miss Barrett by Clipper.

When they arrive, the lads and Dotty are at the feast, and Bing is being pursued by a marriage-bent native lass. Finally, he has to decide to leave, but his heart belongs to Dotty and vice versa and it takes a lot of horsing around to get them back together again.

Easy to take are the five hit songs woven into the pitcure by Victor Schertzinger, the director. Among them are "Too Romantic," "The Moon and the Willow Tree" and "Kaigoon." Bing and Miss Lamour sing them and of course there is much dancing by native girls.

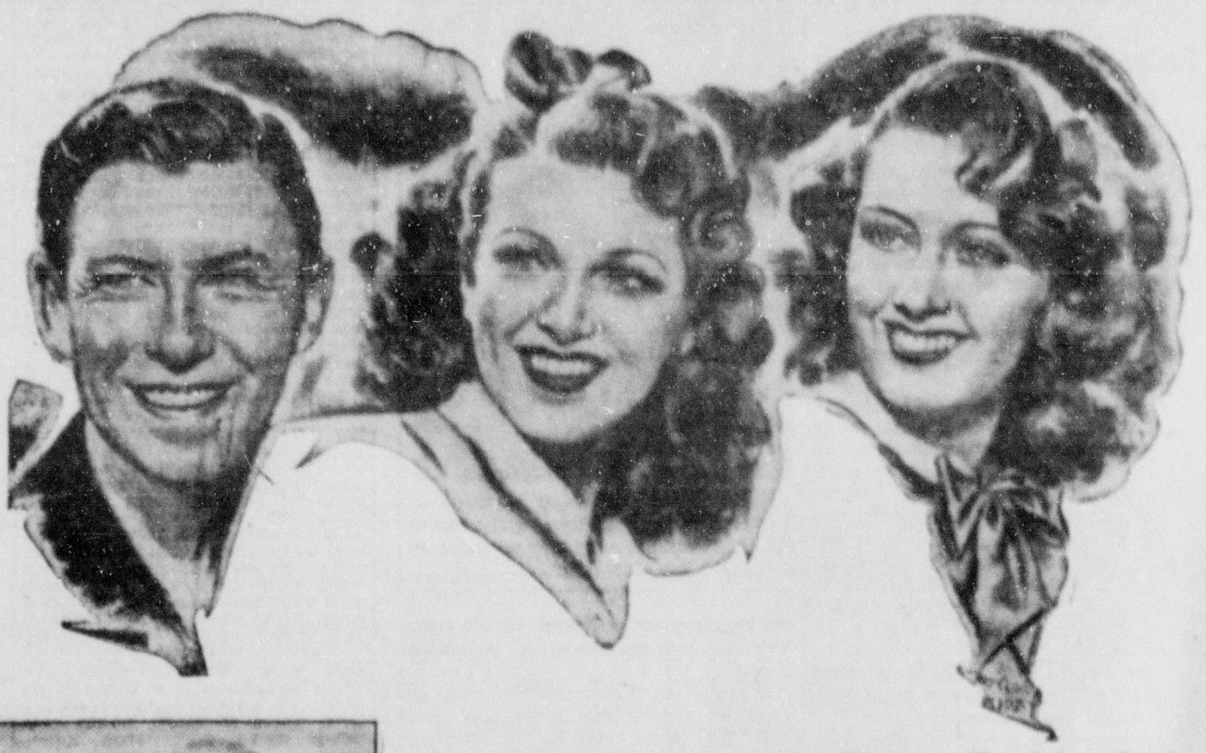
Lucille Ball in "The Marines Fly High." exciting aerial thriller, starring Richard Dix and Chester Morris showing today only at the Capital theater.

MAYOR REIGNS AS KING AT HOMER MAY FESTIVAL

HOMER, May 4.—(Special)—Mayor Fred Jackson reigned as king and Mrs. James Knighton as queen at a May fete staged at the high school athletic field Thursday night. The court consisted of Mrs. Gaynor Dawson, maid of honor, Mrs. Joe Robertson, Mrs. Aubin Fincher, Mrs. Bobbie Moreland, Mrs. Harry Lindsey.

Features included band selections, the singing of folk songs by students of grammar school, and the May pole dance by students of Mrs. Bagwell's dance class. The occasion was sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary, and attended by a large crowd.

The Baltimore Manual Training school was established in 1884 and was the first such school to be financed entirely by public taxes.



George Murphy, Lana Turner and Joan Blondell in "Two Girls on Broadway," the smartest and brightest musical hit of the year, showing Wednesday and Thursday at the Paramount theater.

That genial-faced profile of Kay Kyser is surrounded by Ish Kabibble (top) and Harry Babbit, Ginny Simms and Sully Mason (bottom, L. to R.) in the picturization of the popular radio program "That's Right—You're Wrong" playing at the Capitol theater Wednesday only.

Robert Douglas, as commander of a fighting cruiser, Richard Cromwell and pretty Hazel Terry in a scene from "Torpedoed" showing at the Capitol theater Monday only.

Singapore and the romantic straits mean just one more jam to Bing Crosby and Bob Hope, the landfaring sailors in "Road to Singapore" co-starring Dorothy Lamour and playing today, Monday and Tuesday at the Paramount theater.

It's a gay and carefree romance for Joan Bennett and George Raft when they fall in love during the action of "The House Across the Bay," highly emotional drama, also featuring Lloyd Nolan and Gladys George, playing Friday and Saturday at the Paramount theater.

Geraldine Fitzgerald and Jeffrey Lynn in "A Child Is Born," a heart warming drama, rich . . . real . . . and human, playing Thursday only at the Capitol theater with Gladys George, Jonnie 'Scat' Davis and Gale Page featured.

SUMMER ROUNDUP IS SET FRIDAY AT DREW SCHOOL

Summer roundup for physical examination of pre-school children will be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday at Drew school under the sponsorship of the Drew Parent-Teacher association.

Dr. D. I. Hirsch will conduct the examinations with Miss Effie Busy, attending nurse, assisting.

All parents who expect to enroll children in the fall term at Drew school are urged to have the youngsters present so that any physical handicaps may be discovered and corrected before school begins.

The annual P.-T. A. picnic will be held at noon the same day, followed by election of officers at 2 p.m. Dr. Hirsch will speak at the meeting and make a report on the children examined.

HUGHES RECOVERING

FERRIDAY, La., May 4.—(Special)—Friends of John Hughes, former sheriff of Tensas parish, will be glad to hear he is recovering from his recent accident. Mr. Hughes was out driving with Mrs. Hughes when the machine gave a lurch, causing him to lose his balance and fall heavily to the ground. He sustained a broken thigh and fractured shoulder. His leg is in a cast and his shoulders braced with bandages. He is resting better and is acclimating himself to his condition.

It is reported by reliable authorities that Germany will lead in total number of available planes until early in 1941, at the present rate of production.

THEFT OF PAY PHONE REPORTED TO POLICE

Theft of a pay telephone Friday night from a transfer company at Sixth and Adams streets was reported to city police Saturday by James Flintroy, negro.

Police who are conducting an investigation said this was the second telephone stolen from the same place.

The lodge invites all members to come and bring their baskets and friends.

Officers will be installed as a feature of the picnic. The following men will take office for the present chapter: D. B. Coggins, wood foreman; Lee Johnson, timber cruiser; J. R. McKnight, timber hacker, and G. A. Scrozier, forest ranger.

Log-rolling and a basket picnic will be added attractions.

A LOT OF STEEL

During 1938, 3,863,000 refrigerators, kitchen ranges, and electric washing machines were purchased in America. Production of these appliances consumed 260,000 gross tons of steel.

'Marines Fly High' Shows At Capitol

Richard Dix, Chester Morris And Lucille Ball Head Cast

TELLING the story of a Central American insurrection led by a daring bandit, and how the United States Marines help to put a halt to his bloody regin of terror, "The Marines Fly High" is said to contain every entertainment ingredient for a high-speed action show at the Capitol today.

Topping the cast are Richard Dix and Chester Morris as two flying lieutenants assigned to help train native volunteers in a Nationalista army, and Lucille Ball as a courageous American girl and operator of an extensive cocoa plantation. The rivalry of the two "leathernecks" over the young lady is as determined as their relentless efforts to apprehend the ruthless guerilla who is ravaging the section.

Spectacular aerial thrills mark an exciting reconnaissance flight of Dix and Morris, who unsuspectingly fly into a trap laid by Vengador, the bandit chieftain, and barely escape with their lives. Before reprisals can be taken by the Marines, however, Vengador is revealed as a renegade American and trusted foreman on Miss Ball's plantation. As the first step in a cleverly contrived scheme, the outlaw captures the girl, takes her to a border town and then releases her after giving the false information that his men plan to flee the city.

Lucille intercepts Morris and a column of soldiers who are coming to her rescue. Believing the girl's information that Vengador has left the border town, they unwittingly walk into a cleverly laid ambush, for the bandits, armed with machine guns, are hidden strategically on house tops.

Described as one of the most spine-tingling gun battles ever witnessed on the screen, the terrific conflict is climaxed with the arrival of Dix in a plane. His daring feat to land the ship in a narrow street, rescue the girl and his rival, and pick up some of the wounded, is exceeded in thrills only by his sensational pursuit of Vengador, whose car is overtaken by the plane before it reaches the border. Dix's aerial gun combat with the ruthless renegade, and the solution to the romantic problems of the two marines and the American girl, make for the thrilling story's conclusion.

Directed for RKO Radio Pictures by George Nicholls, Jr. and Ben Stoloff, "The Marines Fly High" features in the supporting cast such fine players as Steffi Duna as an amorous dancing pursuit of Vengador whose car Eldredge as Vengador; Paul Harvey as a Marine officer; and Horace MacMahon and Dick Hogan as two fun-loving "leathernecks." A production by Robert Sisk, "The Marines Fly High" is an original story by A. C. Edington, scenarized by Jerry Cady and Lt. Commander A. J. Bolton.

CHARLES M'COMB HEADS TECH EPISCOPAL CLUB

RUSTON, La., May 4.—(Special)—Charles McComb of Monroe has been elected president of the Episcopal club at Louisiana Tech to serve for the 1940-41 session. He will succeed Carl Williams of Shreveport.

Other officers of the club for the next regular session are as follows: Percy Benjamin, Tallulah, vice-president and chaplain; Frances Mai Wilkerson, Shreveport, secretary-treasurer; James Brothers, Monroe, and Martha Williams McComb, Shreveport, reporters. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard B. Watt, Jr., Ruston, were appointed sponsors of the organization.

FLOWER SHOW SLATED

FERRIDAY, La., May 4.—(Special)—The annual flower show sponsored by the Vidalia Garden club will be held on May 8 at 3 p.m., and the public has been invited to attend and to make entries in the show. Prizes will be ribbons. Miss Marie Saxes is in charge of all arrangements for the show, which is an annual event, which always attracts a record entry list for the prize award.

BAPTISMAL SERVICE

Baptismal services will be held Sunday in the Ouacihta river at the foot of Pine street by the Zion Traveler Baptist church, Rev. P. E. Pierce, pastor, announced Saturday.

DR. KIN SER SPEAKER DINNER HERE

Series F

Wee Stanford To Make Principal Talk At Goodwill Banquet

A ser ginnin throu the F Char Tex ice da e)

The complete program for the Goodwill dinner to be given to 450 businessmen of northeast Louisiana by the Missouri Pacific Boosters club on May has not been formulated, Chief Booster S. A. Moss said yesterday, but those in attendance are certain to enjoy the principal address.

J. E. Stanford, editor and publisher of the Southern Agriculturalist, of Nashville, Tenn., is an outstanding author, lecturer and humorist. Mr. Stanford will make the principal address at the dinner, which will be held at the Virginia hotel, starting at 7 o'clock Wednesday night. A goodwill ball will follow at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Stanford is a native of Texas and although he has specialized in the study of farm problems, he is well versed in other subjects and has addressed many meetings of businessmen.

Mr. Stanford first set up rural rehabilitation in Texas, and many of his ideas were later embodied in the national farm program, it was said.

Following his success in Texas, Mr. Stanford established the Southern Agriculturalist at Nashville. The paper now has a circulation of over one million.

Mr. Stanford is exceptionally successful as an after-dinner speaker, combining rare wit with sound logic.

A number of high officials of the railroad will be present for the dinner, Mr. Moss said, and elaborate preparations are being made for the many guests.

SPEAKER

J. E. STANFORD

DELEGATES APPOINTED

OAK GROVE, La., May 4.—(Special)—Mrs. E. E. Hurley, president of Catron-Kelly unit No. 53, American Legion auxiliary, has appointed members of the unit to serve as delegates and alternates to the convention being held in Shreveport on June 7, 8, 9. The delegates are Mrs. Mae E. Kelly, Mrs. Arden B. Smith, Mrs. I. M. McCurdy, Mrs. D. M. Copeland, Mrs. E. E. Hurley, Miss Omah Bivins and Mrs. D. B. Fiske; alternates, Mrs. C. E. Walcott, Mrs. R. S. Milliken, Mrs. D. W. Kelly, Mrs. W. Byargeon, Mrs. R. E. Gowan, Mrs. W. O. Golson and Mrs. Otto Lee.

COLLEGE CLUBS PLAN PROGRAM

Dallas Goss To Present Glee Clubs In Concert Tuesday Night

The men's and women's glee clubs of Northeast Junior college will be presented in concert Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in the college auditorium by Dallas Goss, instructor of voice.

The program will feature small ensembles, solos and novelty numbers, and will include both classical and popular selections.

The concert has a two-fold purpose, Mr. Goss said, to give the people of Monroe and surrounding territory an opportunity to hear some of the work accomplished by the music department of the college, and to finance the trip to Baton Rouge May 12 when the groups will take part in the music fiesta at Louisiana State university to celebrate 25 years of service by Dr. H. W. Stopher, head of the L. S. U. music school.

Other college glee clubs throughout the state will participate in the week-long special music program.

"Dr. Stopher is one of the most outstanding and influential music educators of the south," Mr. Goss said, "and there is hardly a music department in any school of the state that does not have on its faculty former students who have been under the instruction and guidance of his dynamic personality."

Mr. Goss studied for three years under Dr. Stopher and received his master's degree from the L. S. U. school of music.

The trip to Baton Rouge will be made on the college buses and students will leave early on the morning of May 12 to return that night following their performance.

Tickets to the performance at the junior college Tuesday are being sold by members of the glee clubs.

DIRECTOR

NEEDY CHILDREN AIDED BY CHEST

Four Thousand Dollars Expended For Food And Clothing Here

Needy children of 12 schools in Monroe and West Monroe received more than $4,000 worth of food and clothing during the past seven months through the Twin City Community Chest allotment to the Parent-Teacher association council and welfare clinic, figures released Saturday show.

The chest's budget to the council for the 1939-40 fiscal year totalled $4,488.53, paid at the rate of $641.25 per month over the past seven months, due to the fiscal year of the chest beginning on November 1, and the school term ending with the month of May.

Before the last campaign for funds, each school sent representatives to a meeting of the chest's board to present budgets, following which the chest accepted the 12 schools and welfare clinic as one agency.

A check for $641.25 has been issued monthly to the P.-T. A. council with the president of the council authorized by the chest's board to apportion the funds to each school and the clinic according to the school budgets presented to and approved by the board.

The program through which the money was used to feed and clothe the needy children in all of the schools of Monroe was characterized by the chest board as "a splendid charitable work, giving only to helpless little children."

CLARKS SENIOR CROWNED QUEEN AT MAY FESTIVAL

CLARKS, May 4.—(Special)—Miss Letain Knowles, a member of the Clarks High school senior class, was crowned queen of the May by C. C. Sheppard, president and general manager of the Louisiana Central Lumber company at Clarks before a large gathering assembled from throughout the parish to witness this annual festival.

The celebration, directed by Miss Dora Cooksey of the Clarks school faculty, was held at the local athletic field on Friday at sunset. Students from Columbia, Grayson, Kelly and Clarks schools were included in the cast. Music was furnished by the Caldwell parish band and the parish glee club. Mrs. Clinton Miller was pianist for the dances and choral numbers.

The queen's court included queen of the May, Miss Letain Knowles; maid of honor, Miss Birdie Helen May; Miss Clarks, Miss Wanda Ballard; Miss Popularity, Miss Virginia Eason; Miss Columbia, Miss Mary Estess Jones; Miss Grayson, Miss Gwendolyn Cruse; Miss Kelly, Miss Evelyn Mayes, May Princess, Miss Bobbie Jean Smith.

THROWN RIDER RECOVERING

FERRIDAY, La., May 4.—(Special)—Miss June Bryant, a student of the local high school, is recovering from recent injuries received while she was riding her trick pony. She was thrown from the horse and sustained four bone fractures.

SPEAKER DINNER HERE

Stanford To Make Principal Talk At Goodwill Banquet

The complete program for the Goodwill dinner to be given to 450 businessmen of northeast Louisiana by the Missouri Pacific Boosters club on May has not been formulated, Chief Booster S. A. Moss said yesterday, but those in attendance are certain to enjoy the principal address.

J. E. Stanford, editor and publisher of the Southern Agriculturalist, of Nashville, Tenn., is an outstanding author, lecturer and humorist. Mr. Stanford will make the principal address at the dinner, which will be held at the Virginia hotel, starting at 7 o'clock Wednesday night. A goodwill ball will follow at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Stanford is a native of Texas and although he has specialized in the study of farm problems, he is well versed in other subjects and has addressed many meetings of businessmen.

Mr. Stanford first set up rural rehabilitation in Texas, and many of his ideas were later embodied in the national farm program, it was said.

Following his success in Texas, Mr. Stanford established the Southern Agriculturalist at Nashville. The paper now has a circulation of over one million.

SPEAKER

J. E. STANFORD

Mr. Stanford is exceptionally successful as an after-dinner speaker, combining rare wit with sound logic.

A number of high officials of the railroad will be present for the dinner, Mr. Moss said, and elaborate preparations are being made for the many guests.

DELEGATES APPOINTED

OAK GROVE, La., May 4.—(Special)—Mrs. E. E. Hurley, president of Catron-Kelly unit No. 53, American Legion auxiliary, has appointed members of the unit to serve as delegates and alternates to the convention being held in Shreveport on June 7, 8, 9. The delegates are Mrs. Mae E. Kelly, Mrs. Arden B. Smith, Mrs. I. M. McCurdy, Mrs. D. M. Copeland, Mrs. E. E. Hurley, Miss Omah Bivins and Mrs. D. B. Fiske; alternates, Mrs. C. E. Walcott, Mrs. R. S. Milliken, Mrs. D. W. Kelly, Mrs. W. Byargeon, Mrs. R. E. Gowan, Mrs. W. O. Golson and Mrs. Otto Lee.

COLLEGE CLUBS PLAN PROGRAM

Dallas Goss To Present Glee Clubs In Concert Tuesday Night

The men's and women's glee clubs of Northeast Junior college will be presented in concert Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in the college auditorium by Dallas Goss, instructor of voice.

The program will feature small ensembles, solos and novelty numbers, and will include both classical and popular selections.

The concert has a two-fold purpose, Mr. Goss said, to give the people of Monroe and surrounding territory an opportunity to hear some of the work accomplished by the music department of the college, and to finance the trip to Baton Rouge May 12 when the groups will take part in the music fiesta at Louisiana State university to celebrate 25 years of service by Dr. H. W. Stopher, head of the L. S. U. music school.

Other college glee clubs throughout the state will participate in the week-long special music program.

"Dr. Stopher is one of the most outstanding and influential music educators of the south," Mr. Goss said, "and there is hardly a music department in any school of the state that does not have on its faculty former students who have been under the instruction and guidance of his dynamic personality."

DIRECTOR

Dallas Goss, instructor in voice at Northeast Junior college, will present the men's and women's glee clubs in a concert Tuesday night.

Mr. Goss studied for three years under Dr. Stopher and received his master's degree from the L. S. U. school of music.

The trip to Baton Rouge will be made on the college buses and students will leave early on the morning of May 12 to return that night following their performance.

Tickets to the performance at the junior college Tuesday are being sold by members of the glee clubs.

NEEDY CHILDREN AIDED BY CHEST

Four Thousand Dollars Expended For Food And Clothing Here

Needy children of 12 schools in Monroe and West Monroe received more than $4,000 worth of food and clothing during the past seven months through the Twin City Community Chest allotment to the Parent-Teacher association council and welfare clinic, figured released Saturday show.

The chest's budget to the council for the 1939-40 fiscal year totalled $4,488.53, paid at the rate of $641.25 per month over the past seven months, due to the fiscal year of the chest beginning on November 1, and the school term ending with the month of May.

Before the last campaign for funds, each school sent representatives to a meeting of the chest's board to present budgets, following which the chest accepted the 12 schools and welfare clinic as one agency.

A check for $641.25 has been issued monthly to the P.-T. A. council with the president of the council authorized by the chest's board to apportion the funds to each school and the clinic according to the school budgets presented to and approved by the board.

The program through which the money was used to feed and clothe the needy children in all of the schools of Monroe was characterized by the chest board as "a splendid charitable work, giving only to helpless little children."

CLARKS SENIOR CROWNED QUEEN AT MAY FESTIVAL

CLARKS, May 4.—(Special)—Miss Letain Knowles, a member of the Clarks High school senior class, was crowned queen of the May by C. C. Sheppard, president and general manager of the Louisiana Central Lumber company at Clarks before a large gathering assembled from throughout the parish to witness this annual festival.

The celebration, directed by Miss Dora Cooksey of the Clarks school faculty, was held at the local athletic field on Friday at sunset. Students from Columbia, Grayson, Kelly and Clarks schools were included in the cast. Music was furnished by the Caldwell parish band and the parish glee club. Mrs. Clinton Miller was pianist for the dances and choral numbers.

The queen's court included queen of the May, Miss Letain Knowles; maid of honor, Miss Birdie Helen May; Miss Clarks, Miss Wanda Ballard; Miss Popularity, Miss Virginia Eason; Miss Columbia, Miss Mary Estess Jones; Miss Grayson, Miss Gwendolyn Cruse; Miss Kelly, Miss Evelyn Mayes, May Princess, Miss Bobbie Jean Smith.

THROWN RIDER RECOVERING

FERRIDAY, La., May 4.—(Special)—Miss June Bryant, a student of the local high school, is recovering from recent injuries received while she was riding her trick pony. She was thrown from the horse and sustained four bone fractures.
